PRESIDENT ACCLAIMED

Coolidge Bows at Nation's Shrine

Loyalty to Institutions of America Urged in Address at Sesquicentennial

Celebration of Independence Recalled to Thousands as Spiritual Document

PHILADELPHIA, July 5. (AP)—Loyalty to American institutions and the spiritual and moral forces which gave them into existence was urged by President Coolidge today in speaking at exercises of nation-wide significance, which marked the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Coming from Washington with Mrs. Coolidge and an official party, the President testified to his appreciation of the significance of the sentimental of the birth of the nation. He spoke in the huge auditorium on the grounds of the Sesquicentennial Exposition, and visited Independence Hall and the points of historic interest.

Waiting for a few minutes late in the afternoon, the President planted a maple tree, the native State of Vermont, on the grounds of the Exposition and then formally accepted from the Commissioner of Commerce and Commerce, Hoover, the transportation of the Long Beach Harbor.

Following the banquet, the President will be taken to the Hotel Virginia, where he will be entertained by the Chamber of Commerce and Commerce, local newspaper men, Mr. Stevens of the Chamber of Commerce and Commerce, and Mr. Willis R. Crook, manager of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Hundreds of thousands acclaimed the chief executive throughout the day, the ovation which began lightly before his arrival increased to a steady roar before his departure, failed to dim the enthusiasm of the ovation. Although drenched, the crowds that lined the streets remained for hours to glimpse the President and Mrs. Coolidge. They were held in check by United States soldiers, sailors and marines, as well as Navy lieutenants and police.

SPEAKS IN RAIN

Coolidge donned a black slicker for the latter moments of the parade, leaving his automobile to enter buildings, during his stay in Philadelphia, to the greetings of the throngs who stood bareheaded in the rain for forty minutes to hear his address at the stadium when the rain was driven into their faces.

Following the Declaration of Independence as a great spiritual document, the President declared at the Liberty Bell that its principles were the basis of the religious teachings of the preceding period, and asserted that we are to maintain the great

TIGER GIRL FETED ON BIRTHDAY

Clara Phillips Object of Surprise Party Given in Prison by Other Women

SAN QUENTIN, July 5 (AP)—Seventy-four women inmates of San Quentin prison gave a "surprise" birthday party today for Clara Phillips, sentenced more than three years ago for the death of Alberta Meadows at Los Angeles.

Each of the seventy-four women prisoners had a gift for Mrs. Phillips and no one but her prison hostesses attended the party. No invitations were extended to "outsiders." Mrs. Phillips's birthday, her twenty-seventh, fell on June 23, but prison rules prevented celebration of the occasion until today.

Matrons gave their official permission for the party and helped the women in getting Clara out of her cell long enough to decorate it with ribbon and flowers and set a table for six. In addition to roast beef and other dishes of the holiday variety, sugar and milk, rare commodities on the prison menu, were served.

A long letter from her husband, Armour Phillips, was in the midst of her presents.

Serbian Editor and Nationalist Chief Murdered

BELGRADE, July 5 (Exclusive—Hadji Poprik, editor of the newspaper Southern Star, was shot and killed last night on the busiest street of Monaster, capital of South Serbia.

M. Poprik was the leader of the Serbian Nationalists of the south and a great enemy to Bulgarian and Greek propaganda. He probably was shot by adherents to the latter movements.

Two passersby were wounded seriously by stray shots, while the assailants escaped in the turmoil.

WOMAN HURT DURING BATTLE WITH EAGLE

VANCOUVER, (B. C.) June 5. (Exclusive)—Bruised and cut, but not seriously hurt, Mrs. A. McCorvie was injured in a battle with an eagle at her home near Kamloops, B. C. Hearing a commotion in her chicken-house, she rushed there with an ax, to be confronted by the eagle. A blow on the head finally killed the bird, which measures seven feet from tip to tip, the largest eagle ever seen in that locality.

FIVE DIE IN AUTO CRASH

SEA YIELDS DEATH SHIP

Fatal Submarine S-51 Raised

Craft Containing Bodies of Twenty-four Started for Navy Yard

Salvage From Twenty-two Fathoms Greatest Feat in Marine History

ABOARD U.S.S. VESTAL, AT SEA OFF BLOCK ISLAND, July 5. (Exclusive)—The United States Navy ingenuity has robbed the sea of the S-51 and her dead. The submarine was lifted twenty-two fathoms out of her grave off Block Island today after nine unbroken months of planning and labor.

Eight giant pontoons kicking up a mountain of mud-flecked foam before them lifted her to the surface at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Compressed air from twenty high-pressure lines had been bumped into them for two hours and forty-two minutes. An hour after she rose three tugs were marching down the horizon with their prize toward Point Judith and the New York navy yard to open the submarine and reconstruct as far as possible the record of the fatal collision with the steamer City of Rome, last September 25.

No attempt to open her will be made until the navy yard is reached. There will be discovered the fate of the twenty-four of her crew whose bodies never have been found. Though she was raised today with the precision of a clock, the effort was made a day earlier than had been anticipated because of adverse weather reports. She came up stern first, and floated on an almost even keel in a chain-made cradle between the pontoons.

MARINE FEAT

Nothing like the raising of the submarine ever has been accomplished in marine history. Persistence contributed as much to the victory as ingenuity.

Two previous attempts failed, one with derricks soon after she was sunk, and the second with the pontoons thirteen days ago. Ever since the S-51 went down, when bad weather suspended the operations over her, work has been transferred to the laboratory and the drafting board. The best the Navy had in engineering genius was given to the task of salvage. Capt. E. J. King, in charge of New London marine base, and a force of about 600 men, have been constantly at work since April 25 on the project.

Their plans went through without a flaw today. Though a stiff breeze blew from the southeast and a heavy ground swells were running the 1000-ton ship came up on a more level keel than was expected and started her journey down the coast with every prospect of success.

All the salvage fleet from New London base, two submarines, three tugs, two minesweepers and the machine ship Vestal, were mobilized for today's efforts.

Capt. King had favored tomorrow morning for the attempt, but, alarmed by the freshening breeze and prospects of rough weather, he swiftly altered his orders and sent the first diver down at 4:30 o'clock this morning.

AIR SENT IN

The last one came up shortly before noon and at 12:17 o'clock the high-pressure lines from the tug Falcon began to pump into the water-filled pontoons moored to the S-51. Four of the twenty lines also ran into the compartments of the sunken submarine. Much of the action in today's victory took place underssea. The best of the divers from both coasts had been summoned to aid W. F. (Skinny) Loughman, a cripple from injuries received when he broke the deep-sea record in diving to the submarine P-4, sunk off Honolulu in 1915, was in charge of divers' controls aboard ship. Chief Torpedoman J. W. Ingram, crack diver from the Newport torpedo station, got ten days' leave to come to the S-51 when his commanders at Newport said they could not spare him from experimental work.

The divers went below in relays of twos to inspect the pontoons and chains, straighten out the air lines and look for any flaws in the complicated arrangements. The last to go over, Thomas E. Adie, a veteran recalled from civilian retirement for this operation, went down shortly after 11 o'clock. The air pumps started as soon as he signaled "all well," and when he reported to Commander Ellsborg he said: "Commander, I leaned my cheek against her stern and said 'good-by, baby, I'll see you again in Brooklyn.'"

Stirling Letter Tells of Traces of Pygmy Race

BERKELEY, July 5. (AP)—A Smithsonian Institution expedition which is making airplane flights over the remote sections of New Guiana to trace a race of pygmies has discovered camp fires, village clearings and other evidence of the existence of the diminutive people.

This information was conveyed in a letter received here today by Mrs. J. W. Stirling, mother of Matthew Stirling, former graduate of the University of California, who is in charge of the expedition.

The first airplane flight over the territory under exploration, the letter said, discovered many small clearings, apparently village sites, and the smoke of many small fires was observed rising from the thick undergrowth which covers the country.

A second flight mapped additional clearings and trails and camp fires. Stirling expressed the belief the expedition soon will pick up more definite evidence of the existence of the pygmies.

Runic Paintings on Boulder Near Spokane Recount Norse Fight With Indians 1000 Years Ago

SPOKANE, July 5. (AP)—Bearing a thrilling description of a great conflict between Indians and Norsemen nearly 1000 years ago, a huge painted boulder near Spokane's city limits told a story of the past today to Prof. Olaf Opsjon, author of many articles on Norse history.

The paintings, believed for years by many persons to have been the work of Indians, are runic characters describing a battle in which twelve Norsemen were killed, the former Norwegian university professor announced today.

Although hundreds of persons have seen the paintings during the last few years, no efforts had been made to translate them until last week, when Mrs. Margaret Amundsen Reynolds of Spokane studied the writings.

Mrs. Reynolds, who has studied Norse history for years, believed the paintings to be runic characters, and requested Prof. Opsjon to visit the rock. Mr. Opsjon quickly verified her translations and declared the boulder also marked the burial mound of the twelve Norsemen killed.

"In all the runic inscriptions I have been able to translate, as they are found on rocks from Labrador and the New England States, through Canada and the United States to Alaska and Puget Sound, some of them dating back to a period before the Christian era, I have never before found a record so filled with thrilling description of action as this one almost within the city limits of Spokane," Opsjen declared.

The professor told of the battle by a cool spring near the boulder and how twelve of the Norse party escaped after twelve had been killed and six of the seven women captured and the other woman and her baby hurled to death from the rock. Six of the survivors later came back, buried the dead, and wrote the story of the battle.

"This record still further substantiates my previous claims that the Norse had been in America in num-

BISHOPS' CRUSADE PLANNED

Goal of 100,000 Members for Episcopal Church Set in Nation Wide Campaign Program

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—The Protestant Episcopal church was called "as idle as a painted picture" in an open letter issued today by a group of bishops and other leaders of the Episcopal church. Full approval of the letter was contained in a statement from Presiding Bishop John Gardner Murray, which was appended.

The letter announced that a nation-wide campaign, to be known as the bishops' crusade, will be launched next spring to bring the Episcopal Church to great effectiveness.

"The church today," the letter asserts, "is incomparably rich in money, organization, influence, power, and yet it is failing to produce anything like apostolic results. For example, our communion with its 135 bishops, more than 5000 priests and more than 1,000,000 communicants obtained a net gain last year of only 28,000 members, which means that with all our resources it took fifty persons to add one communicant.

SOMETHING HELD WRONG

"Something is radically wrong with the church. The trouble lies deep. It has little to do with material resources, organization or membership, but rather with the spirit. So long have we allowed people to think of the church as ministering chiefly to their own spiritual needs that it will take both time and effort to change that attitude. They must learn that instead of merely sheep to be tended, they are primarily soldiers enlisted in desperate warfare. This applies to laymen as well as clergy."

The remedy suggested for this situation is a gigantic evangelistic campaign to be inaugurated in the spring of 1927 which would be carried on throughout the nation much after the method of a political campaign.

A tentative goal of 100,000 new members is suggested by the leaders, who are already at work on plans for the campaign.

SIGNERS OF LETTER

The letter was signed by Bishop Thomas C. Darst of South Carolina, chairman of the National Commission of Evangelism; Bishop Irving P. Johnson of Colorado, bishop coadjutor; G. Ashton Oldham of Albany, Bishop James E. Freeman of Washington, Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins of Philadelphia, Rev. Arthur J. Gammack of Fitchburg, Mass., Rev. John S. Bunting of St. Louis, Rev. G. R. E. MacDonald of Fresno, Courtney Barber of Chicago, Willard Warner of East Lake, Tenn., John Stewart Bryan, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association of Richmond, Va., and by Samuel Thorn of New York.

Announcing that "the foregoing message has my hearty approval," Bishop Murray wrote: "It warms my heart and I am sure will inspire the whole church to prayer for and performance of the great work it proposes and emphasizes. May God prosper it where unto it is sent."

Bishop Darst has been selected to lead the campaign, which will be known as the "bishops' crusade."

Pilsudski Under Fire First Time in Parliament

WARSAW, July 5. (Exclusive)—The first storm against the Pilsudski dictatorship broke out in the Sejm (Parliament) which met tonight. The first public man to raise a voice in criticism of the Pilsudski regime was the Socialist Deputy, M. Daszynski, who made a bitter denunciation of the revolutionary government, asserting it was a government of confusion and that the people of Poland do not yet know how far the demoralization extends in all branches of the administration.

The Deputy pointed out that Marshal Pilsudski has now been in power almost seven weeks and has not only stopped the work of the previous government, but has instituted no new work and that no policy has been announced, declaring that nothing has been done.

This is the first serious breach between the dictator and the left parties, from whom he previously had drawn his principal supporters. The storm broke today simultaneously with the opening in the offices of the Finance Ministry of the Kemmerer commission of American experts, who are here on the invitation of the deposed government.

NEW QUAKE IN SUMATRA KILLS MANY

More Than 400 Perish as Shock Wrecks Buildings in Island Coast Town

PADANG (Sumatra) July 5. (AP)—More than 400 persons were killed in a fresh earthquake which wrecked several buildings at Fort Dekock. The inhabitants were panic-stricken.

Fort Dekock is a half-day's journey by rail or about sixty miles from Padang, the capital on the west coast of the Island of Sumatra. Less than 100 Europeans had their residences in Fort Dekock. Padang is a city of 100,000 population of whom 2000 are Europeans.

A week ago today an earthquake shook Sumatra. It is estimated that at least 200 persons were killed in the town of Panjang which was destroyed last week.

Students Sought as Cannon Blast Endangers Pair

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5. (Exclusive.)—A child and a woman were imperiled yesterday when an ancient cannon, fired by some one at the Alpha Chi fraternity house, Berkeley, exploded and hurled pieces of the shattered muzzle through the roof of the home of Mrs. A. E. Palmer at 3615 Channing Way. One of the pieces of steel passed close to Mrs. Palmer's daughter, Edna, 5 years of age, as she was playing in the yard. An investigation by police revealed the shattered cannon in the rear yard of the fraternity house, which adjoins the rear of the Palmer property.

At the fraternity house only one member was found. He said he knew nothing of the explosion. The police left instructions with the student that unless members of the fraternity appeared voluntarily at police headquarters, the entire membership will be arrested.

Planes Unable to Locate Body of Lake Rescuer

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5. (AP)—Two United States Air Mail pilots after circling Donner Lake in an effort to locate the body of Robert Van Horn Gowing, who was drowned after saving the lives of seven persons in a capsized boat, Saturday, reported that they had been unable to sight the body. Efforts to locate the body by means of grappling hooks also were unsuccessful.

Gowing was piloting the boat when it capsized and he aided the rest of the party in finding a safe place on the hull. Just as he had succeeded in rescuing the last member, a child, he went down and failed to reappear.

NEW YORK'S STRIKE ON

Key Workers of Subway Quit

Seven Hundred of 14,000 Out; Disruption Expected in Morning Rush Hour

Night Service Cut to Some Extent But Few Trains Continue Running

NEW YORK, July 6 (Tuesday) (Exclusive)—The strike of the motormen and switchmen of the subway division of the Interborough Rapid Transit began officially at 12:01 this morning.

The immediate effect of the strike, however, was not felt, as members of the Consolidated Railroad Workers, a new organization formed by the company an "outlaw" union formed by the strikers, ran all trains to the terminals instead of leaving them at the nearest station, as had been planned originally.

Only about 700 men out of the 14,000 employees of the Interborough system quit their work, but as they held the key positions of motormen and switchmen, subway officials anticipated considerable disruption to the service during the morning rush hour today. Night service was curtailed somewhat, but a few trains were kept in operation.

Meantime some 500 nonunion workers were brought in from Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston were instructed in the duties of motormen. These men were housed in specially constructed quarters at the One Hundred and Forty-eighth-street yards, where cots and long tables for eating were set up.

SUBWAYS AFFECTED

The subways affected are on the only underground transportation lines north of Sixtieth street in Manhattan, but they are paralleled for the most part by elevated lines operated by the same company. There was no indication that the elevated motormen would join in the strike, although that service was curtailed somewhat by the transfer of experienced motormen to the subway trains.

These subways handle the bulk of travelers from the northern sections of Manhattan, Harlem and the Bronx, delivering them to the great office buildings in Wall street and Lower Broadway. The East Side lines reach as far north as Pelham Bay and Woodlawn, while the West Side subways extend north to the city line of Mount Vernon and to Van Courtlandt Park at Two Hundred and Forty-second street. Although they run under the East River into Brooklyn, their lines in that borough are not extensive and Brooklyn residents can, for the most part, be diverted to the subways of Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, which, however, only extends as far north as Central Park in Manhattan.

Efforts of the transit commission to avert the strike by arbitrating the demand of the men for higher wages broke largely upon the question of recognition of the Consolidated Railroad Workers, the new union formed by the strikers, who were formerly members of the Local No. 7 of the Interborough Rapid Transit Employees, a company union. The general committee of the brotherhood vetoed two proposals for arbitration, one by the transit commission and the other by a board of arbitrators to be appointed in accordance with the provisions of the brotherhood's constitution and agreement with the company, and Mr. Hedley informed the transit commission that he would have to risk a strike by several hundred men whom he could replace, rather than a strike by more than 12,000 man, the brotherhood members, which, he declared, would tie up the entire system.

This objection of the brotherhood to any recognition of what they characterized as an "outlaw union" was given in reply of P. J. Connolly, the brotherhood president, when asked by the transit commissioners to consent to arbitration.

STRIKE CALLED "FLIVVER"

"This is no strike; it's a flivver," he replied. "There will be only about 100 men out and they have no grievances. If they have, they can submit them at our next meeting and we will take them up. If there is going to be any strike, I will lead it. I ran the last strike and I will run the next."

The strikers demand $1 an hour for motormen and 75 cents for switchmen. First-year motormen now are

'AVENGERS' SEND NOTE

Contents of Letter Reported From Pastor's Kidnapers Retained as Secret

Evangelist Discloses Fears of Another Abduction; Officials in Parley

A letter, ostensively from the kidnapers who demanded $500,000 for the safe return of Aimee Semple McPherson, has been received in Los Angeles and is in the hands of local investigators, it was learned from reliable sources last night by The Times.

What the detailed contents of the letter are could not be learned authoritatively, but it is understood that the writers advanced a proposition that they wish brought to the attention of Mrs. McPherson and her mother.

When questioned regarding the letter, Mrs. Kennedy was noncommittal last night. It was learned, however, that Nick Harris, head of the private detective agency bearing his name and employed to assist in the investigation by Mrs. McPherson and her mother, yesterday held a long conference with his clients and during the interval examined a great number of letters bearing on the case that had been received at Angelus Temple.

REFUSES COMMENT

Harris, notwithstanding, refused to deny or affirm that such a letter had been received, or to verify the report that it was signed "Avengers," the signature used on other ransom letters received at the temple before the reappearance of Mrs. McPherson.

Despite the refusal of principals in the case to discuss the arrival of the letter, it nevertheless was regarded as the outstanding development in the McPherson case investigation yesterday.

"If such a letter was turned over to me I would regard it as highly important and give it immediate consideration," declared Chief of Detectives Cline. "However, the matter has not been brought to my attention."

Cline's record to the reports surrounding the mystery letter was information contained in dispatches from San Francisco about the movements of that city—John L. McNab and William J. Gloria—had left by automobile for Los Angeles on a mission connected with the McPherson case.

When asked whether they had been retained to represent the interests of Angelus Temple, Mrs. Kennedy last night was evasive.

"A great many people are working on this case," she declared, "and it might be possible that the San Francisco attorneys have been retained by some one."

PURSUE INQUIRY

Regarding the possible voluntary appearance of herself and her daughter before the county grand jury when it meets today, a possibility that has been intimated before, Mrs. Kennedy also made no direct answer but her replies indicated that such a move is unlikely.

"All we could do would be repeat the same story to them and that would do no more good than has already been accomplished," she said. "However, we have hired detectives and competent attorneys to pursue a determined investigation and may in the course of a few days have something concrete to offer."

It was indicated last night that all official authorities will pool the evidence they have collected during weeks of investigation and probably present it both to the county and Federal grand juries. This would include material from the local police department, District Attorney's office, postal inspectors and United States Attorney's office.

It is known that Albert Lucas, chief criminal deputy in the United States District Attorney's office, yesterday held a lengthy conference with Capt. Cline, the details of which were not revealed, although it was admitted that their discussion was in connection with the case. Lucas, it is expected, will be active in the investigation to be conducted by the Federal authorities.

While these matters were developing, it was learned that a second attempt to "make away" with Mrs. McPherson is feared by the leaders of Angelus Temple.

That the evangelist is living in constant fear of being kidnaped again or even of losing her life, is the assertion of Mrs. Minnie

CUPID RACES DEATH IN AIR

Plane Carries Suitor to Girl's Bedside 1000 Miles Away as Rival Loses Fight for Single Seat

CHICAGO, July 5. (Exclusive)—Miss Ileta Leggett, young and pretty Chicago art student, lay near death at St. Elizabeth's Hospital here after an operation for appendicitis. A thousand miles away, at Fort Worth, Tex., two men, Joseph Gerock, an oil man, and Charles Fox, bank cashier of Wichita Falls, had the same impulse to rush to her bedside to renew in her dying hours their pledges of love and devotion.

They met at the postoffice, each seeking a permit to ride in the air-mail plane which flies daily between Dallas and Chicago. A permit could be had, they were told, but only one could ride. The permit was issued in blank.

Hours of debate as to which should use the permit followed. Gerock finally won out. Fox drove his rival to the flying field in his own car, shook hands with him and, saying: "tell her I love her," fainted and was taken to a hospital in a state of collapse.

Gerock, riding in the forward cockpit behind the hot motors, arrived in Chicago today. He was admitted to the hospital this afternoon and carried out his compact with his rival, delivering Fox's message along with his own. He refused to tell how the fateful decision was reached, as to which would be perhaps the last to see the girl both loved. The flip of a coin, the draw of a card, or even personal combat may have decided the issue, but Gerock kept the secret.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Ileta Leggett of Fort Worth, also is at her bedside after reaching Chicago by a combination rail and air journey. She tried vainly to charter a special plane at Fort Worth, and then took a train. At Moline, Ill., several hours ride from this city, she was picked up by a friend of the family of Allerton, Iowa, who owns a private plane, and brought to Chicago by air.

Miss Leggett, cheered by the presence of her mother and her suitor, and the message from another, was said tonight to have a chance for recovery, although her condition is serious.

DESERTION TRIAL OF AMERICAN POSTPONED

BEIRUT (Syria) July 5. (AP)—The trial of Bennett J. Doty of Memphis, Tenn., imprisoned here for deserting from the Foreign Legion, has been postponed indefinitely. The date of the trial had been fixed originally for the 7th inst. It is announced in authoritative quarters that Doty's case is less grave than at first believed. A new version of his story has been given out, that he was taken prisoner by the Druse Arbeemen while absent without leave.

POPE ASKS PRAYER TO END PERSECUTION IN MEXICO

Letter Sent Throughout World Urges All Catholics to Unite in Special Pleas on August 1

ROME, July 5. (AP)—Pope Pius, through the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Gasparri, sent a circular letter today to the Holy See's representatives throughout the world, urging all Catholics to unite in special prayers on August 1, next, for the cessation of the Mexican government's persecution of Catholics and for divine pardon of those guilty or ordering and carrying out measures which are characterized as illegal, unjust and inhuman.

The letter, which is couched in unusually vehement language, asserts the necessity of increasing prayers for Mexican Catholics, against whom the campaign of persecution is becoming more intense, rather than lessening, despite the Pontiff's expressions of sorrow in his consistorial allocution December 14, 1925.

The date, August 1, is chosen because it is the festival of "Saint Peter-in-Chains," in whose name the faithful in the time of early persecutions prayed to obtain miraculous divine intercession, and also the beginning of "the indulgence of Portiuncula," which this year will have special solemnity because it coincides with the seventh centenary of Saint Francis Assisi.

CONTENDS OF LETTER

"The Holy See," says the letter, "continues its reserve on the grave news of the gruesome treatment of the church in Mexico, where under a hypocritical form of pretended legality, those controlling the government of this unhappy nation are carrying out true and real persecution against the Catholic religion.

"It is not necessary to recall the grave and dolorous facts daily multiplying in Mexico, since, while the seminaries of other religious are permitted widest liberty, this liberty is denied Catholics in a fashion which would dishonor any civilized people.

"The Mexican government, in fact, not only refuses to permit the residence in Mexico of the Pontifical representative, but has gone so far as to expel the apostolic delegate, Monsignor Garunera, asserting false and calumnious motives.

EXPULSIONS ASSAILED

"Moreover, expulsions of prelates and foreign religious persons, even sisters, are continuing in a fashion more inhumane than would be adopted even against the most vulgar malefactor. The number of domestic prelates and dioceses has been limited arbitrarily; colleges and seminaries have been closed and conditions unacceptable to their conscience have been imposed upon them as preliminary to the exercise of their ministry. Churches from which prelates have been violently driven out have been occupied by the civil authorities on the pretense that they have been abandoned."

The letter recalls the Pope's recognition of the situation on December 14, 1925, when he declared he was praying daily for his Mexican children, and his recent personal letter addressed to Cardinal Pompili, vicar of Rome, urging Catholics throughout the world to pray for the afflicted Mexicans.

NECESSITY FOR PRAYERS

"Now, however," the letter goes on, "since the afflictions of our Mexican brothers continue, it is necessary to increase the prayers for them; wherefore the Pontiff desires the faithful to be invited to join him in prayers on August 1."

The letter concludes, after pointing out the special significance of the coincidence of the date with St. Peter's festival and St. Francis's centenary: "All these circumstances will undoubtedly have influence, in that the prayers of the faithful for the cessation of the persecution and the pardon of the guilty will be more fervid and will be accepted by God. The Pontiff provided that these intentions be added to the others in the bull, which extends the holy year to the whole world."

MORELIA REPORTS GIRLS' SCHOOL CLOSED

MEXICO CITY, July 5. (AP)—Special dispatches from Morelia state that government officials have closed the College Teresiano—a girls' school having about 400 pupils—on charges of violating the constitutional clauses prohibiting religious instruction.

Efforts are being made to reach an agreement for reopening the school on condition that religious teaching is eliminated. Such a compromise has been reached at several schools which have hitherto been closed.

Senatorial Voting Brings on Fatal Fights as Troops Rush to Restore Order

MEXICO CITY, July 5. (AP)—Several persons were killed and several wounded in two disturbances that accompanied the Senatorial elections throughout Mexico, it has been reported to the Department of Interior.

Deputy Luis Dominguez was killed and Deputy Angel Ibarra was wounded at Oaxaca, the department was informed in a telegram which gave no details.

Federal troops had to intervene in a clash between opposing political factions at Tehuantepec, in which several were killed and wounded.

A few quarrels were reported at the polls in Mexico City, but no fight resulted as the police succeeded in promptly separating the belligerents.

The confederation of the regional parties had one political opponent arrested on a charge of firing a revolver at confederation headquarters from a passing automobile.

The Socialist and Labor parties are leading in the Senatorial and Congressional elections. No definite returns indicating the composition of the next Congress have been received, but it is considered likely that the Socialists and Laborites will be in control.

The Federal government may take action against the Governors and other authorities in several States where there were asserted irregularities in yesterday's balloting.

DRY CZAR CONS POSSIBLE HEIRS

Retiring Chief Believed to Have Successor in Mind

Gen. Andrews to Confer With Mellon on Candidates

Ex-New York Military Chief Mentioned for Post

WASHINGTON, July 5 (Exclusive) Gen. John F. O'Ryan, former military head of New York State, was mentioned today as a possible successor of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Federal dry chief.

While Gen. Andrews will not definitely decide when he will leave the service until after he has a conference with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon tomorrow morning, it was learned today that the general has already tentatively selected the man whom he will recommend as his successor.

REFUSES NAMES

Gen. Andrews refused to divulge the names of the men whom he has in mind, but it was learned that Gen. O'Ryan, Dr. J. M. Doran, chief of the industrial alcohol and chemical division, and one of the Federal administrators in the Southern States, have been considered as possibilities.

It also developed that Gen. Andrews may postpone his resignation for the present in order to save the administration from embarrassment in enforcing the prohibition laws. The report has gone out that the resignation of Gen. Andrews at this time is likely to result in a wholesale exodus from the dry forces which might seriously cripple the machine he has built up during the past year.

Following the resignation of Edgar R. Ray, administrator for Western Pennsylvania, it developed today that Walton Green, chief of investigators for the prohibition department, has also turned in his resignation. Mr. Green came into the service as a personal friend of Gen. Andrews and was appointed to check up on the great violators of the dry laws.

TO LEAVE FOR ENGLAND

Following his conference with Secretary Mellon, Mr. Andrews will leave for England, where he will attempt to make arrangements which will materially shut out the English rum supply.

Possibility that the Andrews dry bills for tightening up enforcement failed because of the weakness in Congress of the Anti-Saloon League was advanced today by W. H. Stayton, national chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Mr. Stayton warmly praised Andrews.

"Gen. Andrews certainly has cause to believe," he said, "either that the Anti-Saloon League has deliberately withheld the co-operation which he needs to get bills through Congress, or that the league's control of the votes of approximately 383 Representatives and eighty Senators is a myth. If Congress is as dry as the league would have us believe, the Goff bill would have passed."

RAY CHARGES OUSTER CONSPIRACY

PITTSBURGH, July 5. (AP)—Edgar R. Ray, prohibition administrator for Western Pennsylvania, who submitted his resignation Saturday to Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury, said today that efforts had been made to force him from the prohibition department after his appointment as the successor of Frederick C. Baird.

Ray issued a statement describing his conference Saturday with Gen. Andrews, and, in discussing it with newspaper men, said that while he was working under Mr. Baird, he got the facts "on four or five big alcohol conspiracy cases."

"Since I became administrator they have been unable to get permits," he said. "It is interesting to speculate on what will happen to those cases after I'm gone." He said that efforts have been made "to have me thrown out of here and to force me to give those people permits," adding "and there were men back of it big enough to have breakfast with the President of the United States."

Ray also touched upon the assertion in his Washington statement, issued when his resignation was announced, that the Eighteenth Amendment was "the biggest swindle that was ever perpetrated in this country." In that connection, his statement today asked, "If the Sixty-ninth Congress of the United States is a dry one, what will happen when 'we have a wet one,' and added:

"When $30,000,000 of the taxpayers' money is appropriated to enforce a law that they believe cannot be enforced, it is a swindle."

Few Accidents Traceable to Fireworks, but Traffic Crashes Take Heavy Week-end Toll

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—With but comparatively few accidents traceable to firecrackers and fireworks, especially in the larger cities, the United States tonight completed a two-day celebration of its 150th anniversary with one of the sanest Fourth of July celebrations in its history. Especially small was the number of fatalities which resulted.

Although precautions against pyrotechnics limited the number of injured from powder and flames, the number of deaths incident to the usual holiday rush of pleasure-seekers mounted to more than three-score, with automobile accidents increased by the heavy traffic. Drownings over the holidays took an unusually heavy toll, twenty-four being reported.

In Chicago there was not a single fatality charged to the two-day celebration, while only a dozen reports of accidents reached the police, six of these being due to stray bullets. Tonight only fifty still alarms and eight box alarms were recorded since last night. Last year on the fourth sixty-five still alarms and fifteen box alarms were made.

TWO DEAD, SIX INJURED IN STOCKTON

STOCKTON, July 5. (Exclusive)—Holiday accidents in Stockton and vicinity yesterday and today resulted in the death of two men and sent six persons to emergency Hospital for firecracker burns. One man was knifed severely as the result of mixing liquor with patriotism, police say, and another suffered a leg fracture when run over by an automobile.

Earl Weddman, 44 years of age, and Silvie Becaris, 32, Oakland, were killed. Weddman was killed when a motorcycle he was riding struck some loose gravel and crashed into a barbed-wire fence. He was a farm worker. Becaris was drowned near Lockeford in the Mokelumne River yesterday when he dove off a springboard into three feet of water. Becaris and his family had motored to Lockeford for an outing.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY EXPLODED EN MASSE

ANDERSON (Ind.) July 5. (Exclusive)—Eight hundred dollars' worth of fireworks intended for an afternoon and night display in connection with a municipal celebration of Independence Day here exploded today in a center field of a half-mile race track at Athletic Park when the day exhibit was being started.

Several thousand persons got a thrill from the salvo of the explosion, but became panic-stricken when bombs, rockets and large pieces of the firecrackers were hurled over the field and toward the grand stand. None was injured seriously.

NEW NOTE SENT BY "AVENGERS"

Kennedy, her mother. "I know they will try to get her again," declared Mrs. McPherson's mother. "This isn't the last of it; this plot goes deeper than has yet been revealed. Oh, why don't the authorities start from the other end of the investigation. Why don't they look for the real ringleaders. We know that Steve and Rose were only tools of those higher up."

Just what precautions have been taken to guard the evangelist from attack were not revealed, but it was intimated that she is under the constant surveillance of friends of the temple.

DANGER INTIMATED

That Mrs. McPherson herself is aware to the danger was intimated in one of her sermons from the pulpit Sunday, when she declared that it might be possible that she would die "a martyr's death."

At this angle of the case was disclosed, police and private detectives yesterday announced themselves as starting a third search for Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple, and now regarded by the police as a central figure in the investigation.

Ormiston, it is recalled, voluntarily appeared in Los Angeles about three weeks after Mrs. McPherson disappeared and after his name had appeared in print in connection with the case. He was questioned briefly by the police and released. Later new evidence was uncovered and Capt. of Detectives Cline attempted to interview him a second time in San Francisco, but Ormiston refused to reveal his whereabouts, nor has he been located since by the authorities.

Cline declared again yesterday that a third determined search for him will be launched.

HELP DESIRED

"I believe he can assist us in the investigation," was Cline's only comment when asked why the case had again swung in the former radio operator's direction.

At the same time, Nick Harris asserted that he, too, will seek Ormiston.

"I have been instructed to make a complete investigation and let the chips fall where they will," said Harris, in explaining his hunt for the radio expert. "Rumors have arisen about Ormiston that are detrimental to Mrs. McPherson, and he should be definitely eliminated from the case."

The new search for Ormiston, it was learned, was determined upon by Capt. Cline after he had received from authorities at Douglas, Ariz., a lengthy report of their investigation of the incidents surrounding Mrs. McPherson's remarkable reappearance in Mexico, just across the international line from Douglas.

That the report has been in his possession for at least two days and holds information of considerable value, was not denied by Cline, but he refused to reveal the nature of its contents and his only statement to newspaper men was:

"I'll say this—the information I have is of the kind that you dare not print at this time."

The detective captain intimated that several days will elapse while investigators check the information furnished by the Arizona authorities before any of it will be made public. It is understood, also, that Cline furnished Federal authorities with all of the facts contained in the report.

While the police and private detectives continued their investigation, added impetus was given to the Federal investigation launched several days ago by United States Attorney McNabb. The Federal investigation, it was learned, is centering about the mailing and delivery of the $500,000 ransom letter received from Mrs. McPherson's asserted kidnapers.

At Angelus Temple late yesterday, Mrs. Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, reported that a railroad man from Arizona had come all the way from Arizona to give what he believed was valuable information to Mrs. McPherson. Mrs. Kennedy, however, declared that she is not ready at this time to reveal the new witness' name, but that they had communicated with the police and that a written statement will be taken from him.

Discussing a statement that Mrs. McPherson had offered the use of the Angelus Temple radio in the search for Ormiston, the evangelist declared while she had never made any such statement, to Capt. Cline or anyone else, she would be willing that the authorities use the broadcasting outfit in connection with the case. She declared, however, that for her personally to broadcast an appeal to Ormiston would be ridiculous and "out of the question."

NEGROES ACCUSED OF SETTING LAD ON FIRE

PARIS (Tex.) July 5. (AP)—Two negroes, each 18 years of age, are in jail here accused of having touched a match to the clothing of a 14-year-old negro boy on whom they had thrown a bucket of gasoline. Fred Rucker, asserted victim, died in the County Hospital here Sunday and his dying statement to his father is declared by authorities to form the basis of accusations against the pair under arrest.

Political Foes Burn Saloon in Mexican Town

MEXICALI (Mex.) July 5.—The Hollywood Bar, favorite retreat of many of the northern district officials and headquarters of the Tapia-Sousa Congressional party sympathizers, was burned to the ground at 1 o'clock this morning by fire believed to have been of incendiary origin. The saloon, operated by Mauricio Magallon in the cotton gin district, was opened about a year ago primarily for the purpose of supplying a quiet place where Lower California officials and friends might gather from time to time, out of sight and hearing of throngs that usually crowd the bars and cafes, and here the supporters of Col. Joseph M. Tapia, candidate for Congress, in the election held yesterday held their meetings and talked over campaign plans.

Magallon was a member of the election board, and one of the leaders of the Liberal Democratic party. J. Aguilar Robles, Chief of the Mexicali fire department and fire marshal, this morning announced that the fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin set by enemies of Tapia and Magallon. The losses will aggregate approximately $10,000.

Children Touch Off Fireworks; Forest Burns

WEAVERVILLE, July 5. (AP)—George A. Pealy and family of Eureka, introduced a select assortment of Fourth of July pyrotechnics into the Trinity National Forest yesterday and the Pealy children set off the noise-makers and rockets while their parents were away for a few hours, despite admonitions from the parents.

The fireworks set off the forest and eight acres were swept before a hard-working gang of rangers and volunteers subdued the flames. At one time a schoolhouse was threatened.

Pealy was arrested and was brought here to explain to a judge just what prompted him to bring a collection of fireworks into a national forest despite repeated warnings.

SACRAMENTO, July 5. (AP)—The vicious triangle of heat, holiday and low humidity failed to cause a serious forest fire to be reported to the State Forester's office here in areas patrolled by the State Board of Forestry, though blazes of considerable proportions occurred in national forest areas and other districts.

INDIANAPOLIS POLICE AND FIREMEN MOBILIZED

INDIANAPOLIS, July 5. (AP)—Indianapolis street railway employees who are members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, went on strike here today. Union officials said 1100 men were on strike, but car company officials insisted less than 400 were out. A partial service was being maintained on nearly all lines.

City officials recalling riots of the car men's strike in 1919 ordered the mobilization of all police and firemen and organized squads for emergency duty. Patrolmen rode on all cars that operated. No violence was reported, however.

Many of the characters were covered by moss and others by rocks about the base of the boulder. Prof. Opajon believes other inscriptions will be uncovered within a few days.

DEDICATE HOME OF JEFFERSON

Exercises Appropriate to Fourth Celebration

CHARLOTTESVILLE (Va.) July 5. (AP)—Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, purchased from Jefferson Levy of New York, for $500,000, was formally dedicated today to the nation at ceremonies appropriate to the celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, authorship of which is credited Jefferson.

One of the high spots of the dedication was the presentation of a Jefferson medal to Claude G. Bowers of New York, the author, by Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, which Jefferson himself founded.

AUTHOR PRAISED

Dr. Alderman, in praising Mr. Bowers's book, "Jefferson and Hamilton," said it is a volume that will live, because of its forceful portrayal of the epic story of the formative years of America's future, which grows more glorious as time rolls on.

George Gordon Battle, Sesquicentennial commissioner of New York, called attention to the efforts of some in that day to detract from the glory of Jefferson by saying "that the efforts of some misguided men to punish or control the opinions of their fellows are but moves across the face of the sun of liberty."

Secretary of State Kellogg stressed the belief that while Jefferson perhaps advocated measures with which "we of this day" cannot agree, he was "unfailingly loyal to the Constitution of the United States and patriotic in his devotion to his country."

KELLOGG SOUNDS PRAISE

"The gradual development of a larger democracy in our representative government," Secretary Kellogg said, "occurred in the peaceful struggle of the ballot box, principally during the life of Thomas Jefferson. We are fortunate that our representative democracy has survived the stormy periods of political upheaval in times of peace and the greatest test of strength in times of war.

"The wise provisions of the written Constitution, so difficult to change when there is a challenge against the foundations of our government, are the bulwark of defense against these excesses and abuses; nevertheless, a by gradual degrees, by insidious approach under the guise of popular demand, there may be wrought in our government changes which would imperil the liberty of American citizens, the stability of government and the permanency of law.

"Against such a danger the American people must ever be on their guard. There is as great a danger in the encroachments upon the power of the Federal government as there is in the encroachments upon the guaranteed American rights in popular demand for a wider and more liberal democracy."

THRONGS VISIT TOMB

Rain forced the abandonment of plans to hold the dedicatory exercises at Monticello and they were held instead in Cabell Hall at the University of Virginia.

Hundreds, however, journeyed to the shrine and passed through the halls trod once by Jefferson and down the lane to the family cemetery to pause at the marble shaft where yesterday dozens of wreaths were laid as tokens of the love of Americans.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, one of the speakers, termed himself as "one of the countless pilgrims" to the shrine of freedom and declared that "Jefferson is admired for his versatility, but he is loved for his humanity."

BIRKENHEAD LAUDS STATE

Secretary and Dr. Butler Address Gathering of Fourth of July Fete in London

LONDON, July 5. (AP)—The American Ambassador, Alanson B. Houghton, presided tonight over a notable gathering of an international character under the auspices of the American Society in London to celebrate Independence Day. He modestly left the honor of the speech-making on this special anniversary to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and Lord Birkenhead, special anniversary to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

Dr. Butler gave his estimate of the present stage of American progress and development, and Lord Birkenhead responded with the British view of the influence of that progress.

Ambassador Houghton proposed the principal toast in the briefest manner, saying he hoped each succeeding anniversary would find the British and American people bound closer and closer together in mutual respect and understanding.

After Dr. Butler had spoken, Birkenhead, responding to the toast "our guests," opened in a humorous vein with the remark:

"It is true we have been reminded in language of scholarly delicacy that the British efforts to retain the American colonies did not entirely succeed. Apparently, however, we owed an enormous debt to two very dissimilar figures, Lord North and Thomas Paine."

Lord Birkenhead did not believe that the good relations between the United States and Great Britain could be maintained by sentimental speeches; the real hope of the future, which was worth all the sentiment in the world, was that on every major question the two peoples thought alike.

The real factors making for permanent peace, good feeling and friendship between the two countries, he continued, was that they were deriving their teachings from the same sources, and their conclusions would inevitably reach the same goal. It was a solid result for Europe and humanity that there had emerged a great nation with immense initiative and variety of origin, which side by side with Britain would maintain the victories won by civilization, he said.

Messages of greeting from President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg were read by Ambassador Houghton.

COOLIDGE SENDS NOTE

President Coolidge's message was as follows:

"The annually recurring observation of Independence Day by the American Society in London always has been gratifying to me as an evidence of that love of country and devotion which seems to be innate and enduring in American citizens and to control them wherever they may be. It is especially pleasing that on this occasion, when in every city, town and hamlet in the United States the people are celebrating the sesquicentennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, their fellow-citizens in a foreign country unite with them in commemorating that great event which gave birth to a union dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal and founded upon undying principles of right and justice, and in extolling the wisdom of our forefathers which made this nation our heritage, I am happy to extend to the members of the society and their guests my cordial greetings and best wishes."

KELLOGG IN GREETING

Secretary of State Kellogg, who was Ambassador to Great Britain in 1924, sent the following message:

"Remembering most agreeably my attendance at the Independence Day observance of the American Society in London, when Ambassador at that capital, on which occasion I had the honor to serve as chairman, I desire on this occasion of the society's celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence to renew my greetings and best wishes to its members and to express my sense of deep gratification at their patriotic ardor. It speaks well for the permanency of our republic when residence abroad, even under the most favorable conditions of government, fails to diminish by one jota the love of its citizens or their devotion to the principles upon which it was founded and has grown to its present great estate."

He returned to the United States about thirty years ago, studied privately and taught esoterics, biblical history, rapid transportation and aeronautics.

heritage which has been bequeathed to us we must be like-minded as the fathers who created it."

"We must cultivate the spiritual and moral leadership which they showed," he added. "We must keep replenished that they may glow with a more compelling flame, the altar fires before which they worshiped."

Applause, which greeted his speech from time to time, was emphatic when Mr. Coolidge urged law observance, saying that "of course, the government can help to sustain ideals and can create institutions through which ideals can be the better observed, but their source by their very nature is in the people," and that "it is not the enactment, but the observance of laws, that creates the character of a nation."

"In my opinion," he said, "very little of just criticism can attach to the theories and principles of our institutions. There is far more danger of harm than there is hope of good in any radical changes. We do need a better understanding and comprehension of them and a better knowledge of the foundations of government in general."

Arriving at 11 o'clock, accompanied by Atty.-Gen. Sargeant, Senator Ernst of Kentucky, his friend, Frank W. Stearns of Boston, as well as Secretary Everett Sanders and his military and naval aides, Mr. Coolidge was driven for four miles along Broad street and the exposition grounds to the stadium.

GUNS FIRE SALUTE

The first troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry, an organization which has escorted every President who has visited Philadelphia since the time of George Washington, acted as his escort, while a battery of field pieces roared out the twenty-one-gun national salute. Army airplanes soared overhead.

In passing through the exposition grounds, the Presidential party stopped once to enable Mr. Coolidge to leave his automobile and inspect several of the buildings which are a reproduction of those that stood in colonial days on High street, now Market street, and which were occupied by delegates to the Continental Congress.

After the exercises, the President and Mrs. Coolidge were guests of Mayor Kendrick at a private luncheon in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

In Independence Hall Mr. Coolidge sat in the chair of John Hancock, who led all the signers of the Declaration of Independence and then proceeded to the Central Hall, where the historic Liberty Bell is enshrined, studied it closely and placed his hands upon it with reverent touch.

Christ Church, where many of the colonial leaders during their official residences in Philadelphia worshiped, was visited next, the President entering the building and inspecting it and the pews of George Washington and others famous in American history with eager interest.

GREETED ON JERSEY SIDE

The trip across the great suspension bridge, the largest of its kind in the world, followed, thousands roaring a greeting to the President, when he arrived on the Jersey side, and applauding as, after shaking hands with officials, he smilingly took up a spade and placed several shovelfuls of earth about the Vermont maple tree which stands at the approach to the bridge.

Returning across the bridge, Mr. Coolidge went immediately to his special train on the Pennsylvania. He and Mrs. Coolidge stood on the observation platform and waved goodby to the crowds which shouted farewell as the train pulled out for Washington.

Fellow countrymen:

The President's address follows in part:

We meet to celebrate the birthday of America. The coming of a new life always excites our interest. Although we know in the case of the individual that it has been an infinite repetition reaching back beyond our vision, that only makes it more wonderful. But how our interests and wonder increase when we behold the miracle of the birth of a new nation. It is to pay our tribute of reverence and respect to those who participated in such a mighty event that we annually observe the Fourth of July.

Whatever may have been the impression created by the news which went out from this city on that summer day in 1776, there can be no doubt as to the estimate which is now placed on it. At the end of 150 years, the four corners of the earth unite in coming to Philadelphia as to a holy shrine in grateful acknowledgement of a service so great, which a few inspired men here rendered to humanity that it is still the pre-eminent support of free government throughout the world.

It is not so much for the purpose of undertaking to proclaim new theories and principles that this annual celebration is maintained, but those old theories and principles which time and the unerring logic of events have demonstrated to be sound.

SOLACE IN CONSTITUTION

Amid all the clash of conflicting interests, amid all the welter of partisan politics, every American can turn for solace and consolation to the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States with the assurance and confidence that those two great charters of freedom and justice remain firm and unshaken. Whatever perils appear, whatever danger threatens, the nation remains secure in the knowledge that the ultimate application of the law of the land will provide an adequate defense and protection.

When we come to a contemplation of the immediate conception of the principles of human relationship which went into the Declaration of Independence we are not required to extend our search beyond our own shores. They are found in the texts, the sermons and the writings of the early colonial clergy who were earnestly undertaking to instruct their congregations in the great mystery of how to live. They preached equality because they believed in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. They justified freedom by the text that we are all created in the divine image, all partakers of the divine spirit.

Placing every man on a plane where he acknowledged no superiors, where no one possessed any right to rule over him, he must inevitably choose his own rulers through a system of self-government. This was their theory of democracy. In those days such doctrines would scarcely have been permitted to flourish and spread in any other country. That was the purpose which the fathers cherished. . . .

These great truths were in the air the people breathed. Whatever else we may say of it, the Declaration of Independence was profoundly American. . . .

In its main features the Declaration of Independence is a great spiritual document. It is a declaration not of material but of spiritual conceptions. Equality, liberty, popular sovereignty, the rights of man—these are not elements which we can touch and see. They are ideals. They have their source and their roots in religious convictions. They belong to the unseen world. Unless the faith of the American people in these religious convictions is to endure, the principles of our declaration will perish. We cannot continue to enjoy the result if we neglect and abandon the cause. . . .

GUARANTEES OF LIBERTY

It was in the contemplation of these truths that the fathers made their declaration and adopted their constitution. It was to establish a free government, which must not be permitted to degenerate into the unrestrained authority of a mere majority or the unbridled weight of mere influential few. They undertook to balance these interests against each other and to provide the three separate independent branches, the Executive, the legislative and the judicial branches of the government with checks against each other in order that neither one might encroach upon the other. These are our guarantees of liberty. As a result of these methods, enterprise has protected from confiscation, the people have been free from oppression, and there has been an ever broadening and deepening of the humanities of life.

Governments do not make ideals, but ideals make governments. This is both historically and logically true. Of course, the government can help to sustain ideals and can create institutions through which they can be the better observed, but their source by their very nature is in the people. The people have to bear their own responsibilities. There is no method by which that burden can be shifted to the government. It is not the enactment, but the observance of laws, that creates the character of a nation.

About the declaration there is a finality that is exceedingly restful. It is often asserted that the world has made a great deal of progress since 1776, that we have had new thoughts and new experiences which have given us a great advance over the people of that day, and that we may therefore very well discard their conclusions for something more modern. But that reasoning cannot be applied to this great charter. If all men are created equal, that is final. If they are endowed with inalienable right, that is final. If governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, that is final. No advance, no progress can be made beyond these propositions.

If anyone wishes to defy their truth or their soundness, the only direction in which he can proceed historically is not forward but backward toward the time when there was no equality, no rights of the individual, no rule of the people. Those who wish to proceed in that direction cannot lay claim to progress. They are reactionary. Their ideas are not more modern, but more ancient, than those of the revolutionary fathers.

TRUE TO PRINCIPLES

In the development of its institutions America can fairly claim that it has remained true to the principles which were declared 150 years ago. In all the essentials we have achieved an equality which was never possessed by any other people. Even in the less important matter of material possessions we have secured a wider and wider distribution of wealth. The rights of the individual are held sacred and protected by constitutional guaranties which even the government itself is bound not to violate. If there is any one thing among us that is established beyond question, it is self-government—the right of the people to rule. If there is any failure in respect to any of these principles, it is because there is a failure on the part of individuals to observe them.

We hold that the duly authorized expression of the will of the people has a divine sanction. But even in that we come back to the theory of John Wise that "democracy is Christ's government . . ." The ultimate sanction of law rests on the righteous authority of the Almighty.

On an occasion like this a great temptation exists to present evidence of the practical success of our form of democratic republic at home and the ever-broadening acceptance it is obtaining abroad. Although these things are well known, their frequent consideration is an encouragement and an inspiration. But it is not results and effects so much as sources and causes that I believe it is even more necessary constantly to contemplate. Ours is a government of the people. It represents their will. Its officers may sometimes go astray, but that is not a reason for criticising the principles of our institutions. The real heart of the American government depends upon the heart of the people. It is from that source that we must look for all genuine reform. It is to that cause that we must ascribe all our results.

Under a system of popular government there will always be those who will seek for political preferment by clamoring for reform. While there is very little of this which is not sincere, there is a large portion that is not well informed. In my opinion, very little of just criticism can attach to the theories and principles of our institutions. There is far more danger of harm than there is hope of good in any radical changes. We do need better understanding and comprehension of them and a better knowledge of the foundations of government in general.

Our forefathers came to certain conclusions and decided upon certain courses of action which have been a blessing to the world. Before we can understand their conclusions we must go back and review the course which they followed. We must think the thoughts which they thought.

If we are to maintain the great heritage which has been bequeathed to us, we must be like-minded as the fathers who created it. We must not sink into a pagan of materialism. We must cultivate the reverence which they had for the things that are holy. We must follow the spiritual and moral leadership which they showed. We must keep replenished, that they may glow with a more compelling flame, the altar fires before which they worshiped.

COOLIDGES BID SON GOOD-BY

WASHINGTON, July 5. (Exclusive)—President and Mrs. Coolidge waved good-by to their son, John, as the Pennsylvania Railroad train on which they were traveling back to Washington, passed the Montrealer near Perryville, Md., late this afternoon. John was en route to Burlington, Vt., where he is taking a summer course in economics at the University of Vermont. When the time came for the Montrealer to pass their train, the President and Mrs. Coolidge went to the rear platform. John was watching for them and waved from the rear platform of the Montrealer.

Water Instead of Beer Under Tax in Munich

MUNICH, July 5. (Exclusive)—After a long deliberation the city fathers have decided it was improper to levy a tax on beer as a means of acquiring funds for carrying out a building program to relieve the house shortage, on the grounds that necessities of life should not be taxed.

Then the magistrates appointed a committee whose business it was to find ways of bringing the necessary funds into the city coffers. After a long search trying to find a taxable article, the committee returned with a plan which was accepted.

Henceforth water will be taxed. The city will be richer by 8,000,000 yearly and the housing committee will be able to use the funds thus acquired for relief of the house shortage without taxing necessities.

Wife May Have Drowned Self and Children

CHICAGO, July 5. (Exclusive)—Belief that his wife had drowned herself and her three children caused John Meiches, farmer of River Grove, Ill., to appeal to the police today to drag the Des Plaines River for their bodies.

Mrs. Clara Meiches, 31 years of age, and the children, Elaine, 7, John, Jr., 5, and Fred, 2, disappeared Saturday morning. Meiches had driven to town and when he returned he found them missing.

The woman, who is something of a religious fanatic, had been acting queerly, her husband said, and he told police he feared she had thrown herself and the children into the river, along the banks of which she was accustomed to stroll each day.

POLES HONOR JULY FOURTH

Warsaw Observes American National Holiday

Work of Thaddeus Kosciusko Recalled

WARSAW, July 5. (Exclusive)—United States Minister John B. Stetson, Jr., who does not drink, as part of his celebration of July 4, drank a horn of real prewar stuff. The Minister's tipple was honey wine which was made in the year American independence was declared. It was "mead" the oldest alcoholic drink the world knows, and was served in the course of Poland's celebration of America's Fourth of July, which was the biggest foreign celebration, outside of a national holiday since 1919 in Paris.

The mead ceremony was conducted in Fugger's wine cellars, founded in 1520. After the Minister had exchanged toasts with the president of the Polish-American Chamber of Commerce and prominent members of the government, he signed the register in the ancient wine shop and looked at the bar bill of one gentleman. Thaddeus Kosciusko, who 146 years ago returned to Warsaw from overseas service in America, where he assisted in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Stetson tasted of the same vintage the patriot drank almost a century and a half ago.

"The Star Spangled Banner," was broadcast by wireless all over Poland. Polish lecturers spoke into the microphone on salient points in American history. Lemberg, Posen, and Cracow rivalled Warsaw's efforts to organize the most impressive festival.

At the capital's town hall, Prof. Poland Ignace Mosciski, members of the Cabinet, the Foreign Minister, military attaches and representatives of all the governments assembled to greet the American Minister and his wife and the American financial delegation under Prof. Kemmerer, and the American colony members. All Poland's prominent men were present, with the exception of Marshal Josef Pilsudski, whom the Americans did not expect, because up to date he has refused to receive or meet the American commercial or journalistic representatives.

GIRL DROWNS, THREE PERILED IN RESCUE

SPOKANE, July 5. (AP)—Florence Walsh, 19 years of age, while wading in Diamond Lake yesterday, thirty miles north of here, stepped into a hole and disappeared. Her mother, younger brother and sister, none of whom can swim, went to her rescue and sank also. Florence drowned and her body was not recovered until George Oakes, Spokane diver, arrived. The other three were rescued, unconscious.

CORNED BEEF TO LURE COOLIDGE?

White House May Smell of Cabbage, Thinks Father of New Housekeeper

BOSTON (Mass.) July 5.—(Exclusive)—"Maybe Cal's hungry for corned beef and cabbage," suggested William J. Riley, in reference to the appointment of his daughter, Ellen, to the office of housekeeper at the White House. Miss Riley is a sensible girl and she will give the President corned beef and cabbage if he wants it, although personally she prefers fried clams cooked by her mother.

Ellen is strictly business. She knew long ago that she might become housekeeper at the White House, but she kept it secret. Mrs. Coolidge wrote her three letters in each suggesting that publicity be avoided, according to Miss Riley's mother. Ellen then took her one photograph the family displayed in the parlor and hid it in her dresser.

AD CLUBS OPEN SESSION TODAY

Coast Delegates Informally Launch Convention

More Than 1000 Present for Oakland Gathering

Portland and Hawaii Bid on Conclave Next Year

OAKLAND, July 5. (AP)—The annual convention of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs' Association which opens tomorrow in San Francisco for a three-day session got under way informally today when more than 1000 delegates attended an "inspirational meeting" in the open-air Greek theater at the University of California.

The principal speakers on the program were Gov. Farrington of Hawaii, D. Gilman of San Francisco, president; President W. W. Campbell of the University of California and Lou Holland, past president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the world, president of the National Better Business Bureau and head of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. The general theme of the speakers was along the thought that "better advertising means better business."

DELEGATES TAKEN ON TRIPS

After the meeting today the delegates were taken on a series of sightseeing trips arranged for by the Oakland and other East Bay District advertising clubs.

Portland and Honolulu have become spirited contenders for the 1927 convention. Gov. Farrington emphasized the fact that aside from its many other attributes Honolulu next year will have increased hotel and transportation facilities. The Portland delegation said it recognized the merit of Gov. Farrington's claim but that Portland has the entire backing of the Pacific Northwest in its bid for the next convention and that "Portland usually gets what Portland wants." The Honolulu delegation carried the war directly into the enemy's camp today when the Portland delegation arrived at the Oakland pier. As the Portlanders alighted from their train the Honolulu delegation, after several hearty "alohas" and handclasps, suddenly threw leis about the neck of the new arrivals and opened with a verbal broadside descriptive of the beauties of Hawaii.

FETED AT BANQUET

Tonight the delegates were entertained at the Athens Athletic Club here with a banquet and a reception. Joseph Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, presided. Notables in the business world and advertising field attended, including G. King, of New York, an executive of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World; Low Hahn, managing director of the National Ery Goods Association of New York; Alvin Dodd of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Washington, and Marshall Dana of the Portland Journal.

Mexico Plans Pan-American Postal Parley

MEXICO CITY, July 5. (Exclusive) It is announced in the newspapers that the second Pan-American Postal Congress will take place here in October.

All the nations of the American continents have been asked to send delegates. Arrangements are already being made by the postal authorities here for the convention at which it is expected that numerous questions connected with the service will be discussed. Arrangements are also being made by a special committee for the housing and entertainment of the delegates.

Spain although not a member of the Pan-American Union under whose auspices the congress will be conducted, has been invited to send an unofficial delegate, at the request of the Spanish speaking countries and has accepted the invitation. Several other nations have also accepted.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE FOR PEACE WILL CONVENE

DUBLIN (Ireland) July 5. (AP)—Representatives of twenty-five countries will open the fifth biennial Congress of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom on Thursday with a procession in national costumes. The Congress will continue for a week. The discussions will concern imperialism, the relations between majority and minority populations, and militarism.

Smashing Every Precedent for Value-Giving!

Setting a New Low Price Level on Fine Tailored Two-Pants Suits!

Raising the High Standard of My "Already" High Standard Made-to-Measure Two-Pants-Suits!

YOUR Opportunity NOW!

I'M OUT TO BEAT MY OWN GREAT RECORD FOR TAILORED SUIT SALES DURING JULY

and am Offering, Beginning Tomorrow, Just 674 "Super Values" in My Famous

BIGGER BETTER VALUES

HERE IS MY STARTLING NEW OFFER

This is my GREATEST OFFER, in fact, I might say IT IS THE GREATEST TAILORING OFFER IN THE ANNALS OF THE TAILORING BUSINESS of Los Angeles, one that means to the man who wear fine tailored suits, such VALUES as I may not be in a position to offer for some time to come, if ever.

A lucky buy of just 674 bolts of fine DYED IN THE WOOL, LONG STAPLE WOOLENS, representing every conceivable fabric and pattern, resulted in this startling offer.

This lot of fine suitings was the LAST allotment of one of the greatest manufacturers of woolens in the country. They are right up to the minute and are SUPER VALUES in every respect, representing even a HIGHER GRADE OF WOOLENS than that of the regular stock I am accustomed to carry, and those REGULAR woolens were always TOP NOTCHERS.

This was a big opportunity for me. I could have re-sold the entire lot to other tailors at a handsome profit without so much as opening ONE case of goods.

But I wanted to give my old customers and as many new ones as possible, every benefit that my big buying power would give. I wanted to prove to my customers that John Wright, and John Wright ONLY, could give the men who wanted the finest two pants suits to be had in the country, something that no other establishment could produce at the price.

This opportunity I am offering you men of Los Angeles means a lot more good will for me.

It gives you men who are not familiar with the high standard of John Wright's tailoring craft, an opportunity to become acquainted, and at once secure a SUPER VALUE TWO-PANTS SUIT FOR $34, that under ordinary circumstances would cost you from $50 to $70.

To my old friends and my new ones, I suggest that you make an early inspection and select one of these SUPER VALUE TWO-PANTS SUITS, before they are sold out.

John Wright.

YOU'LL NEVER BEAT THIS OFFER IN A LIFETIME!

Remember THIS.

I never have, and never will have, any so-called sale. My policy has always been to make the best suit with TWO PAIRS OF PANTS THAT $34 would buy in this country. With my big organization of tailoring experts I have been able to do this and to maintain my lead as the biggest institution of its kind on the coast.

With my enormous buying power, I have been able to always put into these suits the very finest of LONG STAPLE WOOLENS.

My offer of these SUPER VALUES, VALUES that I may never be able to reproduce, is made possible through one of those fortunate incidents that happen to a concern that has the money power to buy big lots for CASH and where that concern has the organization of men scouting the markets where these VALUES are to be found.

In these super VALUES, I am making, at this season, an offer that would fit in well with a price that would range well up to $50, $60 or $70.

They are well beyond my regular $44 values, but my opportunity to capitalize on the good will of several hundred men prompts me to make these fine suits for you, to your individual measurement, for the lowest price that I shall ever sell any suit—$34.

This Is Your Opportunity! John Wright Guarantees It!

No better guarantee for QUALITY of workmanship, fabric or fit can be made than that of JOHN WRIGHT. John Wright's name stands foremost in Los Angeles, not among a few thousands, but among MANY thousands of men, for VALUE GIVING and TAILORING SATISFACTION. And in this SUPER VALUE TAILORING OFFER, John Wright desires to make that guarantee even stronger.

THESE are real values, VALUES THAT ARE NOT GOING TO LAST LONG.

They are limited to just 674 Bolts of these fine materials.

These SUPER VALUES are going to be snapped up QUICK, so that an early selection is imperative.

Men who KNOW John Wright's regular values are ALWAYS more than satisfied. MEN WHO BUY THESE NEW SUPER VALUES are going to be JUBILANT because they are the greatest the men of this city have ever had an opportunity to buy.

I have placed the lowest prices on these SUPER VALUE, made-to-measure, two-pants suits that a John Wright Suit has ever been sold for, this because behind the offer there is a tremendous publicity value, and because thereby I am going to add several hundred more new satisfied John Wright Two Pants Suits wearers to my list.

This is the greatest offer in the history of my institution; come up and make your selection NOW, and get the finest Two-Pants Suit that was ever offered in this country for $34. Other great values in John Wright Two Pants Suits range slightly higher in price.

SERAPHS WIN AND LOSE IN HOLIDAY DOUBLE BILL

NO MERE FLASH IN THE PAN

Charles Borah, University of Southern California freshman, showed the world yesterday that his famous race with Charley Paddock, in which the fastest human was forced to a new world's record, was not a freak stunt. Running under the colors of the Hollywood Athletic Club the curly headed Trojan won the century in 9.8s., defeating such veteran campaigners as Jackson Scholz and Chet Bowman. Borah was only inches behind Sharkey in the 220-yard dash, taking second place.

STARS WIN AND LOSE TO DUCKS

Portland Nabs Morning Tiff, 4-1, But Vittmen Take Second, 7-4

PORTLAND, July 5. (AP)—Portland won the morning game, 4 to 1, on the airtight pitching of Gorham Leverett, late of the Chicago White Sox, and timely home runs by Elmer Smith and Lafayette, but lost in the afternoon, 7 to 4, when Hollywood landed hard on Mangum and his successor, Rachac. In the fifth inning Manager Ernie Johnson of Portland was put out of the game by Umpire Ryan on a peculiar play which started a near riot.

Johnson, first up, hit a little tap along the first base line, which Pitcher O'Neill hurried over to field. To avoid running into O'Neill, Johnson hurdled clear over him without touching him. O'Neill got the ball, but Leslie dropped his throw at first base. Umpire Ryan, however, called Johnson out for having run outside the base line. Scores:

DOEG WINS NET MATCH AT DETROIT

Bill Tilden Favorite to Win National Clay Courts Tourney

DETRIOT, July 5. (AP)—William T. Tilden II, of Philadelphia, led the field of favorites which swept through the opening rounds of the national clay courts tennis tournament here today.

Tilden defeated Russell Alman of Detroit, 6-1, 6-0, and immediately started a match with Cadet C. L. Sherburn of West Point, which ended in a 6-0, 6-0 victory for the Philadelphian.

One of the hardest-fought matches was that in which Brian L. C. Norton of San Antonio, Tex., downed George Reindell, Jr., of Detroit, 9-7, 6-4. The eleventh game of the first set went to deuce seven times before Reindell took it, and was one of the nine deuce games in the match. Reindell scored 89 points against Norton's 101.

John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., won from Heinz Zimmerman, Detroit, 6-1, 6-1.

The Philippine Island Davis Cup team players, given a special seeding, had one player left in the tournament. Rafael Gonsales, captain, defaulted to Frank Jerome of Detroit, while Guillermo Aragon went down before H. H. Bancroft of San Diego, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. Francisco Aragon will play his first match tomorrow against C. W. Fisher of Detroit.

BAY CITY BOY THUMPS MUSHY

Local Boxer Knocked Down in First Round

Fails to Get Going Following Trip to Canvas

San Francisco Fighter Has Edge All Through

BY HARRY B. SMITH

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5. (Exclusive)—As far as you might drive a golf ball; just so far Jack Silver beat Mushy Callahan before a crowd of something like 7000 fight fans at fog-swept Ewing Field this afternoon. Over-touted and over-rated, Callahan did not have a chance. Nine of the rounds were for Silver with a clean-cut, right-hand knockdown that came in the first round. One, the eighth, was a fairly even session, though some of the fans thought Callahan had the edge.

But there wasn't any hesitancy on the part of Referee George Blake when the end of the trail had come. And, for that matter, there was not any reason for hesitancy. Silver had won so far a blind man would have given him the honors.

It was another case of an educated boxer and a smart one against a swinger, who depends more or less on luck to land a telling punch. Callahan is tough, yes, and he's apparently got a punch. But it didn't avail him much this afternoon. He was outsmarted from start to finish, and so bewildered was the Los Angeles boy he apparently did not know what it was all about.

Silver's left-hand punch was the one that did most of the damage. It is true he did not cut Callahan up to any great extent, but he slowed down the southerner, spinned him around, and had Mushy so thoroughly confused he could not do much scoring. Not that Silver confined himself to a left. Not by any means. He landed some telling and wicked right-hand punches, both as to body and to head, and they hurt.

Another case of an overly-touted favorite gone wrong. Mushy was rated at 10 to 7 before the fight. All on his Los Angeles record, and not because the boys had given any thought to his gymnasium performance. When Silver scored that knockdown just as the first round came to an end there was a switch

STOP CATALINA CRUISER EVENT

AVALON, July 5. (Exclusive) D. M. Callis, chairman of the annual 'round-Catalina-power-cruiser race, called off the event today following the destruction of Hugh Chafee's new forty-five-foot cruiser Una-C in the harbor last night. Cruiser owners and their wives were adverse to staging the race after witnessing the terrifying explosion, which claimed two lives.

VON ELM ON DECK FOR PLAY

Arrives With Other Entries For National Open Links Tournament

COLUMBUS (O.) July 5. (AP)—Skirmishing in anticipation of the national open golf championships got under way in earnest today with the arrival here of about fifty additional contestants, most of whom played the Scioto Country Club's course, where the tournament will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Among the arrivals was Willie MacFarlane, 1925 champion.

MacFarlane, however, contented himself with checking in and surveying the course from the clubhouse porch. He will play tomorrow.

A "Big Four," composed of Gene Sarazen, the 1922 champion; Long Jim Barnes, the 1925 British open titlist, and Leo Diegel and Johnny Farrell, attracted the largest gallery today. It was the first round for any of the quartet.

Sarazen had the best card, 73, or one over par. Several of the others picked up on a number of holes, or their cards would have been fattened.

CHERUBS ANNEX SERIES, 6 TO 3

Morning Victory is Turned in by Wright, 7 to 2

Doc Hits Homer With Three on to Rout Senators

Stroud Helps Sacs Capture Finale in Tenth, 6-3

BY ROBERT RAY

After Doc Wright had pitched and batted the league-leading Angels to a 7-to-2 morning game yesterday, Sailor Stroud lost his bearing in the ninth and tenth frames of the afternoon and allowed the visiting Sacramento Solons to come from behind and win out, 6 to 3, giving the Saes an even break in the holiday twin bill. However, the Angels ran off with the series by capturing six of the nine games, so it was a good week at that.

With the Angel hurling staff in none too good shape, after a tough week against the Missions, Seraph rooters almost dreaded to think what would happen to the Cherubs in the nine-game series that just ended. But the Angel flingers came through in great shape and the Seraphs gained on two of the first-division clubs, Sacramento and the Missions, and held their eight-game margin over the Oaks, so that's why it was a good week.

In the eye-opener Doc Wright turned in his second victory of the series by holding the Solons to six hits and two runs, and rapping out a home run with the bases full in the sixth inning.

DUEL FOR A WHILE

Up until Wright hit his circuit clout Ray Keating was giving the dapper doctor from Big Stone Gap a hurling battle that was providing the cash customers with no little excitement.

The Angels got off in front by scoring one in the second on French's beat of John's grounder and Johnny Mitchell's double down the right-field line. John was forced at second by Brazill, who rambled all the way from first when Johnny doubled with

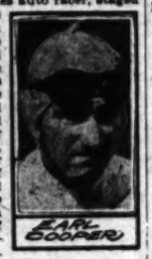
EARL COOPER STAGES WILD RALLY TO ANNEX 200-MILE SALEM SPEEDWAY EVENT

ROCKINGHAM SPEEDWAY, SALEM (N. H.) July 5. (AP)—Earl Cooper, veteran Los Angeles auto racer, staged one of his famous finishes and won the 200-mile race which featured the Independence Day sweepstakes here today. He trailed the field for 189 laps and with only thirty more to go, caught the other tiring drivers off their guards and sped into the lead, finishing a lap ahead of Bennie Hill, second place winner. Peter De Paolo was third.



Only nine of the eighteen drivers who started were able to pilot their midget racers of 91½ cubic inch piston displacement over the entire distance. Engine trouble drove half the field from the track.

Cooper's time for the 200 miles was 1h. 42m. 56s. and his rate of speed was 116.562 miles per hour.

One accident marred the event. John Duff of Indianapolis crashed through the top rail and dropped clear of the track after his racer swerved on the turn nearest the grand-stands. He suffered a broken collarbone.

Harry Hartz, Los Angeles, after placing second in the fifty-mile dash which preceded the long race, was unable to start his own car in the 200-mile event. He remained in his pit until the other drivers had completed fifty-six laps, then replaced Fred Comer and, by daring driving, made up much lost ground to finish fourth, five laps behind Cooper.

Frank Elliot, Missouri, was fifth; Norman Batten, sixth; Wade Morton of Los Angeles, who drove Tony Gullotte's car, was seventh; Dr. W. M. Shattuck, Louisville physician, eighth and Phil Schafer, Texas, ninth.

Hill shot into the lead as the starter sent the racers away and held it for 150 miles, repeatedly fighting off De Paolo, who tried to pass him.

Cooper conserved his strength and awaited the time to start his final drive. Hill and De Paolo had slackened their speed when Cooper burst past them. Two turns about the track and he was leading them by almost a lap. He maintained his speed and was not even threatened in the twenty-eight laps which remained before the 200-mile mark was reached.

Peter De Paolo, who made the fastest qualifying time, had the pole position for the fifty-mile dash. He won in 23m. 23s. Hartz was a half lap behind him and Frank Elliot was third.

Cooper's victory carried with it the first money prize of $9000. Hill received $4000 for second place and De Paolo $2000 for third. The latter also won $1500 for placing first in the short race.

Hartz, who tops the drivers with 1740 points in the championship standing, received $1400 for his fourth place in the long race and $1000 more for second in the short event.

NEER, DAVIES WIN TITLE

Former Intercollegiate Champs Victorious in Finals of Pacific Coast Tournament

The large silver trophy that symbolizes the doubles championship of the Pacific Coast will change its San Francisco address this week, but it will not come any farther south than it is right now. Phil Neer and Jim Davies, who held the national intercollegiate doubles title when they were at Stanford University, yesterday won the title, by easily defeating Ed Woodall and Clarence Barker of Alhambra, in the final match by scores of 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Little Bill Johnston and Peck Griffin of San Francisco won the crown last year, but didn't defend it. Davies and Neer are both San Francisco players.

There wasn't the least shadow of doubt that Neer and Davies would win yesterday. Woodall and Barker took four games in the first set, but that was more the result of carelessness on the northerners' part than anything else. In every branch of the game, from teamwork to poker-facing, the winners outclassed their opponents.

Woodall and Barker might have made a much harder match of it had they been better net players. They repeatedly drove Neer and Davies to the back line, but couldn't seem to kill the high lobs that the northerners put right on their rackets.

In the first set, the former Stanford stars centered their fire on Woodall and soon discovered their glaring error, for he was by far the best player on his side of the net and was able to give them a good run single-handed. Woodall has a good service and needs nothing but steadiness to make him a good player.

That whole first set lasted less than twenty minutes and the first game of the second set took almost as long. It took 22 points to decide who should get the game. Neer and Davies finally winning. Davies opened up in the second set and began to uncork a series of flashing drives that almost burned holes in the court where they landed. It was in this set that the Alhambrans' weakness in making kills came to light and from then on Neer and Davies didn't mind being driven away from the net.

Woodall's good serving featured the third set. He won two games by the simple but effective method of serving where there wasn't anybody.

GOOD TEAMWORK

With one or two exceptions the teamwork of Neer and Davies was perfect. They seemed to have some system of thought transference in covering the court. Only once or twice did they come together or warn each other away in making a shot. Advancing and falling back together, there wasn't a hole in their defense. It took sheer brilliance to make points on them, for placing was next to impossible.

Ben Gorchakoff and Art Kussman played a 7-7 draw in an exhibition

KNEALY SETS OVAL MARK

Shatters Half-Mile Auto Record at Banning Races Which Are Featured by Wrecking of Cars

BANNING, July 5. (Exclusive)—Four bad spills in which six cars were smashed and the drivers badly bruised featured auto-racing programs here today. One of the big features of the American Legion program was the driving of Mel Knealy, the 19-year-old Los Angeles sensation who broke the world's record for a half-mile and won three of the feature races in record time. All former track records were broken and the largest crowd that has ever edged into Banning was present.

Mel Knealy, in Harry Hooker's famous "99," smashed the world's dirt-track record for one-half mile when he circled the Legion oval in 26 4-5 seconds. The old record was 27 seconds flat made by Ralph Ormsby at Robey, Ill.

The last event of the day, the twenty-lap championship event, was barely under way when on the second lap Noel Bullock turned completely around in the track several times and was almost struck by several cars from the rear. In the very next lap, Bullock again skidded and hit Ted Simpson, who in turn ran into Joe Schunk, all three cars piling up on one another. Not to be outdone, Paul Barret on the next lap, skidded off the track and rolled over at least five times. He received several broken ribs.

The results:

The first event of the afternoon, the two-lap sprint dash, was won by Mel Knealy. Tex Moore finished second. Time, 58s. Est.

First race, ten laps—Won by Mel Knealy. Speed Hinckley second, Harry Howard third. Time, 4m. 52s.

Event three, ten laps—Won by Dale Pease. Noel Bullock second, F. H. Barret third. Time, 4m. 50s.

Event four, ten laps—Won by Bert Spencer, Lou Moore second, Ted Simpson third. Time, 4m. 53s.

Event five, ten laps—Won by Dale Pease, E. C. Machado second, Pat Sweetman third. Time, 5m. 2s.

Event six, fifteen laps—Won by John Schunk, second Harry Jaques, third Bill Bundy. Time, 7m. 32s.

Event seven, twenty laps, championship sweepstakes—Won by Mel Knealy, Lou Moore second, Speed Hinckley third, Bert Spencer fourth. Time, 8m. 12s.

BROOKLYN DIVIDES

BOSTON, July 5. (AP)—The Braves split a double-header with Brooklyn today, winning the initial combat by 5 to 4, and dropping the second engagement by 14 to 5. Seals Divide Holiday Bill With Oakland

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5. (AP)—San Francisco and Oakland split a double-header here today, the Seals taking the morning game, 8 to 4, and the Oaks copping the afternoon contest, 5 to 3. Moudy's stellar pitching coupled with timely hitting and a trio of home runs accounted for the Seals' victory. The Oaks bunched hits off Geary in the sixth of the second game for four runs. Averill got a home run in each game. The scores:

Cawsey Leads Third Day Field in City Play

LOCAL GOLFER HOME WITH 75

Many Stars Medal for Place in Title Tourney

First Flight to be Fastest in Classic History

CAWSEY

Two drives of nearly 300 yards each helped Rex Cawsey of the California club of tourney medal honors in the city championship at Griffith Park yesterday, but enabled him to finish with a 75—to equal the old course record and cop low gross honors in the third and final qualifying play for the municipal crown.

Cawsey, runner-up in the southern amateur classic, was forced to play with a dislocated [illegible] yesterday, but slipped [illegible] the first fifteen holes in even par. His screaming tee shot to the [illegible] south caught a trap 300 yards from the tee and the penalty stroke robbed him of a probable birdie. Again playing to perfection, he laid a beautiful [illegible] that carried 300 yards down the middle of the fairway into a trap short of the green. From 4 poor lie, he managed to hole a birdie on the home green over. He made a great [illegible] to hole a birdie on the home [illegible] and missed by inches.

Defending the field yesterday, only 200 golfers qualified in the championship and ten flights of eight each, aside from the championship bracket of thirty-two, and will start match play in the annual classic this week. [illegible] matches must be played by next Sunday. Contestants will engage playing time by phoning Emil Koenel at Olympia [illegible], to secure opponent's phone [illegible]. Matches will be played at the convenience of both contestants.

Those defeated in first-round [illegible] and nonqualifiers will be [illegible] to play in an eighteen-hole [illegible] round, either the [illegible] or 16th first. There will also [illegible] long-distance driving contest [illegible] latter date.

Yesterday's qualifying scores with [illegible] for first-round matches are [illegible]:

RIVERS IN GRAND SHAPE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

Experts Surprised by Ease With Which Mexican Challenger Makes Weight

BY PAUL LOWRY

In making weight so easily for the event of his pugilistic career—the ten-round world's championship fight with Fidel La Barba at the Olympic Auditorium tomorrow night—Georgie Rivers, the Mexican flyweight challenger, has confounded all his critics.

And in so doing he has won over a host of smart boxing men who are pointing out that the fighter to favor in tomorrows fracas is the one who scales 112 pounds with the least trouble.

GEORGIE RIVERS

If the fight were to be decided on that basis alone, Rivers has already won the flyweight title.

In the face of declarations by the quidnuncs that he would have to saw off an arm or a leg to come into the ring at 112 pounds, Rivers actually has to slow up in his gym work to avoid the loss of more poundage.

On the other hand the champion has been working strenuously to sweat off the pounds.

He is of bigger build than Rivers. He has a bigger chest and bigger thighs. He has bigger bones.

These things all count when it comes to taking off weight.

At catchweights, La Barba is undoubtedly a stronger boy than Rivers. Constitutionally he grew that way. Whether the title-holder can tip 112 pounds tomorrow afternoon after a torturous siege of training and be as strong as the Mexican, who has had an easy row to hoe, is a different matter altogether.

ALDERMAN TYPE

La Barba comes of a family that runs to fat, and he has to work desperately at times to still the drums of jeopardy. Even George Blake, the boy's manager, admits that the minute Fidel eases up on the training grind he will fatten up like his brothers.

A comparison of the champion's and challenger's workouts yesterday indicates the contrasting methods by which the two little gladiators have arrived at their goal of weight-making.

La Barba finished preparations for his impending battle by going through all the regular routine of skipping rope, bag-punching, shadow boxing, etc., at a terrific clip.

Rivers, on the other hand, spent about one-third as much time on the floor going through similar paces. He did his heavy training a month ago, and has been concentrating on speed and left-hands ever since.

AT CAP'S OFFICE

Inaugurating a new departure the boys will weigh in at the offices of Capt. Seth Streitinger, chairman of the Boxing Commission, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The captain says there is no significance to the switch from the regular Olympic weighing-in room, where the preliminary boys will doff their civies to step on the scales, except to give Los Angeles' championship battle all the luster that belongs to a world-titular affair.

The champion will not box and will not appear at the gym today, but is slated for a private workout. The challenger will spend the day quietly.

Both boys' managers were in San Francisco yesterday and took night trains for Los Angeles. Blake refereed the fight between Mushy Callahan and Jack Silver, and Charley McDonald, Rivera's manager, was among the Los Angeles group who went north to view the holiday encounter.

Capt. Streitinger is due back in the city this morning, having motored north with Tom Gallery to see the Bay City festivities.

CALLAHAN IS BOUT LOSER

in the betting and Silver was quoted at 4 to 1 to win. That merely goes to show how the public opinion changes.

Silver never looked better than he did this afternoon against Callahan. Perhaps that was because the Callahan type, the forcing, boring kind of a scrapper who knows nothing but to swing and take a chance, was built to order for him.

However that may be, Silver put up a heady fight. The knockdown, of course, gave him confidence and spurred him on. But once he had the fight well in hand he played it safe, took no chances and simply left-handed himself into a win.

Callahan was more or less at sea for the first seven rounds, during which time Silver piled up a big lead that only a knockout would have taken from him. Mushy tried desperately in the eighth round. It was his best stand of the engagement and he did score some heavy rights and lefts, all swings, to the body. To my way of thinking, it was no more than an even round, for, save for the Callahan rallies, Silver had outboxed him.

Silver came back with a rush in the ninth, when he had Mushy in distress with body punches in the ninth and he had a slight edge in the tenth.

Silver took the jump on his opponent right at the start of the first round. It was a fairly even session until Silver's right-hand punch, just at the gong, a blow that landed flush to the jaw, floored Callahan. Mushy did not wait for the count, but it jarred some of the confidence out of him and instilled plenty of courage in Silver.

From then on it was very much of a procession, Silver leading all the way and handing Callahan a mushy needed boxing lesson.

The Angeleno did his stunt in the eighth but it was not enough. Silver continued to outsmart him with a left and to keep away from the wild swings Callahan was continually trying to land.

The outcome save for the possibility that Callahan might land one of his wild swings, was never in doubt.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS

ROUND ONE

They came out fighting, and Callahan landed a right to the jaw while Silver shot a left to the face. A violent exchange in the center of the ring followed, each driving over lefts and rights. Callahan landed a right to the jaw, and Silver countered with two left jabs. Callahan drove in a right to the body, which, on return, Silver hit Callahan's lips with a sharp left. A terrific right to the jaw sent Callahan to the canvas. Callahan was up at once and the round ended.

ROUND TWO

Callahan was groggy and Silver shot over two without a return. Silver had the better of a fast exchange, driving in hard rights to the body. Callahan was wild and missed repeatedly. The fighters boy danced all around and crowded him at the ropes. Callahan missed a right and left, but landed a grazing swing as Silver rushed.

ROUND THREE

Silver took the aggressive, and both men landed rights. Callahan missed a left, but landed his right to the shoulder. They clinched, and Callahan rushed Silver into a corner, but was tied up. Silver jabbed twice to the body as Callahan missed a right cross. They wrestled around the ring, and Silver stopped Callahan with two rights which brought blood to the Los Angeles boy's nose and mouth as the round closed.

ROUND FOUR

They sparred in the center of the ring, and Callahan missed several wild swings. Silver jabbed to the face, and Callahan came back with a left hook to the jaw. A vicious right spun Callahan around, and he took two more to the body as he reached Silver. They clinched, and each missed a left and right to the body. Just before the end of the round, Silver stopped Callahan again with a right to the jaw.

ROUND FIVE

They danced around the ring, and Callahan missed a hard right. Callahan drove Silver into the ropes, raining left and rights to the body. Silver shot over a right to the jaw that sent Callahan back, and repeated the same performance after. Callahan shot over two rights to the body without a return, but stopped a right to the jaw on the chest exchange. Callahan landed a wild right, and they locked. Furiously at the ropes, each soaking to the face and body at the bell.

ROUND SIX

Callahan was bleeding at the mouth and from a cut under the right eye. The Los Angeles boy shot over a right and rapped Silver in a clinch. Silver landed five straight lefts to Callahan's face and stunned him with a right, which stopped the rush of the Southern Californian. Silver had the better of several exchanges, but took a hard right to the body. The bell found them sparring.

ROUND SEVEN

Callahan rushed Silver, but missed with two lefts to the body. They battered at each other near the ropes, with Silver landing the more effective punches. Each landed lefts and rights. Callahan rushed Silver into a corner, but was tied up. Silver's left jab continued to bother Callahan, and he took three to the face. Callahan opened with a right, but was sent back on his heels with another left to the jaw at the close of the round.

ROUND EIGHT

Callahan rushed across the ring and drove to a right to the body. They wrestled around the ring, with Callahan punching on Silver's body. Silver drove over a right to the face. Callahan in vain with a left hook, which sent Callahan around. A terrific exchange followed, with Silver soaring to the face and body. Callahan put in a right to the body and a left to the head. They were fighting fast to the bell.

ROUND NINE

Callahan rushed across the ring again, but missed two lefts and a pair of rights. Each man landed rights. Silver shot over a right to Callahan's jaw which turned the Los Angeles boy around. Callahan continued to box in, but his punches landed on Silver's gloved arms. Callahan mixed a right, but landed a left and right to the body. Silver had the better of an exchange around the ring, and the round ended.

ROUND TEN

They shook hands. Callahan landed a left and right to the jaw. Silver's left found a mark in Callahan's face, and they clinched at the ropes. They clinched again with Callahan landing to the body. Silver shot over a right to the jaw, while Callahan missed to the body. They fought toe to toe, each driving in rights to the face. They missed rights and lefts. Callahan rushed, but Silver stopped him with a left as the fight ended.

BORAH FIRST IN SHORT DASH

Movie City Squad Rolls Up 35 Points

L.A.A.C. Team Finishes in Fifth Place

ing a score of 15, as compared with 14 for the L.A.A.C. Other teams finished as follows: Boston, A. A., 10; Olympic Club, San Francisco, 9; Newark A. C., 8; and Century A. C., New York, 7.

Seven new championship records were made, one of the records being a new American mark. Two more meet records were equaled during the afternoon's program. Showing of all the athletes was considered nothing short of phenomenal, particularly as a driving rain flooded the track and field during most of the competition. The struggle for honors was so spirited that but six of the nineteen 1925 champions were able to successfully defend their titles.

The keenest sort of rivalry became manifest early in the games between the king pins of the Pacific Coast, Middle West and East. Incidentally an international touch was put on the proceedings when French, Swedish and Finnish athletes tried confusions with the Yankees with disastrous results.

A. O. Martin of Chicago electrified the throng with his half-mile running when he won by five yards in the new record time of 1m. 53 2-5s. W. A. Caine of Indiana, Watson of Illinois and George Leness, New York A. C., divided the place honors, each five yards apart. Tomorrow the decathlon and the championships and association relays will be decided.

Harold Osborn, Chicago A. A., leaped 6ft., 4½in. in the running high jump and supplemented his 1925 win to beat Gail Robinson, Newark A. C., 6ft., 3½in., and Bob Dudley, Penn. R. R. A. A., 6ft., 2¼in. Pierre Ludon, the French champion, was fourth with 6ft., ½in.

Chicago made a clean sweep of the quarter-mile run when Kenneth Kennedy and Oestriech, Illinois A. C., finished first and third, and Pitch and Archer, Chicago A. A., second and fourth. Kennedy equaled the championship record of 48 3-5s. when he won by three yards.

L. Casey, Los Angeles A. C., was best in the hop, step and jump when he got out the very creditable distance of 49ft., 4 1-4in. Earl Wilson, Hollywood, was second and Homer Martin, Illinois A. C., the 1925 champion, third.

F. Morgan Taylor, Illinois A. C., successfully defended his last year's title in the 440-yard hurdles when he rather easily won in 53s. Johnny Gibson, Fordham University, and George Meyers, Washington State College, split up the place honors.

One of the early competitive casualties was Frank Hussey, the 1926 100-yard champion, in the initial heat of the century dash. The ground back of his push-off let broke so badly that he pulled the back tendon of his right leg, putting him out of competition for the rest of the year. George Guthrie, Illinois A.C., stubbed his toe in the second heat of the high hurdles, while a couple of yards in front at the ninth obstacle and finished but third, putting him out of the final.

The final of the 100 was a triumph for the Far West when Charlie Borah of Hollywood, Cal., got the verdict by an eyelash in 9.8 seconds from Jackson Scholz, New York A.C., to whom De Hart Hubbard, the marvelous colored athlete was third in the century. Hubbard annexed the running broad jump honors with a wonderful leap of 25ft. 2¼in., beating the second man, Paul Jones, Illinois A.C., by a full foot.

Clarence Houser of California was another champion to fall by the wayside early in the games when he finished third in the shot put to H. Schwarze of Wisconsin, who heaved the sixteen-pound missile 49ft. 10 7-16in. with J. Kuck, Kansas State University, second with 48ft. 11 7-8in. Houser's best effort netted him 47ft. 9 5-8in.

Lloyd Hahn, Boston A.A., took the mark at pistol fire and led a pack of twenty milers home in the splashing time of 4m. 18s. Thirty yards back came Willie Goodman, New York A.C., who just beat Raymond Conger, Iowa State College.

The Far West came in for another title when L. W. C. Dye of Hollywood garnered the timber-topping honors over the high obstacles by a narrow margin to beat A. Werner, Illinois A.C., and Hugo Letzner, Olympic Club, by the smashing performance of 14 2-5s.

Harry Hinkel, New York A.C., was the second champion to successfully defend his title when he scampered through the muck to corral the three-mile walking honors. Joe Pearman, a team-mate, trailed him home when Hinkel beat him 100 yards in the new American record time of 21m. 38.5s.

The Middle West scored first blood in the javelin throw when J. Kuck, Kansas State University, threw the javelin 190ft. 7 in. and established a new championship record. C. B. Heiss, Chicago A.A., was second best, three inches back.

Houser of Hollywood made amends for his defeat in the shot when he triumphed in the discus throw with the smashing distance of 153ft. 6 1-2in., more than ten feet better than the best of the others. Houser won this event last year. This is a new championship discus record.

Another 1925 champion was dethroned when Paul Harrington, Boston A. A., and E. E. Meyers, Chicago A. A., by leaping 13 feet in the pole vault, beat Lee Barnes, Hollywood, and Harry Smith, Los Angeles A. C., the last-named being the deposed title-holder.

Philip Osif, an Indian from Haskell Institute, Kansas, duplicated his six-mile junior victory of Saturday by taking the distance-running seniors into camp when he beat, among others, Anderson, intercollegiate champion of Finland. Verne Booth, former intercollegiate champion, was a bang-up second. Osif did 31m. 31s., establishing a new championship record.

George Sharkey of Miami University, Ohio, was a sprinting surprise in the 220 dash when he won by a foot in 21 2-5s., from Borah of Hollywood, with Jackson Scholz, New York A. C., almost aligned.

RING STALLERS HALTED

MARYSVILLE (Cal.) July 5. (AP)—The main event bout of a Fourth of July fight card here today between Mickey O'Donnel of San Francisco and Young Farrell of Los Angeles, featherweights, was stopped in the fourth round when the referee gave a "no fight" decision after warning the boxers against stalling.

Suds Clean Up Mission Squad in Both Games

SEATTLE, July 5. (AP)—Seattle captured two games from the San Francisco Missions here today, winning the first, a slugging affair, 6 to 1, and the second, a pitchers' battle between Steve Martin and Clyde Barfoot, 1 to 0. Martin, a youngster, joined the Indians a week ago. It was his first start with Seattle, although he finished up a few innings of a contest last week.

Three-base hits were plentiful in the first fracas, the Indians getting four while Vache socked one for the Missions.

Seattle took the series five to three. Scores:

GAMBLERS TURN BACK TURF CLOCK

Throng of 30,000 Rush to Place Bets as Chicago Plant Under Truce

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—Race-track history was turned back a quarter of a century for a day—at least—when open betting went ahead with a rush at the new $750,000 Washington Park race track of the Illinois Jockey Club. The wagering was permitted under an armistice declared last night.

The speculators swarmed around thirty-eight betting booths, where the new form of mutuel tickets were sold without the interference of last Saturday, when State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe's forces arrested five cashiers in the face of an injunction issued by Circuit Judge Ira Eyner. The truce was agreed on pending proceedings tomorrow before Judge Eyner.

A throng estimated at 28,000 to 30,000 persons saw the races today, and the speculators were in their glory, even as they were at the old Washington Park track a quarter of a century ago, when open wagering came to an end under antigambling statutes.

OBSERVATIONS

BILL HENRY

ONE of the most interesting things about the report on finances of Big Ten athletics as published in the Rabbit-Wallop column of our esteemed sporting editor, Mr. Paul Lowry, was the fact that only 3 per cent of all scholarships awarded in the Big Ten universities went to athletes. This is contrary of the opinion held by a lot of people that the athletes get all the scholarships they want and then the rest of the students can have what is left. It is possible, of course, that a number of athletes in every college have their way paid by alumni from private and individual funds of which the college has no knowledge but that number is certainly not very great in any one school.

* * *

The continued criticism of the tendency toward too much interest in athletics has led to a very close scrutiny of the sources of all tuition and expenses paid by athletes with the result that it is more than likely that the college authorities know it when an athlete is being helped. In the Southern California Conference, for instance, every athlete who receives a nickel from any outside source is registered with the conference authorities as receiving help and unless that help comes from legitimate sources he can be immediately barred from athletic competition.

* * *

Speaking of money for athletics, we are reminded that a step apparently in the right direction is the voting of a fund for the Junior Chamber of Commerce to serve as a nucleus for a greater fund which is to be used in the promotion of athletics generally in Southern California. This is none too early to begin active preparations for the 1932 Olympic Games and the Junior chamber has been very active so far. The sooner all the forces interested in all branches of athletics are united to boost for the Olympic Games, the better for the success of the 1932 program.

* * *

A lot of folks have been wondering at the absence of some of Southern California's best tennis teams from the Pacific Coast championship tournament which came to a close yesterday. The reason is very simple. This tournament is an elimination affair for the national doubles and the winning team goes east to represent the Pacific Coast. Nearly all of our top-notch senior players in Southern California are tied down to business and could not make the trip east, hence their desire to remain out of the competition rather than spoil the chances of some other team's winning the very much coveted title and trip.

MANDELL OUT FOR TIME WITH BUM RIB

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—Sammy Mandell's activity in the ring will cease for five or six weeks because of an injured rib, Eddie Kane, the lightweight champion's manager, said today.

The rib was injured in a bout on the Coast several weeks ago and hurt again Saturday in Mandell's fight with Rocky Kansas, causing Dr. J. P. O'Donnell, examining physician of the Illinois Athletic Commission, to order a rest.

As soon as Mandell's rib is sound he will go right into training, said Kane.

MEDIATORS TO CONVENE SOON

New Arbitration Board to Hear Rail Wage Dispute

Four Brotherhoods Seeking Large Increases

Samuel E. Winslow May be First Chairman

WASHINGTON, July 5. (Exclusive) Organization of the Board of Mediation created by the Watson-Parker Railway Labor Act, which is expected to be effected this week, will be followed in the near future by meetings "around the board" to bring about agreement between the railroads and their employees on increased wage demands.

The wage demands of the members of the four large railroad brotherhoods run into the millions of dollars. Various estimates have been made as to the amount of the demands in the aggregate, some ranging as high as $500,000,000. Representatives of the brotherhoods, however, do not talk in such figures.

The members of each of the big brotherhoods are seeking an average wage advance of $1 a day each, according to their representatives.

REJECT TWO DEMANDS

The railroads in the eastern district have rejected the demands of the conductors and trainmen for increased wages. Both sides agreed to submit the dispute to the Board of Mediation and that dispute will be the first major issue that will come before the board.

In rejecting the demands of the conductors and trainmen in the East, the railroads said they could not see their way clear to raise wages when they had not yet earned the fair return of 5 3-4 per cent prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Transportation Act.

Wages of conductors and trainmen since 1921, the railroads said, show that the conductors and trainmen have been receiving favorable proportions of earnings of the railroads.

SOUTH AND WEST UNDECIDED

Railroads in the South and West have yet to reject demands for increased wages. Negotiations are in progress, however, and it is regarded as possible that the southern and western roads also will reach an "agreement" with the representatives of the employees to submit the disputes to the Board of Mediation.

Samuel E. Winslow, Massachusetts manufacturer, formerly chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, who was appointed to a five-year term on the Board of Mediation by President Coolidge, probably will be selected as chairman of the board. The other members of the board are Edwin P. Morrow and G. W. W. Hanger, who served as members of the public group of the old Railroad Labor Board; Carl Williams, editor of the Oklahoma Farmer Stockman, and Hywel Davies, mediator of the Department of Labor.

RATE CHANGES SOUGHT

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 5. Exclusive.)—Another battle in the freight rates equalization war in Canada is scheduled to be fought before the Railway Commission here the 9th inst. The Board of trade and all organizations interested in obtaining for the West equal rates with the East are mustering men and data to bring before the railway board.

CARS IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD

Automobile Invades Every Nook and Corner of Globe and America Heads List With One to Each Six Persons of Population

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—The automobile has invaded every nook and corner of the globe and in such quantity that a car is to be found for every seventy-first person. On the basis of 1,748,000,000 world population for 1925, this means that more than 24,000,000 persons are automobile owners.

These figures, announced today by the Commerce Department, revealed also that the United States has the greatest number of automobiles and the highest ratio of such vehicles to population, with one to every six persons. Hawaii has one to every eleven, and Canada one to thirteen.

In the lower ratios is found Afghanistan, with one to 1,300,000 persons; Hedjaz with only four cars, or one for every 225,000; Abyssinia, one to 133,333, and China with one for every 31,871 inhabitants. The Solomon Islands with 181,000 persons has only two automobiles, while Liberia has fifty-four, or one for every 54,259.

In nineteen of the fifty-nine countries surveyed, at least 90 per cent of the automobiles owned were of American manufacture, while in seven, American-made cars constituted at least 80 per cent. South American countries had the greater proportion of American cars, while European countries showed a much lower ratio.

Strikers Plan to Picket All Jobbers' Shops

NEW YORK, July 5. (Exclusive)—Plans for spectacular mass picketing were made by leaders of the 40,000 striking cloak and suit makers today. Orders were issued to the workers to report to a score of meeting halls, most of them on the East Side, at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. From there the strikers will march in mass formation to take up assigned positions before shops, showrooms and stock rooms of jobbers.

The entire garment trades district will be invaded by the strikers.

Under the supervision of the eastern organizing department of the International Ladies' Garment Workers, the pickets plan to concentrate on the jobbers. It is their intention to prevent the sending out of materials to nonunion shops, either in New York or near-by towns. The manufacturers as yet have made no effort to replace the striking cloak makers. Most of them assert the strike will be of short duration.

AMERICAN BOY SCOUTS GIVE BRITAIN STATUE

LONDON, July 5. (AP)—At a ceremony, partly in celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Declartion of American Independence, the Prince of Wales yesterday, in behalf of the British Boy Scouts, accepted from the American Ambassador, Alanson B. Houghton, a bronze statuette of an American bison, the gift of the American Boy Scouts, as a token of good will and friendship. The statuette is dedicated to the "unknown Scout" who, by doing a good turn to an American tourist, induced America to take up the Scout movement. The ceremony took place in Gilwell Park, Essex.

CAILLAUX PLAN LIKELY TO WIN

Cabinet Approves Proposals For French Finances

Measure Goes to Chamber for Consideration Today

Government Believed Sure of Gaining Victory

PARIS, July 5. (AP)—M. Caillaux's financial plan, in which the essential elements of the experts' report are utilized, was approved by the Cabinet this evening. In the opinion of the friends of the government, it will be accepted by the Chamber tomorrow.

The plan involves ratification of the American debt accord and settlement of France's debt to Great Britain, a heavy increase in import duties, financial readjustment of various departments, increased production and strict economies both by the government and the people.

When the subject is brought before the House, the margin in favor of the government may be large or small, according as the debate turns.

OPPOSITION ARRANGED

Any majority will be regarded as sufficient, however, in view of the fact that there is no party or coalition able to dominate the situation at the present time.

A formidable array of talent is lined up against the Cabinet. Ten Deputies, including the leaders of the Socialist and Communist parties, have announced interpellations on the financial problem, while seventeen more are registered to take part in the debate, among them the leaders of the "Young Turks" of the Radical party, to whom the Briand-Caillaux Cabinet is far from acceptable, as well as the leaders of the Moderate and Conservative groups.

M. Tardieu, who, on Tuesday embarrassed the Cabinet by his unexpected intervention, demanding that if delay were accorded the government, it should not be utilized to negotiate a foreign loan, is absent from the list, to the surprise of the general public. He was expected to lead the assault on the government.

MAY ENTER LISTS

Friends of the government, however, have made it known that if the former French High Commissioner to the United States attacks the Ministry on the Washington debt agreement, Premier Briand will retort with a criticism of the manner in which France's war debt to the United States was incurred. M. Tardieu may take part in the debate in case the discussion should turn upon the Treaty of Versailles or the action of the Clemenceau government at Washington.

The Berenger-Mellon accord has gained considerable strength in the past few days; the opposition is far less sanguine regarding its rejection, while there is strong confidence in government circles that it will muster a satisfactory margin.

M. Caillaux will introduce his measures for financial renovation and stabilization at the outset of the session of the Chamber tomorrow. They will be referred to the Finance Committee of the Chamber, which will at once proceed to study them during the course of the debate, which may continue for three days or more.

LUTHERANS IN TRIBUTE

DRESDEN (Germany) July 5. (AP)—The executive committee of the Lutheran world convention closed its session today with a public tribute to Lutherans of the United States for their assistance to needy Germany after the World War. It was announced that $670,000 and thousands of bundles of clothing and food had been sent from the United States.

BANK BILL ONUS LAID ON HOUSE

Failure of McFadden Plans to Get Approval Traced

Senator Glass Says Conferees Prevented Agreement

Pledges Another Effort When Congress Reconvenes

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—Blame for the failure of the Senate and House conferees to agree on a report on the McFadden branch-banking bill was laid on the House managers today by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, one of the Senate representatives in the conference.

In a statement he declared that the banks of the country are deprived of needed legislation because the House managers could not get along together. The main dispute was over the Hull amendments applying to branch banking, but the House conferees, he said, would not even agree to make a report on the other provisions of the bill, with the branch-banking provisions stricken out.

Senator Glass pointed out, however, that the bill still will be in conference when Congress reconvenes in December, and he said another effort will be made to reach an agreement.

The Senate conferees, the Virginia Senator said, were never divided on the Hull amendments or any provision of the bill as submitted to conference. On the other hand, he asserted, the House conferees never were united apparently on any question until the last, when they submitted modified Hull amendments which, he said, the Senate conferees rejected as worse than the original.

At the final meeting of the conferees, Glass declared, it appeared an agreement could be reached when the House members submitted a proposal acceptable to the united representatives, but thirty minutes later one of the House conferees refused to stand by the assignment.

Senator Glass attacked the Hull amendments as granting branch banking privileges to national banks in twenty-two States and denying like privileges in the other States.

He added that they also would permit State banks in twenty-two States to remain or become members of the Federal reserve system, while a different rule would apply to State banks in the twenty-six other States.

New Governor of Canada May Be in America

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 5. (Exclusive.)—There is rumor current here that Viscount Lord Willingdon is returning to England from the Orient across the United States in strict incognito. Lord Willingdon is appointed and will take office as governor-general of Canada in August.

He was to have sailed from Japan for Vancouver on R.M.S. Empress of Australia but that vessel developed engine trouble at Nagasaki and cancelled her sailing. On the next boat due here the 13th inst. Lord Willingdon will not be a passenger according to the sailing lists.

It is said that he may have desired to avoid the present political crisis in Canada and it is pointed out that precedent demands that a new governor-general shall not enter the country until the retiring one has returned to England.

Convicts Saw Through Floor in Prison Flight

HOUSTON, (Tex.) July 5. (AP)—Using knives and saws to cut their way through the floor of the main building at the Blue Ridge State Prison Farm, twenty-one Mexican convicts escaped from the institution last night.

Blood hounds have been unleashed and one pack was following a trail that led east toward Almeda and another pack was trailing a party of convicts toward Houston.

One convict was recaptured before he escaped from the farm.

There were fifty-three men in the building where the break was made, but only twenty-one attempted to escape.

Several of the convicts were serving long terms, one of them ninety-nine years for murder, prison authorities said.

Rural Letter Carriers Pick New President

SACRAMENTO, July 5. (AP)—Alex Duncan, Sacramento, was elected president of the California State Rural Letter Carriers' Association this afternoon at the closing session of a two-day annual meeting. Other officers named were: C. E. Smith, Tulare, vice-president; D. A. Yeager, Campbell, secretary; W. A. Rhyner, Lathrop, treasurer. W. H. James, Carpenteria; T. C. Montgomery, Turlock, and R. J. Stump, Watsonville, were named as the executive committee.

Hayward won the 1927 convention. W. H. James, Carpenteria, was named a special delegate to the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association in Philadelphia, August 30 to September 3, to endeavor to obtain the 1927 national meeting for Sacramento.

GEORGIA TO SUE FOR PATRIOT AUTOGRAPH

ATLANTA (Ga.) July 5. (AP)—The State of Georgia will sue the Rosenbach Corporation of New York in an effort to recover the autograph of Button Gwinnett, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. It recently was purchased at auction by the Rosenbach Corporation for $22,500. Atty.-Gen. Napier, in making the announcement, said the signature was stolen from the State Department of Archives and History. Gwinnett's signature is the rarest of any of the signers of the Declaration.

ALLIED ARMIES' ADVANCE SLOW

Marshals Chang and Wu Find Opposition Strong

National Force Intrenched Outside Capital

Efforts Made to Stabilize Temporary Cabinet

PEKING, July 5. (AP)—The allied armies of Marshals Chang Tso-Lin and Wu Pei-Fu are making only slow progress in their general advance against the national armies, strongly intrenched along a front northwest and west of Peking.

The attacking troops have sent back reports of the occupation of several towns formerly held by their foes, while it is declared that two divisions of the Manchurian war lord's forces have taken possession of the first line of the national armies' defenses below Nankow Pass, twenty-six miles northwest of the capital.

Meanwhile efforts are being made in Peking to give stability to the political situation. A movement has been launched to give permanent status to the temporary Cabinet headed by Admiral Tu Hsi-Kwei, as acting Premier and Minister of the Navy. Dr. W. W. Yen, who resigned recently as Premier, is being urged to accept the portfolio of Foreign Affairs under Admiral Tu.

He is promised the support of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin's party, which, it is understood, opposed his retention of the premiership. Political leaders hope that if Dr. Yen is induced to rejoin the government he will be instrumental in obtaining a continuation of the international tariff conference here to China's advantage.

MOOSE WARNED OF RED MENACE

Secretary Davis Speaks at Convention Closing

Defiance Hurled at Moscow Dictation Attempt

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—The United States does not want any virus of Communism in its system, James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, declared today in an Independence-Day address before the closing meeting of the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose. "We know it for the poison that it is," Davis said.

"The United States," he asserted "is the first country in the world in which the common man was placed on terms of equality with the wealthy before the law.

"Communists will tell us that is not enough. They say that we must level all distinctions, that we must make all men rich or poor alike, that we must emulate the example of Russia.

ANSWER TO COMMUNISTS

"Our answer to them is that we will fight to the last drop of our blood before we will consent to submit to the dictation of Moscow. We have already leveled all the distinctions except those which are made by nature, and if nature persists in making distinctions in human beings; if nature gives one man a greater capacity for creating wealth than she gives to another—then we should stand by nature.

"We believe in the America of Washington and Lincoln in the America of the men who adopted the Declaration of Independence on the Fourth of July, 1776. It is our purpose to stand for the principles that have made America great, and the principles that will keep America great. Why should America surrender her glories in order to sink into the Russian economic marsh? What shame is involved in wealth, and the ever-growing wealth of America?

RICHES WITHOUT SHAME

"There is no shame in it. America has grown rich because she has remained true to the economic laws and the principle set forth by the fathers of the republic."

America, he praised as the land of opportunity because Americans have proved to be the kind of men who knew how to grasp opportunity.

"It is the politic marvel of the ages and the inspiration of nations. May she remain such forever," he said.

GERMAN POTASH BOGEY ALLAYED

Syndicate Issues Statement to American Farmers

Assurance Bars Manipulation of Monopoly Deposits

Fertilizer Will be Sold at Lowest Possible Price

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—Assurance that the German potash deposits will not be manipulated to the detriment of the agricultural interests of the United States, or any other nation, is given by the German Potash Syndicate in a statement of its policy made public today. Denial that these deposits constitute a world monopoly also was made.

It was the syndicate's first statement, issued as a message to American farmers and financiers, since Secretary of Commerce Hoover and other government officials made it known that they considered the syndicate's control of the German potash deposits an "objectionable foreign monopoly," similar to the supposed monopolies of rubber, coffee and other commodities.

SEEK INCREASED SALES

The statement was made public in this country by M. S. Forbes, vice-president of the Potash Importing Corporation of America, described as an organization financed and operated by Americans, and which controls the importation and distribution of all German potash used in the United States.

"The very size and quality of the German potash deposits and of the technical equipment of the German potash mines," said the statement, "would render foolish any policy of the German Potash Syndicate which would aim at anything else than the biggest possible increase of potash consumption as a fertilizer throughout the world."

CAMPAIGNS PLANNED

Education campaigns as to the use of potash and free availability of the fertilizer at the lowest prices consistent with the cost of production were given as the aims of the syndicate. The creation of the syndicate, said the statement, "was, in a way, an experiment in economic policy calculated to prevent, for the benefit of the public, the evils of unchecked private exploitation of a public commodity." Its organization, continues the statement, "has absolutely prevented any possibilities of 'cornering' the potash market to the detriment of the farmer."

Referring to the syndicate's recent effort to float a $25,000,000 bond issue in this country, an issue which was marketed in London after American bankers had been refused permission to participate, the syndicate's statement said:

"The fact that a considerable amount of German potash is sold the American farmer made it appear fair and reasonable to have American banking interests participate in the financing of the German potash syndicate for the benefit of both American consumers and investors."

NEW COTTON MENACE IN CROP AREAS

Flea or Hopper Reported Doing Heavy Damage in Texas and Other States

TALLULAH (La.) July 5. (AP)—"A totally unexpected and unprecedented spread" of damage to the cotton crop caused by what is known as the "cotton hopper" or "cotton flea" has appeared recently, the delta laboratory of the Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture announced today.

Emergency research observations have been carried on owing to the lack of information on many points of importance in meeting the problem. The cotton hopper was first noted damaging cotton a number of years ago in a few Gulf Coast counties of Texas. Last year there were a few outbreaks of the insect in Georgia and South Carolina and evidence of occasional injured plants at various points through the cotton belt. This spring it was noted that an unusual number of hoppers were transferring their attention to the cotton in South Texas, but damage to the remainder of the cotton belt became evident less than three weeks ago.

Complete information is not yet available as to distribution through the cotton belt. Positive records of damage have been compiled for several Southern States.

In Texas, apparently the whole State is involved with the exception of the extreme western margin of the cotton area, and a very small district in the southeastern corner of the State.

Five Passport Counterfeiters Held in Warsaw

WARSAW, July 5. (Exclusive)—Five passport counterfeiters, with J. Rubinsky of New York, a naturalized American citizen, as the ring leader, were arrested in Warsaw today on information given the police by the American Consulate. It is reckoned that on the last seven steamers sailing to America between twenty and fifty Poles carried forged passports to enter the United States.

They paid $50 to $300 for the forged papers. The reason for the popularity of forged passports is that 250,000 Poles who are anxious to emigrate to America, applied for visas but could not obtain them because this year's quota provides visas for only 6000.

SANITARY OFFICERS SEEKING MORE POWER

VERA CRUZ, July 5. (Exclusive)—Dictatorial powers have been requested by the sanitary authorities here in their campaign to check the spread of tuberculosis. They state that it is materially impossible to check the disease so long as persons suffering from it cannot be barred from certain occupations and trades. Many street venders and employees in the public markets are said to be suffering from the disease and are continual sources of infection. The matter has been taken up with the Bureau of Public Health in Mexico City.

Law Constitutional Amendment Urged

Live-Stock Code Also to Be Submitted

Propositions Refer to Highways

PHOENIX, July 5. (Exclusive)—Five questions will be at the bottom of the November ballot in Arizona. Two will be submissions from the last Legislature, a new game law that needs a stock code. Two of the other measures to be voted on have reference to the highways, one being sponsored by the Arizona Good Roads' Association. A proposed constitutional amendment calling for the expenditure of $10,000,000 to be secured by state bond issues was not presented at this time. The bill submitted proposed to continue the 10-cent tax levy, 3-cent gasoline tax and taxing of trucks and passenger busses, adding to the foregoing taxes to be paid by the transportation lines. The second highway measure, sponsored by Secretary of State J. H. Kerby, seeks creation of the office of commissioner of motor vehicles, with a six-year tenure and $5000 salary, gives a blanket appropriation for expense to be incurred and levies taxes on motor vehicles according to weight, repeals the personal property tax, license fee and, in commercial vehicles, the mileage tax. The salary of the Secretary of State, increased $2000 a year by the last Legislature because of the added work in caring for auto licenses, is not touched by the act.

AIMED AT HUNT

The 28th bill, limiting State officers to two consecutive terms, usually is termed "a measure to keep Gov. G. W. P. Hunt from being governor for life." It has been put forward especially by Charles M. Roberts, a Willcox banker, who for many years was one of Hunt's main backers. Judges and members of the Legislature are exempted from the limitation, while State treasurers may not serve two terms consecutively.

Only a misunderstanding concerning the date of filing kept from the ballot a measure to permit reading of the Bible in Arizona schools, something now forbidden by law. The proposal was to have been without sectarian comment and, as explained in an accompanying letter, was to give school children the advantage of contact with one of the world's literary masterpieces. Although 8000 names are said to have been given in circulation of the petitions, the bill was favored generally by members of the Phoenix Ministerial Association and other active church members of several denominations. The question is to be put before the next Legislature.

RIVER PLAN FAILS

Another interesting proposition that passed by the wayside was one that created a hill further delaying action of the Colorado-river commission, taking from the Legislature the power to confer with other States to adopt any submissions of national origin. Everything of this sort was to have been legal only after assent of the electorate of the State, an accompanying proposition to create a mandate turning over to the heads of State institutions, a body created by the Governor, the sum of $250,000 for engineering research on the Colorado River, with respect to possibilities for irrigation and power. These conjoined measures formed a long-continued effort of the Arizona Highline Association to obtain financial maintenance from the State at large. Declaration is made that the petitions were circulated in the southern part of the State by State highway department employes.

An effort made by druggists to obtain authority for importation of grain alcohol for chemical preparations did not reach the filing stage. It was made of intention to distribute liquor by prescription, sometimes forbidden by Arizona statute.

Philippine War Veterans Hold Manila Parade

MANILA, July 5. (AP)—Five thousand veterans of the Philippine insurrection of 1898-1901 against their former American government proudly marched today in a great demonstration of their loyalty to the United States after twenty-eight years under the flag.

Emilio Aguinaldo, president of the Philippine government and leader of the insurrecto forces, stood in the reviewing stand with Maj.-Gen. Sladen as the former insurrection forces and the United States Army troops marched by in an American Independence Day celebration. It was the most pretentious celebration of the birth of the United States ever witnessed in the Philippines.

LARGE ESTATE DIVIDED

California Woman Awarded Almost Half of $2,000,000 Fortune

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) July 5. (Exclusive)—Final settlement of litigation over the will of the late C. P. Moore, Sr., was made when Judge Al... signed a judgment dividing the estate between Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett of California and the C. P. Moore Home for Women, naming new trustees to handle the estate and ordering the net balance of the estate at this time.

Under the judgment, Mrs. Bartlett receives $944,522.38 as her share, from which she is to receive the income for the remainder of her life, and which goes to her children upon her death. Mrs. Bartlett received $225,000 from the estate under a previous judgment.

The Moorman home gets $1,185,... as its share of the estate, the trustees named under the will, Dr. Leon Solomon, Robert Morton and Arthur Board, to have control of the estate, and to continue to act as trustees of the home.

TO ADMIT GUILT IN COUNTERFEITING CASE

VE ISSUES UP TO ARIZONANS

Law Constitutional Amendment Urged

Live-Stock Code Also to Be Submitted

Propositions Refer to Highways

PHOENIX, July 5. (Exclusive)—Five propositions will be at the bottom of the November ballot in Arizona. Two of the submissions from the last Legislature, a new game law that needs a constitutional amendment, and a live-stock code. Two of the other matters to be voted on have reference to the highways, one being sponsored by the Arizona Good Roads' Association. A proposed constitutional amendment calling for the expenditure of $18,000,000 to be secured by bond issues was not presented to the bill submitted proposed to continue the 10-cent tax levy, 3-cent gasoline tax and taxing of trucks and passenger busses, adding to the present taxes to be paid by the transportation lines. The second highway measure, sponsored by Secretary of State J. H. Kerby, seeks creation of the office of commissioner of motor vehicles, with a six-year tenure and $6000 salary, given a blanket appropriation for expenses to be incurred in the taxes on motor vehicles according to weight, repeals the personal property tax, license fee and, in commercial vehicles, the mileage tax. The salary of the Secretary of State, fixed at $2000 a year by the last Legislature because of the added work of filing for auto licenses, is increased by the act.

AIMED AT HUNT

The bill, limiting State officers to consecutive terms, usually is said to be a measure to keep Gov. O. P. Gist from being governor for a third term has been put forward especially by Charles M. Roberts, a Williams man who for many years was the State's most active backers. Judges and members of the legislature are exempted from the limitation, while governors may not serve two terms consecutively.

Concerning a misunderstanding concerning the date of filing kept from the voters a measure to permit reading of the Bible in Arizona schools, somewhat forbidden by law. The bill was to have been without opposition and, as explained in a supporting letter, was to "let school children the advantage of contact with one of the world's great masterpieces. Although Eucharistic leaders are said to have been back of the circulation of the petitions, the bill was favored generally by members of the Phoenix Ministerial Association and other active church organizations of several denominations. The matter is to be put before the Legislature.

RIVER PLAN FAILS

One interesting proposition that was voted by the wayside was one that would call further delay in consideration of the Colorado-river question pending from the Legislature pending consideration with other States of the many submissions of national importance. Everything of this sort has been legal only after approval of the electorate of the State, accompanying proposition providing for repaying over to the educational institutions, a body created by the Governor, the sum necessary for engineering research on the Colorado River, with respect to navigation for irrigation and power. These conjoined measures were the long-continued effort of the Reclamation Association to secure maintenance from funds at large. Declaration is made that the petitions were circulated in the southern part of the State by State highway department employees.

Other roads made by druggists to secure authority for importation of material for chemical preparations did not reach the filing stage although the roads of intention to dispense liquor by prescription, sometimes used by Arizona statute.

Philippine War Veterans Hold Manila Parade

MANILA, July 5. (AP)—Five thousand veterans of the Philippine Insurrection of 1896-1901 against their former American government proudly marched today in a great demonstration of their loyalty to the United States after twenty-eight years under the Stars and Stripes.

Leonard Wood, president of the Philippine government and leader of the American troops in the reviewing stand, with Maj.-Gen. Gladden as the guest of honor, and the United States Army troops marched by in observance of American Independence Day in the Philippines. It was the most pretentious celebration of the birth of the United States ever witnessed in the Philippines.

...GE ESTATE DIVIDED

Widow Awarded Almost Half of $2,000,000 Fortune

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) July 5. (Exclusive)—Final settlement of litigation over the will of the late C. P. Moore, Jr., was made when Judge Alford signed a judgment dividing the estate between Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett Moore and the C. P. Moore, Jr., Memorial Home for Women, naming new trustees to handle the estate and turning the net balance of the estate over to the latter.

Under the judgment, Mrs. Bartlett will receive $1,000,000 as her share, from which she is to receive the income for the remainder of her life, and which will go to her children upon her death. Mrs. Bartlett received $225,000 in cash under a previous judgment.

The Memorial Home gets $1,165,000 as the share of the estate, which is controlled under the will by Dr. Leon Solomon, Mrs. Moore and Arthur Board. Mrs. Moore has control of the estate, and continues to act as trustee for the home.

...LARIA CURB ...RGED AS VITAL

...r East Worker Finishes Extensive Survey

...How Disease Ruined Early Civilizations

...dy Reported Gaining Since War

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive)—...e future of the white race de...s largely on the conquest of ma...laria, declares William Jordan Rapp, ...ector of the Near East Relief's ...ntary commission, in the current ...ue of a national magazine.

"The slow invasion of the hot coun...ies by men from the temperate ...ones makes the annihilation of ma...aria an urgent necessity, if the ...ite man is ever to profit the white man, ...stead of destroying him," he says. ...Mr. Rapp recently completed a ...ey of malarial conditions in the ...ear East, as secretary of a commis...ion headed by Dr. Fridjof Nansen, ...ell known in the United States, he points ...t that malaria causes annually 3,000,...00 cases of malaria with an eco...omic loss of $100,000,000. The sit...ation is far worse in the Near East. ...Historians attribute the decay of ...uch great civilizations as the Baby...onian, Egyptian and Greek to ma...aria," says Mr. Rapp. "The disease is ...ow so prevalent that the vitality ...f the whole population of Greece, ...sia Minor, Syria, Palestine and ...gypt has been undermined by the ...ensuing fever. Civilization seems ...o be breaking down before this in...idious enemy.

MALADY INCREASES

"The studies show that malaria in ...ome part of the world has increased by leaps and bounds since the war. It was war, sweeping over the Near-eastern lands, that broke down the people's resistance and made way for the ravages of malaria. Many scourges follow in the train of war, but none is more deadly in the long run than this malady which stalks on the wings of mosquitos throughout the lands which were the cradle of the western civilization.

"More and more the realization that malaria is a social disease is being driven home. Where people are prosperous, well-housed, well-fed, profitably and healthfully occupied, malaria is seldom a serious problem, even in the tropics. A prosperous people possesses the necessary communal spirit and wealth to fight the malady. In the United States, malaria is largely restricted to the poor agricultural population of the Southern States, where its ravages are far greater than most people realize. Government antimosquito campaigns are of no avail in the face of the apathy of a poverty-stricken people. Distribution of quinine to sufferers acts only as a temporary palliative. Today malaria is the greatest human scourge next to war. The waste of human life caused by tuberculosis, cancer or any other group of diseases is small in comparison with that caused by malaria.

"Formerly it was thought that quinine was a specific poison for the malarial parasite, that it cured the disease by killing the parasite. If that theory were correct, big doses would be more effective than small ones. But this is not the case. There is now overwhelming evidence that after quinine has been absorbed by the human organism, it is somehow modified by the body cells and changed into a substance which is fatal to the malarial parasites. Thus man himself is to some extent responsible for his cure, and any factor which reduces his power of self-help must reduce his hope of cure. These factors include deficient nutrition, ill health due to extraneous causes, exhaustion and strain, repeated infection, and perhaps also overdoses of quinine.

COMBATING DISEASE

"No single measure will eliminate malaria. It must be fought incessantly and in all ways. Every infected person must be treated; the breeding places of the mosquito must be hunted out; the vitality of the population must be built up by improved housing and nutrition and by better working conditions.

"A study of malaria in Persia by the Near East Relief showed 86 per cent of all children badly infected. Throughout the Near East the disease destroys every year a population equal to that of Constantinople or Cairo.

"Although malaria has yet to be conquered, the progress of science in fighting it is one of the great achievements of the past century. But it is probably true that statesmen, agriculturalists and merchants, by keeping the world at peace and building up the prosperity of its inhabitants, will play a more important part than even scientists and sanatoria in ultimately vanquishing the disease."

FLYING BICYCLE MAKES DEBUT

PARIS, July 8. (Exclusive)—A young French mechanic in a factory at Dijon has just invented a bicycle that flies. According to a report received in Paris the Frenchman has been working on his invention several years and finally has completed successful tests. The bicycle immediately can be transformed into a small monoplane and fly to a height of 150 feet. Trials were conducted without mishap and the mechanic intends to present his unique invention to the public at the beginning of August. The successful manufacture of the bicycle in large quantities will make flying within the means of all, in the opinion of the inventor.

ANOTHER PETRIFIED FOREST IN ARIZONA

MESA (Ariz.) July 8. Exclusive.)—A new petrified forest has been found. It lies about 100 miles southeast of here, near the line between Pinal and Graham counties and in the midst of the Deer Creek coal field. Edwin Watson, head of the company developing the coal measures, has brought here a section of petrified tree trunk two feet in diameter and eighteen inches in height, together with many smaller specimens of the agatized material. The "wood" is of grayish color, in this respect only being dissimiliar to that found near Holbrook in Northern Arizona. Many specimens were coal black on the surface, the discoloration departing when the pieces were taken from the field.

DIVORCES NOW MORE FREQUENT IN CANADA

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 8. (Exclusive)—The divorce craze has hit Canada and Vancouver has cemome the "Reno" of Canada. Of the 561 divorces granted in this country last year 139 were granted in British Columbia, and of this number 112 went through the Vancouver registry. This year Vancouver will break all records. Already 105 actions have been listed, 65 have been tried and 62 of these have been granted. In addition, four marriages have been annulled and two judicial separations granted. Until last year, according to statistics, divorce in Canada was rare.

UNION CHIEFTAIN FLAYS BALDWIN

Premier Roundly Berated by Railwaymen's Head

British Government Assailed as 'Employers' Servant

Aide's Efforts to Suppress Speech Prove Futile

LONDON, July 5. (AP)—The growing bitterness engendered among workers generally by the government's handling of the coal dispute and the action of the Trades Union Congress in the general strike was evidenced at the opening at Weymouth today of the annual conference of the National Union of Railwaymen.

The president of this organization, A. W. Dobbie, attacked Premier Baldwin and the government and upheld the miners in their resistance to what he termed unwarranted attacks on their standards of living. He denounced the government as the willing servant of employers and financiers and characterized the Prime Minister as "a dangerous hypocrite—a man of peace always engaged in fighting the workers."

In an allusion to Mr. Baldwin's rural pursuits, he declared that the Prime Minister "had learned more from the fox than from the pig."

J. H. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, is reported as having tried vainly to dissuade President Dobbie from delivering the speech, and the conference is expected to develop a bitter phase between the Moderates, led by Mr. Thomas, and the Extremists who highly disapprove of the manner in which the general strike was called off by the Trades Union Congress.

Another incident of the conference was the adoption of a resolution that only representatives of newspapers which were trade union should be allowed to report the debates.

A special meeting of the Cabinet was held today to consider the coal dispute. The government will ask Parliament for an appropriation of £3,000,000 to enable it to enter the coal import trade in order to get industries properly started again.

An automobile weighing only 1800 pounds has been built for racing in England and is expected to make 175 miles an hour.

UNEARTH ASIA MINOR CITY

Excavators Find Clay Plumbing, "Veshebts" and Ionic Temple in Ruins of Kyme

[Note: Czecho-Slovakia has sent into Asia Minor an archeological expedition which may prove to be as important as those which uncovered the ruins of the Trojan cities, and Sardis. For a year, the scientists under C. J. Nepor and A. Salac, have been digging at the ruins of Kyme, ancient Greek city midway between Smyrna and Bergamum.]

BY A. SALAC,
Excavator in charge

[Copyright, 1926]

PRAGUE (Czecho-Slovakia) July 5. (Exclusive)—Clay plumbing with stone joints, "veshebts" buried with the dead, bones of persons who left this vale of tears some 3000 years ago, and a monumental Ionic temple filled with relics of worship have already rewarded our search into the ruins of Kyme and we believe we are just at the doorway of discovery.

Kyme is at the very heart of a rich archeological field. Halfway between Bergamum and Smyrna, every culture of this Mediterranean cradle of western culture has tramped through it or over it. The ruins of Ephesus lie a little way to the south and the successive cities of the ancient site of Troy have been dug out, city upon city, nearby. From the days of Semiramis, 4000 years ago, to the time of Osman, six centuries ago, the vicinity of Kyme has been the scene of battles which determined the direction of western civilization. Known to the Greeks as Anatolia—the East—it witnessed the wars of Medes and Persians; of the Greeks with the Persians; of the Romans with Mithridates; of the Arabs, Seljuks, Mongols and Osmanli with the Byzantine Empire. Alexander the Great and later, the Romans, fought for the mastery of the civilized world here.

If the rumor that Mussolini, dictator of Italy, hopes to seize this territory as an outlet for his overpopulated country proves true, Kyme may again witness the convulsions of conquest and colonization.

DISCOVERED PRIVATE HOUSE

It is not known exactly when Kyme was destroyed but there are indications that it fell into decay near the end of the tenth century, A. D. There are still fragments of pillars and it was these which indicated the location of our first excavations.

No walls were visible on the surface but after a short time we struck masonry and discovered a private house. In its rooms we came upon many fragments of pottery, chiefly with embossed ornaments. In the square in front of the house we came upon the Kymean substitute for modern plumbing. There was a huge water cistern and from it earthenware tubes ran in all directions. The joints were made of stones into which holes had been bored on several sides. Presumably the connection was secured by tar or some elastic packing which would permit expansion and contraction under temperature changes.

The hill upon which Kyme stood is separated from the sea by a narrow plain. Here the sea forms a rather broad bay, surrounded on three sides by hills. The fourth side is open and in the distance lies the island of Lesbos. A more beautiful location could hardly be imagined. Still, the romantic spot is almost deserted today and only shepherds and camel-drivers frequent the place.

History tells us that the town was inhabited by colonizing Greek tribes about the eleventh century before Christ. The Greeks, according to tradition, found there some older town, and it is the ruins of this town which we hope to discover.

FIND MANY PILLARS

We worked with about fifty laborers in the months of September and October, 1925, and began our excavations in the Acropolis. On the coast below the Acropolis and near our tent we had seen several blocks of columns. We expected to find something in the nature of the small private dwelling but the row of columns which we finally uncovered, after many days of work, was nearly 650 feet long. The building undoubtedly dated from the comparatively modern Roman period and probably connected in some way with the port.

Another attempt came out upon the step of a building, obviously of monumental character. This proved to be an Ionic temple, with columns, one of the most interesting of our discoveries. There were many implements in the building and a beautiful marble head of a woman, which seems to have belonged to a statue of Aphrodite, goddess of love. We ascribe it to the fourth century before Christ. Nearby lay the torso of a marble statue representing a small boy in a sitting position.

EGYPTIAN FIGURES

Two small figures of greenstone, evidently of Egyptian origin, were also found. These "veshebts" buried with the dead and dating from the first half of the sixth century B. C. have been found in many Greek and Roman temples devoted to the worship of the Egyptian goddess Isis and were evidently importations.

In the third place in which we worked we discovered some interesting fragments and observed that the slope of the hill, though quite gentle, grew suddenly steeper near the foot. Several feet down we discovered a marble floor and on the slope of the hill a well-built wall, going down to a depth of twelve feet or more. It was a public square built during the Roman occupation. The discovery threw considerable light on the importance which Rome attached to its colony here.

Our last excavations were experimental shafts sunk into the Necropolis, or City of the Dead. There we found a simple stone sarcophagus with the lid in place. In it were a few bones of the skeleton and the insignificant remains of loving gifts placed there by mourners, themselves mere scraps of bone for centures.

The tomb gave evidence of having been robbed in ancient times. Such spoliated tombs have been found in all places and ages. It is curious to think that 3000 years from now the efforts of today's archeologists to learn the secrets of past ages may be confused with the thefts of the desert riff-raff sometimes, unfortunately, not altogether mistakenly.

We hope soon to reach the older cities supposed to lie beneath the discoveries we have already made. When Schliemann was excavating at Mycenae in 1876, after he carried out his wonderful work at Troy, he dug up such masses of gold as even he, a millionaire, had never seen before in one spot. We, too, may grate our shovels on such treasure. We may find works of art, a few lines of verse lost for thirty centures, or a clew to a lost chapter of history.

In 1836, Charles Fellows, an Englishman, dug up a small tomb at Xoma, a few miles from Kyme. On it was the following inscription:

"Orestus, the father, and Chrysets, the mother, made this tomb for their sweetest child, for the sake of remembrance, and for themselves."

That was worth the search through the dust of twenty centuries.

GERMANY GRIPPED BY RAINSTORM

Parts of Berlin Inundated and Agricultural Lands Suffer in Cloudbursts

BERLIN, July 5. (AP)—Violent thunder storms, cloudbursts and accompanying floods continue throughout the country. The western periphery of Berlin was inundated this afternoon and fire brigades were kept busy aiding refugees and pumping out the cellars of apartments and houses situated on the lower level.

The principal thoroughfares of Berlin's eastern suburbs are entirely under water and traffic is completely suspended.

For hours today the electric power station at Spandau was without current. A large area in the Lebus district, Province of Brandenburg, is flooded and about 1500 acres of harvest have been destroyed. The railway line between Leipsic and Magdeburg was interrupted for hours because of the undermining of a railway embankment.

Vast areas are flooded in the Silesian Mountains—the Riesengebirge—a mountain pass separating Bohemia from Prussian Silesia, where telegraph, telephone and electric lines have been swept away by the torrents.

Torrential rains are reported in Southern Germany. In Bavaria, many houses caved in, and at Hechingen, in the Province of Hohenzollern, the floods stopped traffic and scores of automobiles were abandoned by their owners.

Strife Looms on Liquor Views of University Head

PORTLAND (Or.) July 5. (Exclusive.)—If dispatches from Iowa City, Iowa, quoting Dr. Arnold B. Hall, president-elect of the University of Oregon, as declaring against national prohibition, are correct he may face trouble in Oregon.

Immediately upon reading the dispatches the headquarters committee of the State Anti-Saloon League hurried into session and passed a resolution requesting the Board of Regents of the university to investigate the dispatches to see whether Dr. Hall really made such statements.

The resolutions also expressed firm conviction that the people of Oregon would not want a man who would be author of such statements to be head of their State university.

Former German Ambassador to America Dies

ESSEN (Germany) July 5. (AP)—Dr. Otto Ludwig Wiedfeldt, former German Ambassador, to the United States and director-general of the Krupp Works, died today.

Dr. Wiedfeldt was 55 years of age. Since his return from Washington in January, 1925, he had devoted himself entirely to the physical and financial reorganization of the huge Krupp plant.

He recently returned to his office after spending several months in Switzerland seeking to recuperate his health.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour-ing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

ONE OF COPPER MARKET STRONG

Price Continues to Hold 14-Cent Level

Signs of Change Up or Down Held Lacking

Favorable Position Due to Policy of Producers

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS.
(Editor, The Mining Journal.)

Copper still stays firm at the high mark and shows no particular tendency to move up or down. It does not react downward in the general business depression of a few months ago, while practically all other commodities did move downward. In other words, with the continuance of the policy of the copper producers to adjust their production to the consumption of the metal, price and demand for copper have stabilized and the objective toward which the producers have worked has been accomplished.

The stabilization process has, of course, been greatly aided by the excellent statistical position of the metal and the fact that the copper industry is practically standing up under peacetime conditions at the plants as it stood at the peak of wartime rush.

STATISTICS REVIEWED

A review of the statistics on the metal show that all records are broken for war years when production and consumption were at forced draft and under unlimited credit conditions. It also shows that copper has practically back to the record point in everything except price and it is material if anything more, can be expected in price until such time as the mines are able to produce again their copper up to their capacity of production.

However, it is not necessary for producers to get wartime prices as there has been a most remarkable progress in the past few years in lowering costs and in getting greater efficiency of operations and mines are making good money at

Continues to Hold at 14-Cent Level

Change Up or Down Held Lacking

Position Due to Policy of Producers

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS,
(Editor, The Mining Journal.)

Copper still stays firm at the 14-cent mark and shows no particular tendency to move up or down. It does not point downward in the general business depression of a few months ago, while practically all other commodities did move downward. In other words, with the continuance of the policy of the copper producers to adjust their production to the consumption of the metal, the price and demand for copper is steadied and the objective toward which the producers have worked has been accomplished.

The stabilization process has, of course, been greatly aided by the favorable statistical position of the metal, the fact that the copper industry is practically standing under operating conditions at the place where it stood at the peak of the boom rush.

STATISTICS REVIEWED

A review of the statistics on the subject show that all records are held by years when production and consumption were at forced draft under unlimited credit conditions. It also shows that copper is now getting back to the record points in everything except price and it is believed that if anything more can be said in price until such time as the mines are able to produce and ship copper up to their capacity again.

However, it is not necessary for producers to get wartime prices when there has been a most remarkable progress in the past few years in lowering costs and in getting greater efficiency of operations and many are making good money at 14-cent copper who were never able to do so a few years ago.

The world production of copper hit its peak in 1917 when 1,386,403 tons were produced, yet during 1925 the production was within 68,000 tons of this mark, or, to be more exact, 1,327,208 tons. When it is considered that but 4600 tons of copper went into munitions during 1925, the gain of the past few years is obvious.

The high mark on United States copper production was in 1916, when such large quantities were furnished the allied countries. The United States production that year was 968,925 tons, while in 1925 it was 946,800 tons, and it is greater now than during last year.

Copper exports also reached their high point in 1917, totaling 493,286 tons, and even with the poor conditions existing during the last year in Europe, the industrial depression of Germany, the lack of finances, the decline of the franc, the debt settlement squabbles, etc., 481,404 tons of copper went abroad, almost the record mark of all time. Yet we know the European countries are hungry for the metal.

Likewise the consumption of copper in the United States has come up close to the record point. The record copper consumption in the United States for all time was in 1918 when the American manufacturers used 830,835 tons, yet this figure bids fair to be passed soon with peacetime industrial needs, as 1925 saw a consumption of 743,500 tons of copper in the United States.

The 1918 figure of consumption is somewhat misleading, as the manufacturers were buying ahead for future needs at that time and much of this copper contributed to the enormous surplus after the war, while the consumers are now buying only their actual needs today.

The high point in surplus copper was in 1921 when the excess war copper came back into stock and then we had 329,500 tons of copper on hand ready to be fabricated, yet today, in spite of enormous production, the surplus is around 60,000 tons, or less than three weeks' supply.

When we hear it repeated so frequently that copper is in an excellent statistical position, we can see from the above figures what is meant. Copper is proceeding in but one direction, toward prosperity, and it has been so proceeding for a considerable time. It can only move as rapidly as consumption will permit, but there seems to be no doubt that it is advancing. The controlling factor is Europe and its ability to finance and use the copper it needs. That is, Europe will bring quicker prosperity to the industry, although it would come without Europe picking up, except that it would take a greater time.

Heavy Buying in Electrical Lines by Coast Plants

On the Pacific Coast industrial plants and particularly lumber mills have been good buyers of electrical equipment during the past week, Electrical World, New York, reports. Pumping plant and accessory sales have been about 10 to 15 per cent in excess of those of any previous season.

Throughout the electrical industry steady business is being transacted and utility construction work continues active. Sales of line materials and switching equipment were prominent in last week's transactions. Industrial plants are maintaining a fair rate of buying and the demand for small motors for domestic appliances is especially good. Although leaders in the industry anticipate a slight recession in business during the next six months present inquiries do not apparently indicate this.

In New England central-station companies are buying in good volume and the demand for line material is particularly active. Considerable building construction is noted in the Birmingham territory as well as in Atlanta and Augusta.

MANAGEMENT SKILL VITAL

Holding Companies Maintain Large Engineering Staffs for Utility Development; Save Public Money

BY EARL E. CROWE

Merely for their contribution of trained organizations of engineers, the holding companies in the public utility industry are performing a service of inestimable importance to the progress of the nation and of the multitude of small and large cities they serve. Each one of these large holding combinations maintains an expensive corps of the best engineering talent available for the express purpose of designing and building projects that will generate a cheap and ample supply of electric energy.

In any State where the utility holding companies have penetrated, the cities and towns linked up with the larger systems will testify to the improvement in service. Where they formerly were served by small plants independently owned and operated, they now are supplied with energy from central stations miles away and generally pay less for the service. And, furthermore, they are assured of an adequate supply of energy for all their needs.

FORCED TO BUILD

As the number of consumers increases through the acquisition of the plants and facilities in various towns and cities, the holding companies are virtually compelled to invest large sums on the construction of power projects. Their corps of engineers is put to work in designing and building costly hydroelectric projects on rivers, or immense steam plants at strategic points close to the coal fields or sources of fuel oil. As fast as these developments are completed, the skilled engineers link them together with others, either owned by the same combination or another.

For all they know, the consumers in a Florida city may be using energy generated in Virginia or Pennsylvania. If the requirements of the operating company in Florida are overtaxed, a switch in the several central stations along the line is thrown, and the surplus from some other section of the country is diverted to the point of greatest need. Engineering skill has made possible and the holding companies are the medium through which the services of the engineers are made available.

FITKIN GROWTH

In Los Angeles recently, A. E. Fitkin, head of the Fitkin utilities, told a group of investment dealers how these holding companies build and expand and how they serve the public. Beginning with a small steam plant in a Texas town, the Fitkin group bought other plants when they were available, and gradually tied them together by the construction of new transmission lines, or the purchase of other plants lying in between. The General Engineering and Management Corporation was formed to modernize the small plants, and to build new ones of central station capacity.

The Fitkin system now extends from New York State to Florida and through several States in the Middle West. Operating companies are all tied together, some generating hydroelectric power and others steam. The result is a network of interconnecting lines serving a host of consumers with low-cost energy manufactured at strategic points and in large volume.

Nearly every section of the United States now is served by some unit of the large holding companies. The water and steam power resources are developed by the engineers of the holding combination and the same skilled organizations are directly in charge of operations. This is the work of such organizations as the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, the J. G. White Management Corporation, Stone & Webster, Inc., and others.

OHIO PROJECT

On the falls of the Ohio River, near Louisville, the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation has started construction of a hydroelectric development that will rank seventh in size in the United States. The Byllesby company is affiliated with the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, to which the Federal Power Commission has granted the license, which, in turn, is controlled by the Standard Gas and Electric Company, the holding company. The Federal government will build a dam 8660 feet long and will rent the power developed to the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, which will build the power plants. The Byllesby engineers spent four years in research work for the development and utilized government records extending over a period of forty-six years before starting construction work. The same engineers are building the dam for the government.

New York City is similarly to receive the benefit of privately owned engineering skill if plans of certain utility companies materialize. They intend to develop hydroelectric power on the St. Lawrence River for consumption in New York City, which now uses the higher cost power generated by steam.

When the resources of private capital are pooled, the ability to command the best of technical skill, financial direction and production in large volume fully demonstrates the superiority of large combinations over independent or municipal operation. At least the utility industry can attest to the beneficial results.

STEEL AND IRON TRADE TONE QUIET

Light Sales Due to July Holidays; Year's Volume Ahead of 1925 Period

BY DON PARTRIDGE
(Associate Editor, Western Construction News.)

Trading has been quiet due to the July holidays. Movement of steel during the first half of 1926 was greater than for the corresponding period of 1925. The outlook for the balance of the year is encouraging.

Concrete bar awards totaled 1000 tons and included 800 tons for the Seventh street viaduct in Los Angeles. Awards during the first half of 1926 dropped considerably below those for the first half of 1925 as shown by the following figures as reported each week in Western Construction News, for 1925 35,000 tons and for 1926 19,000 tons.

The Western Pipe and Steel Company secured the only plate award of the week. This involved 130 tons for a tank for Los Angeles. Plate awards for the first half of 1926, as reported each week, aggregated 47,000 tons as compared with 37,000 tons for the corresponding period last year. Pending business exceeds 5000 tons. Prices are firm at 2.25 cents c.i.f. as a minimum on desirable lots with 2.30 cents applying on the general run of the market.

Awards of structural steel for the first half of 1926, as reported each week, totaled 70,000 tons, compared with 76,000 tons for the first half of 1925. Awards this week exceeded 1300 tons. Included among these were 500 tons for the Medico-Dental Building, Stockton, placed with the Palm Iron Works, 375 tons for a bridge at Tacoma for the Northern Pacific Railway booked by the American Bridge Company and 190 tons for a hotel a Brawley, Cal., placed with the Moore Drydock Company. Pending business total well over 16,000 tons. Prices are firm at 2.25 cents c.i.f. for plain material.

Grinnell Company of the Pacific secured the only cast iron pipe award of importance during the week. They booked 293 tons for Los Angeles and will furnish foreign material. Pending business is of light proportions less than 1000 tons being up for figures or pending. Awards during the first half of 1926 aggregated 96,000 tons as compared with 44,000 tons for the corresponding period of last year.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

BY WILLIAM FEATHER

THE doer is a higher type than the knower.

It is many qualities united in the same person, rather than just one quality, that lead to success.

A salesman can't help gathering in a decent quota of orders if he will expose himself to enough buyers.

What a relief it is to find a man who, when you tell him what you want done, goes ahead and does it.

Mineral League to Organize in Northern Area

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5. (Exclusive)—While here a few days ago, Charles M. Pickert, president, and Ray D. Harris, secretary-treasurer of the Mineral Industry League, made arrangements for a large public dinner meeting on the 20th inst. for the organization of the league in the northern part of California.

In explaining the work of the league on the floor of the San Francisco Stock Exchange a few days ago, Pickert, who was formerly District Attorney for San Francisco, declared that the present Corporate Securities Act of California, generally known as the "blue-sky" law, has caused a decline in metal production in the State of 23 per cent. The league, he said, will advocate the repeal of the present law and the substitution of a law similar to that of Colorado.

Among the speakers at the meeting will be Mr. Pickert, W. W. Charles, Sidney Norman and a number of local business men and members of the Legislature.

Bank of America Registers Heavy Gain in Deposits

Deposits of the Bank of America have grown from $17,000,000 to $25,000,000 in the last six months, Orra E. Monnette, president, reports in the statement of condition for the period ended June 30. Resources have increased from $11,000,000 in the first year of the bank's existence to an amount now in excess of $27,000,000.

Beginning with the head office as the nucleus, the bank now has twenty-two branches, which handle the business of its 40,000 depositors. The branches are located in Los Angeles and in the surrounding cities in Southern California.

The Bank of America is affiliated in ownership with the Commercial National Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles and the Liberty Bank of San Francisco. The combined resources of the three institutions are in excess of $60,000,000.

SURVEY FLOUTS FEAR OF PANIC

Optimistic Report Made by National Society

Industry Running Close to Maximum Capacity

Slump in 1926 Regarded as Extremely Remote

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—Healthy business conditions in all parts of the country were found in a nation-wide survey by the National Association of Manufacturers, the results of which were made public today by John H. Edgerton, president of the association. The survey covered manufacturing plants in thirty basic industries.

"The industry of the nation is running on an astounding curve of 84 per cent of its maximum employment capacity and unemployment is practically nil," said Mr. Edgerton's report. "This is an unusually healthy summer status; there can be no slump or panic."

We hear reports from various sections of the country that sales have diminished somewhat and that the values of the sales have dropped; but the fact that our production is keeping up almost to a maximum winter load, would indicate that the sales situation is one of postponement rather than permanent decline.

Mr. Edgerton said the survey refutes "the statements of the pessimists who all through the year have been predicting the panic that has not come; and unless it comes within the next fortnight, certainly it will not be on us this year, at any rate."

POLITICAL SKY NOTED BY MOODY

Discontent in Farming States Raises Doubt as to Trend of Sentiment

Moody's weekly Review of financial conditions in its current issue says in part:

More attention is being given to the political outlook, especially in the grain States. The retention of the Foss bill and administration measure, and the reports of farmer discontent in Iowa, Kansas and other States fairly raise the question what is the present trend of political sentiment.

The popular notion that statesmen and financiers are going to keep business good until after election may well be discarded, merely because general business is controlled by the operations of great masses of business men, and not by any few persons.

Preliminary trade returns indicate that trade has been improving a little since the later part of May. This, however, is quite in accordance with precedent, since it is the usual thing for one or two rallies to occur in almost any trade depression. We must await the establishment of better margins and broader markets before we can feel sure that trade improvement is going to be permanent.

EXPANSION PLANNED

Piggly Wiggly Western States to Add New Stores

An expansion program of Piggly Wiggly Western States Company contemplated to increase sales 50 per cent by opening twenty-five new stores during the next six months was announced today by A. C. The company now operates seventy-four stores on the Pacific Coast. Sales in 1925 totaled $7,164,741.

Outside Wheat Markets Up on Holiday Here

CHICAGO, July 5. (Exclusive)—Winnipeg, Liverpool and Buenos Aires grain markets were quiet today, while business in all lines in the United States was suspended in observance of Fourth of July.

All the wheat markets were higher with light trading. Liverpool wheat closed ¼@¾d higher. Buenos Aires opened ¼c higher on wheat, unchanged on corn and ¼c lower for flax.

Interest in trading centered in Winnipeg, where weather conditions were in the main favorable and opening sales were at gains of ¼@¾c higher than Saturday, with a moderate reaction followed by a rally and closed at about the best of the day, with wheat futures up ¼@1¼c; oats, ¼@¾c; rye, ¾@1c; barley, ¼@¾c, and flax, 1¼@1¾c higher.

Wheat closings were: July, 1.39¾; October, 1.29¾; December, 1.31. Oats: July, 46¾; October, 42¾; December, 44¼c.

Rye: July, 93¾; October, 89; December, 90¾. Barley: July, 61c; October, 69¾c. Flax: July, 1.97½; October, 2.01½.

Received barley in del and new crop wheat futures was on in Winnipeg, with buying based on the strength in Liverpool.

The Canadian government crop report issued late Saturday said prospects in the main were generally favorable, although there are sections where rain is needed. It is said that there the crops in the western provinces where rain is needed, and should high temperatures prevail without any rain within a short time wheat conditions might deteriorate.

Winnipeg operators regarded the crop report as having been discounted as a bearish factor. Pressure is high over the American and Canadian Northwest, with a depression moving in Alberta with weather fine and warm, with generally fine weather predicted, although showers are looked for in the Lake Superior region.

Trade expectations are for visible of 1500 cars or more of wheat in the southwestern markets tomorrow. A Kansas City message to J. E. Bennett & Co. said the country showed more disposition to sell wheat at the last of the week. Best premiums were a little easier, with demand excellent. There is talk of a car shortage in the Texas Panhandle, because as a railroad man put it, they are trying to move the whole crop in fifteen days.

2½ Times Greater Productivity

The success of a business depends upon the buying power of its customers, and buying power depends upon production.

According to the most recent government reports, the annual value of the basic products—manufactures, mines, farm crops, live stock, etc.—is, on the average, $15,000,000 per county for the United States as a whole. The value of the same products per county for the 92 counties served by the Associated System is $38,000,000.

The production per county served by the Associated System, therefore, is over 2½ times as great as that for the United States as a whole.

This is due to the fertility, the larger population and also to the greater per capita production—which is 6.6% greater—for the counties served than for the country as a whole.

Greater production leads to greater demand for service and indicates the well-established character of both residential and power customers. It accounts for the steady and substantial growth in electric output and points to the possibilities for further development in Associated territory.

The business is a complete industrial unit, comprising the ownership of raw material which it manufactures, wholesales and retails, the forest products distributed being widely diversified.

Security: Series A, B and C Bonds will be equally secured by a direct first mortgage on unencumbered standing timbers having a value, as independently appraised, equal to at least 100% of the face amount of the outstanding Bonds, and will be further secured by a mortgage on plants, mills and other property having a value at least sufficient to make the aggregate security under the Mortgage not less than 200% of the principal amount of outstanding Bonds, both of which ratios the Company covenants to maintain at all times. The property aggregating a minimum value of $62,194,963 now and presently to be subjected to the lien of the Mortgage, includes, as of December 31, 1925, over six and one-half billion feet of unencumbered standing timber, having a value, as independently appraised, of $33,081,353.

Approximately 99% of the capital stock of The Long-Bell Lumber Company is owned by The Long-Bell Lumber Corporation. The consolidated balance sheet of the latter corporation and subsidiaries, as certified by independent auditors, dated December 31, 1925, but adjusted to give effect to the proceeds of the present financing, and appreciation of book value of Stumpage to basis of independent appraisal discloses net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities except First Mortgage Bonds to be outstanding, of $99,680,367 or $3,901 per $1,000 principal amount of Bonds, and net quick assets of $[illegible] 544,853.

Earnings: Net earnings after depletion and depreciation during the past ten years have averaged $5,497,822 before interest charges and Federal Taxes and in addition there was set aside during the same period for depletion and depreciation an annual average of $3,679,401, making total annual average net earnings and realization available for payment of Federal Taxes, interest charges and debt principal, $9,177,223. The maximum annual interest on the Company's secured debt, including First Mortgage Bonds to be presently outstanding in the public, requires $1,912,645. For the four months ended April 30, 1926, depletion and depreciation amounted to $1,504,575, and net earnings after deducting this amount, but before Federal Taxes and interest charges were $2,177,618, a total of $3,682,193.

Sinking Fund: The Mortgage contains a sinking fund provision under which the Company covenants to pay into such fund the sum of $6.00 per thousand feet of timber cut or sold in the States of Louisiana and Texas, $3.00 per thousand feet in the States of California and Oregon and 60% of the appraised value in all other States. The funds accumulating in such sinking fund must be applied to the retirement of First Mortgage Bonds, or to certain other purposes. Regardless of the amount of the sinking fund the Company covenants to retire on or before maturity either by purchase or redemption all of the Series A, B and C Bonds.

9[illegible] the Stockholders of Julian Petroleum Corporation:

of[illegible]ome of the newspaper accounts regarding the proposed [illegible]r between the MARINE CORPORATION and the THAN PETROLEUM CORPORATION, preparatory to a [illegible]al consolidation with a large Eastern corporation, are [illegible]ntially correct. Bringing about a much larger and more [illegible]ctory merger than was planned originally has neces[illegible] consumed more time than was contemplated, and con[illegible]ntly the date for the realization of the statements I have [illegible]fore made to you has been prolonged, but when made [illegible] far beyond your expectations.

[illegible]he report as to what the MARINE stockholders are to [illegible]ee in connection with the proposed merger is substan[illegible] accurate, and while I am not now in position to tell you you will receive for your JULIAN stock, yet permit me [illegible] that you will be equally and as generously treated as [illegible]er to the stockholders of the MARINE, based on the [illegible]gs of the respective companies. Please do not be mis[illegible] rumors emanating from sources other than this office the price that will be placed on your stock in connec[illegible] with the merger, as such rumors are purely speculative [illegible]made for the one purpose only, and that is to induce [illegible]o SELL.

[illegible]AGAIN REPEAT THAT WHEN THE FINAL PLANS [illegible] DETAILS HAVE BEEN DETERMINED AS TO [illegible]AT THE JULIAN STOCKHOLDERS WILL BE PAID [illegible] THEIR SECURITIES, YOU SHALL BE THE FIRST [illegible]KNOW IT. In the event you sell your stock at the pres[illegible]market price you are missing the opportunity of making [illegible]bstantial profit.

[illegible]In my judgment, no greater opportunity ever has been [illegible]red than the present one for either holding or purchasing [illegible]itional JULIAN stock through the Los Angeles Stock Ex[illegible]nge.

[illegible]The erratic market during the past week in your securi[illegible]has been due principally to conflicting reports regarding [illegible]JULIAN and MARINE merger, depending on the view[illegible]int of the parties from whom the reports were emanating. [illegible]RESPECTIVE OF THE VARIATION OF THE MARKET, [illegible]OU MAY REST ABSOLUTELY ASSURED THAT THE [illegible]ALUE PLACED ON YOUR STOCK IN CONNECTION [illegible]ITH ANY PROPOSED MERGER WILL BE FAR BE[illegible]OND THE TOP LEVEL WHICH YOUR STOCK HAS [illegible]EACHED IN THE PAST TWELVE MONTHS, AND YOU [illegible]ILL RECALL IT HAS BEEN AS HIGH AS $85.00 PER [illegible]HARE ON THE PREFERRED.

[illegible]I am still in the market for both Preferred and Common at the present market price. My office on the Eighth Floor of the Pershing Square Building will gladly purchase from you during the entire week, at market quotations, both Preferred and Common, in the event you wish to dispose of it, and every facility will be extended to you, and every assistance rendered in straightening out any errors in either the cash or common stock dividend which you should have received by this time, and in the event you have not please communicate with my offices either in person or by letter.

[illegible]Some confusion has resulted in those receiving fractional parts of Common stock which was in payment of the accumulated dividend, and I shall be very glad to purchase from you the fractional part of Common stock which you received at the market price, or in the event you wish, will sell to you such additional fractional part of a share as will even up your stock for trading purposes.

[illegible]IT IS MY RECOMMENDATION YOU DO NOT SELL EITHER YOUR COMMON OR PREFERRED UNTIL SUCH TIME AS YOU HAVE BEEN APPRISED OF THE DETAILS OF THE MERGER, AND IF THEN YOU WISH TO SELL, I ASSURE YOU THAT THERE WILL BE A DEMAND FOR YOUR STOCK FAR IN EXCESS OF THE PRESENT EXISTING DEMAND OR MARKET. I cannot yet give you the definite date on which the details will be announced, but with the progress made in the past thirty days it will not be long.

OIL NEWS

BY ROBERT J. PRITCHARD

With the "six-gallons-for-$1" signs growing more numerous along the boulevards day by day, and the motoring season nearing its peak, the petroleum marketers of California are again wondering about the chances for a general reduction in gasoline prices by the Standard Oil Company, and the other large companies which usually line up on the Standard's posted quotations. The general belief is that a general cut in gasoline prices is imminent—in fact, it is known that one almost came last week, and that another one almost happened about a month before that. But something happened, and the large marketers are still selling motor fuel at the old prices.

As a matter of fact, except for the highly competitive conditions which prevail in California, gasoline marketing, there is no real reason why there should be a price reduction in gasoline. The surplus which existed a few months ago has largely been reduced by export to the Atlantic coast, and to foreign ports, although there is still an abundant supply in storage. Latest reports indicate that there is nearly 11,000,000 barrels of gasoline in tanks in California, not to mention more than 27,000,000 barrels of refinable crude, which can be converted into gasoline on short notice.

But, as oil storage in California goes, these figures are not at all indicative of an oversupply, now that California has become to a large extent the principal source of supply for gasoline the world over. But if the "six-for-a-dollar" independents begin cutting into the retail business much stronger, it is not unlikely that gasoline will go down, and when it does the cut probably will be at least 3 cents under the present market price.

Still Testing

Late yesterday afternoon the Wilshire Oil Company's test well in the Huntington Beach field was still trying to go on production, with every prospect that it would begin to flow at any minute. Property owners in the west end of the town, where the well is located, and whose development to a large extent hinges upon the success of the Wilshire project, are taking a keen interest in its progress, and a group of interested observers is on hand as close to the well as they can get, most of the time.

Reports Good Showing

Seventy-five feet of oil sand at 3300 feet is reported in the San Jose wildcat well in the Lone Hill district by Alfred Tinnally, Los Angeles operator, who is in charge of the project. Tinnally's report says that the well is showing considerable gas pressure, and that the condition is interfering considerably with drilling operations.

Drilling Ahead

The Shell Company is drilling ahead at below 1600 feet in its deep test well on the Columbia lease in the Brea-Olinda fields, according to official reports. The well set a string of surface pipe at 1529 feet.

In drilling this well the Shell is attempting to establish definitely the possible oil in reserve below the present producing horizons in this field. Most of Brea-Olinda's production at present is found at depths above 3250 feet, but there is general belief among geologists, confirmed by showings at about 4500 feet in several wells, that a prolific zone is to be found below the present producing zone. Other wells have found the deeper sands, but so far none has been able to get an effective water shutoff.

No Showings

The California Petroleum Corporation has reached a depth of 5179 feet in its wildcat well on the Jotham Bixby ranch north of Signal Hill, according to field reports. No showings have been found at that point, it is said, and the California Petroleum is understood to be considering seriously the advisability of suspending further operations.

OIL EXPANSION RUMOR AT PORT

Loading Station of General to be Enlarged

Berths for Larger Fleet of Tankers Planned

Changes Result From Merger With Standard

The recent absorption of General Petroleum Corporation by Standard Oil Company of New York is to be followed by improvements of General Petroleum's loading station on Terminal Island, already one of the largest and most modern in the port, according to private advices, yesterday.

There also are indications that more tankers will call here, totalling at least thirty-four vessels, and that small vessels of the Standard fleet will be brought from the east coast and put on the short trips up and down the Pacific Coast, and thus relieve some of the General's larger vessels for off-shore voyages.

One such vessel, and a large already are reported preparing for the trip out here from the other coast, to be followed by more shortly. Following their arrival such big General tankers as the Llebre are expected to augment the Standard transportation fleet, although they may retain their designation as General.

Indications are the General Petroleum designation will be retained in many particulars, as it is recognized to have a definite trade value, established before the merger through several years of advertising and at big expense. The coastal vessels in particular are expected to continue to wear the big G on their stacks and to continue their present color scheme.

While the dock improvements are in the future, it is understood, plans and specifications are shaping ceiling for bids on both wooden and cement docks at Berth 240-A and B. All such plans will have to go before the board of directors, however, and no hasty action is in contemplation. No additional berths will be created thereby; the station already having space for four ships to tie up simultaneously, but the improvement is expected to prove of big convenience, and possibly will contain additional pumping facilities.

Twenty-five tankers are scheduled to call at these docks this month, and there is every indication that the number, the largest so far, will be increased materially in the near future.

DUTCH SUBMARINE TO VISIT WEST COAST

Southern California will be visited early in August by the Dutch submarine K X-III, the first vessel of its type flying the Netherlands flag to visit this coast. The coast is definitely scheduled to put into San Diego and no effort is to be made to induce the vessel to bring the submarine over to Los Angeles before its long trip across the Pacific to Batavia.

The river displaces 715 tons, has a speed of seventeen knots, carries a crew of twenty-six men and has a cruising radius of 3500 miles. It is one of three of the type provided for in Holland's 1918 naval program and was built primarily for service in the East Indies. Each is armed with two 6-inch guns, two 21-inch and three 17.7-inch torpedo tubes.

The Netherlands' submarine fleet was largely augmented during the war by seizing German and Austrian craft stranded in the Holland canals.

Following the recent affiliation by the Shipping Board of its interests, to take away the American-Hawaiian Steamship & Harry and Dollar Steamship Co. properties in the hands of George A. Hearst, comes word that Struthers & Barry are expected shortly to make an announcement as to its future. Struthers & Barry is said to be under the direct administration to remain in the trade across the Pacific, which it built up in the last ten years from a line of importance to a powerful operation, which Southern California has come greatly to depend.

While no word has come directly from Struthers & Barry, it is recalled that Harry Struthers, recently returned from Europe and reports at that time, though never confirmed, were that he was looking for larger ships for the organization throughout the Orient, and could readily be adapted to serving a different trade.

It will be at least thirty days before Struthers & Barry's cargo steel steamer ships and some equipment is expected from them so as to their plans, within that time.

Britain, as other vessels from Great Britain, with cargo continued, for Vancouver, B. C., must in future take the south route and not transship at Suez, it is understood. The change, under the preferential treatment clause of the Ilian, have been transshipping their cargoes for Vancouver from this point and Port Townsend and Seattle. If the shipowners are to take advantage of the 10 per cent preferential duty on goods entering Canada, Australia and New Zealand, as set by the Ilian treaty, they must ship direct to and from their destination, and not transship at this port, according to the ruling of the Canadian government merchant marine. Dodwell & Co., local agents.

GOOPS!

A Daily Lesson in Manners for Children

—BY GELETT BURGESS—

(Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.)

HAMMOCK TRICKS.

Jerking a hammock is a joke
That's sometimes played by little folk;
The one who's in the hammock never Enjoys it very much, however!
It's rude and dangerous, and none
But Goops would ever think it fun.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Mueren Algunas Personas en Méjico en las Luchas Electorales

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, July 5.—Fueron muertas varias personas, y varias resultaron lesionadas en dos refriegas a que dieron lugar las elecciones de senadores, que se efectuaron en todas partes de Méjico. Tales son las noticias recibidas por el ministerio de lo Interior.

En telegrama sin pormenores recibido por el citado ministerio, se la da cuenta de que en Oajaca fue muerto el diputado Luis Domínguez, y herido el diputado Angel Ibarra.

Las tropas federales tuvieron que intervenir en un conflicto que surgió en Tehuantepec entre facciones políticas rivales, y del que resultaron varios muertos y heridos.

En las casillas electorales de la ciudad de Méjico hubo unas cuantas disputas; pero no llegó la cosa a mayores, porque la policía pudo separar pronta y oportunamente a los beligerantes.

La confederación de partidos regionales hizo que fuera aprehendido un adversario político, pues lo acusa de haber disparado su revólver sobre el cuartel general de la citada confederación, desde un automóvil en marcha.

Por lo que se desprende de las primeras noticias recibidas, los partidos socialista y laborista tenían ganadas las elecciones en el Distrito Federal.

La Tuberculosis Está Haciendo Estragos en Veracruz

VERACRUZ, Julio 5.—Las autoridades sanitarias de ésta han pedido poderes dictatoriales para lograr hacer con éxito su campaña contra la difusión de la tuberculosis. Dicen que es materialmente imposible poner coto a este mal, si no se les prohibe a las personas atacadas de él que se dediquen a ciertos oficios y ocupaciones. Muchos vendedores ambulantes y empleados de los mercados públicos padecen, según se asegura, de la citada enfermedad, y constituyen fuentes permanentes de infección. Ya se está tratando este asunto con el Consejo Superior de Sanidad de la Ciudad de Méjico.

Cae al Fin en la Red Un Mono Fugitivo

STOCKTON, Julio 5.—El mono que llevaba algún tiempo de pasarse los días saltando de rama en rama entre los numerosos árboles de la vecindad de las avenidas Magnolia y Elmwood, en la ciudad de Modesto, robándose las gallinas de los gallineros, y haciéndole gestos y lanzándole frutas al guardián Davis, que hizo muchas tentativas para atraparlo, se halla por fin encarcelado. Logró cogerlo el guarda del corral de concejo de Modesto, con una larga caña de pescar, con una red en la punta.

Este cuadrumano deportista y amigo de lo ajeno venía de compañero de viaje de un grupo de turistas que pasaron por Modesto hace dos meses. Se fugó mientras los viajeros se desayunaban en un restorán, y luego eludió cuanta tentativa se hizo para capturarlo.

NOTAS LOCALES

Es Rescatado el Cuerpo de la Señora E. D. Tyler

Hasta hoy han sido dos personas las que han muerto a consecuencia de la explosión que se produjo en el yate de recreo "Una-C;" y de las doce lesionadas, todas excepto tres, han sido trasladadas hoy a Los Angeles, desde Avalón. Parece muy improbable que se salven cuatro de los heridos.

Entretanto se ha anunciado aquí, en la oficina del forense Nance, que va a abrirse una encuesta para determinar la causa de la explosión que destruyó el nuevo yate de Hugh G. Chaffee, dueño de todo un grupo de abacerías, y residente de Pasadena. Mañana se señalará la fecha de dicha encuesta.

Hoy a medio día pudo ser rescatado de las aguas el cadáver de la señora E. D. Tyler, de Pasadena. Fue hallado a cuatro millas al este del teatro de la catástrofe, y traído aquí al depósito judicial, donde esperará se instruya la averiguación.

El fúnebre hallazgo les tocó hacerlo a James S. Lawahe, de Los Angeles, gerente de negocios que fue del autor Gene Stratton Porter, y a Roger E. Wilson, de Pasadena, que estaban pescando desde la cubierta del yate de Lawahe, "Columbia." Encontraron el cuerpo en un manto de sargazo, como a media distancia de la roca Seal a la roca Church.

La ropa exterior de la difunta había sido enteramente consumida por el fuego, y el cuerpo estaba carbonizado hasta el grado de no poder reconocer a la muerta. Fue identificada por algunos amigos y parientes, gracias a un anillo de sello que llevaba.

El cuerpo de Doria Riggin, niña de dos años, hijita del Sr. y la Sra. Carlton Riggin, de la calle Maple, 1865, no ha podido ser rescatado, a pesar de los esfuerzos hechos por los buzos de profundidad, que han estado explorando el casco del yate, que descansa bajo 110 pies de agua, a 600 pies de la costa.

Abrazábale con arrebato y cubría sus frescas mejillas con besos prolongados apretadísimos (He embraced him with frenzy and covered his fresh cheeks with lingering crushing kisses), murmurando después a su oído palabras fogosas de enamorado (thereafter whispering in his ear the ardent words of a lover):

—¿Quién te quiere más que nadie en el mundo, hermoso mío? ("Who loves you more than any one else in the world, my sweet little one?) ¿No es tu papá? Di, lucero (It it not your father? Tell me, my bright star). Y tú, ¿a quién quieres más? Sí, vida mía, sí; te quiero tanto, que daría por tí la vida con gusto (And you, whom do you love best? Yes, life of mine, yes; I love you so dearly, that I would gladly give up my life for you). Por tí, nada más que por tí, quisiera yo ser algo de provecho en el mundo (For you, for you alone, I should like to be of some value in the world.").

Let Nature Restore You to Perfect Health

Instant Relief for Neuritis Rheumatism
Arthritis
Stomach Trouble
Diabetes
Varicose Veins
General Debility

NATURE stands ready to restore you to perfect health. But when your body is diseased or disordered, it cannot always take advantage of Nature's restoratives. The greatest of these is oxygen, and although we breathe it copiously, we must assimilate it—get it to each tiny cell before it can do its vital work. Wilshire's I-on-a-co, the marvelous new discovery in magnetic therapy is accomplishing miracles in assisting Nature to oxydize dead tissue cells and poisons.

It has long been suspected that the iron in our body had something to do with this vital process of oxidation, but recently Dr. Otto Warburg, the great German biologist, startled the scientific world by proving it. He showed the scientists of the Rockefeller Institute that the iron in our body acts as a catalyzer between the oxygen we inhale and our tissues.

Wilshire's I-ON-A-CO Magnetizes The Body Iron

—thus giving it a greater catalytic value. This speeds up the vital process of oxidation—causes poisonous waste to be burned up—gives renewed life to worn out tissues and affords relief from the diseased conditions which so sorely afflict a large percentage of mankind.

Here is a sample of the many letters we constantly receive, telling of relief from a myriad of ailments and diseases:

1214 West 8th Street,
Los Angeles, Calif.

For ten years I have suffered with an anaemic condition, brought on principally by constipation, often passing a period of 8 days without elimination.

I have also had arthritis in the hip and have been confined to my bed for one solid year, receiving the best of care at the Mayo foundation without any benefits.

I have now taken 15 treatments with I-on-a-co and have increased my efficiency, health and strength at least 80%, and my constipated condition has entirely disappeared and become normal. I also wish to state that my hair was white before taking these treatments, but is now fully returning to its original black color.

Yours respectfully,
D. J. Smith.

Nature intended that you should have perfect health—gave you a marvelous piece of delicately adjusted mechanism in the form of your body, which should produce it. If for any reason you are not enjoying that health, let this marvelous discovery assist Nature in restoring it to you. See it demonstrated to your own satisfaction, on your own body, that Wilshire's I-on-a-co will do these things.

GREAT INDUSTRY CENTERED HERE

Southland World Leader in Vacation Business

All-Year Club Developing New Trade Idea

Stresses Southern California Recreation Facilities

"Southern California is the natural industrial ground for the sale of one of the world's great staples—a staple for which there is to be an almost endlessly increasing demand. This staple is the annual or the occasional vacation."

That summary of conditions was made yesterday by C. C. Milham, executive secretary of the All-Year Club of Southern California, from New York, where he is noting tourist conditions.

According to Milham, California is in an enviable position. Last year it led several great conventions and its visitors have helped advertise the summer charms of the Southland. But lastly and most clinchingly, the Southern California business interests gave the All-Year Club an adequate annual budget, with which it issued almost 60,000,000 invitations to people to come to Southern California.

TO BREAK RECORDS

Southern California will have half again as many auto visitors this year as it has ever had before. It will have more ordinary tourist visitors, and it is confidently believed that the total number will exceed last year, when we had 200,000 Shriners on a single excursion.

"In the years to come we will have to work harder than we have ever worked before if we are to stay ahead of the stream in the business of purveying vacations—winter and summer," says Milham. "The vacation idea has grown at about the same rate and in the same time as the automobile industry. Twenty years ago one person in 200 had an automobile, and about one person in 10 took a vacation. Usually it was a two-weeks' vacation and close to home. Now one person in seven has a car, and perhaps one in four takes a summer vacation and one in twenty takes a winter vacation. That means that 50,000,000 persons in the United States go somewhere each summer and 5,000,000 go somewhere each winter.

"The whole world knows it. And the whole world is after the business. It is the biggest business that we have. In one day last week five steamships left New York Harbor loaded solidly with vacation passengers.

CONDITIONS BUSY

"Ten years ago Mediterranean cruises and around-the-world cruises were unheard of. Now a score of companies are in the business. Florida, the Thousand Islands, the Orient, Alaska, Europe, South America, the Holy Land, Egypt and almost every other land is advertising that it wants and sells the world's finest vacation.

"The claim of Southern California is not as broad, but this certainly is true: The person who chooses Southern California for a vacation can find rest, recreation, entertainment, scenic study and sport in a greater and wider variety than he can anywhere else."

Milham is to return to Los Angeles next week. While in the East he was given the honorary degree of master of arts by Dartmouth College for his public service work in advertising.

ALL-PARTIES BODY SEEKS SIGNATURES

Reapportionment Petitions to be Circulated Tomorrow in Downtown Stores

Reapportionment petitions will be placed for signature tomorrow at a number of downtown department stores in an effort to get the 78,000 signatures necessary to place it on the November ballot, it was announced yesterday by headquarters of the All Parties' Reapportionment Committee.

Among the stores where the petitions will be placed are the Broadway Department Store, Coulter's Dry Goods Company, Myer-Siegel & Co., the May Company, Barker Brothers, H. R. Hinkstone Company, Bullock's, the Ville De Paris, and others.

The Women's Political League, of which Mrs. Dora A. Stearns is president, has entered the fight for reapportionment, it was stated. Workers will be in the field in Seal Beach, Sierra Madre, Lomita, Long Beach, Torrance, Inglewood, Glendale, Bellflower, Huntington Park, Highland Park and Venice.

A resolution endorsing the campaign and petitioning the placing of signs in all fire houses has been adopted by the Board of Fire Commissioners, it was stated.

A plea for volunteer workers has been issued. Headquarters are at 1206 Hill street, telephone PAdway 2191. They are open evenings.

The question to be voted on is the proposed Constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Reapportionment Committee, commanded of the Secretary of State, Attorney-General and Surveyor-General, to reapportion the State in conformity with the California Constitution in case no action is forthcoming from the Legislature.

EMIL CYKLER, DREDGER

Previous articles in the present Times series dealing with harbor conditions have dealt at length with Emil Cykler as the manufacturer of "Black Baby" piling or Duocrete—that-is-not-Duocrete—piling which costs the most and tests the lowest in strength but which nevertheless gets the large and profitable contracts for harbor work.

But making piles, even piles so remarkable in so many ways as "Black Baby," by no means describes the limitations of this versatile contractor, most favored of all the select circle of favored contractors at the harbor. As will be seen, Mr. Cykler turns a skilled hand to almost anything there is to be done around a harbor—if he can get a contract for it, and experience has shown that he generally can.

Dredging—the process of deepening water by scooping out and taking away the mud at the bottom—is the biggest single item in harbor building and maintenance. Dredging has made it possible for big freighters and passenger boats to enter Los Angeles Harbor and tie up at docks built along dredged channels instead of lying out at sea and discharging by means of lighters, as was done for years at old San Pedro.

In the past few years the Harbor Department has spent $2,500,000 for new dredging alone. This is exclusive of completion jobs and of dredging done by the United States government as part of the extensive Federal aid given to our harbor.

Since 1923 more than one-third of all the city's harbor-dredging has been given to one contractor—Emil Cykler.

The manner in which Mr. Cykler got a foothold on this profitable business is an interesting tribute to his acumen. In 1923 his company, known as the Western Dredging Company, bid on a contract for removing 2,800,000 cubic yards of material from the West Basin. Cykler's bid was 15¾ cents a cubic yard—almost 10 cents less than the next lowest bid. Everyone was astounded and rival contractors were chagrined. Mr. Cykler walked off with the contract.

But this was not as philanthropic as might at first appear, for in the background was another contract, also awarded to Mr. Cykler, whereby he was enabled to use the mud scooped up out of the West Basin for filling fifty-five new streets in Wilmington at a figure which rather more than made up for what he did not make on the dredging job proper. It was all perfectly regular and legal but it made the other dredging companies rub their eyes.

Also it served to establish Mr. Cykler firmly in the dredging business.

But he did not take any more contracts at 15¾ cents a yard. Instead, when the East Basin dredging job came along last year Mr. Cykler bid on the job—and got it—at 23½ cents a yard.

This was considerable jump from his figure on the West Basin at 15¾ cents—a 50 per cent increase, in fact. Further, the United States government had just finished a dredging job adjacent to the East Basin, with identical removal problems, at 16¼ cents a yard. The Federal job was for 1,250,471 yards, being from Slip 5 to the Long Beach city limits. The original East Basin contract was for 590,000 cubic yards.

The difference in quantities supplied an ostensible reason for the higher price, plus the fact that the mud had to be pumped further—the latter factor representing an added cost of not to exceed 2 cents a yard. But here again Mr. Cykler used the mud to make fills and was paid for it by the property owners, thus making a profit at both ends of his dredger pipeline.

Some curious juggling has been done on this contract. As stated, it was originally for 590,000 cubic yards. It was later arbitrarily increased to 1,000,000 cubic yards by what are known as "work orders"—one for 200,000 cubic yards and a second for slightly more. This might have reduced the price—but it didn't.

At 23½ cents a yard the additional yardage meant considerable money to the fortunate contractor who was permitted, among other things, to dredge one channel to a depth of thirty-five feet when all the channels approaching it are only thirty feet. Unfortunately, however, the law provides that no change greater than 35 per cent can be made in a contract without calling for new bids. The new yardage given Cykler was therefore illegal.

The first 200,000-yard work order addition was assigned as a correction of errors in the original calculations—a sizable error, amounting as it did to more than a third of the total. The second was ostensibly for greater depth and more space for a yacht anchorage.

When inquiries began to be made both work orders were abruptly canceled and a third one issued, this time for 258,700 yards—which again exceeded the legal limit of additions to a contract. A second cancellation is imminent. Where the total yardage will be finally fixed is unknown but it is regarded as moderately certain that Mr. Cykler will not lose any money.

POWER BUREAU AIDS CITY

Gives $65,000 to Help Defray Running Expenses of Other Departments for Year

That the Municipal Bureau of Power and Light has turned over to the city's general fund the sum of $65,000 to be used to help meet city governmental expenses was revealed yesterday in an official communication that has been filed with the City Council by the Board of Water and Power Commissioners.

The $65,000, it was pointed out, was taken from Power Bureau revenues that are derived from the sale of electric energy, and will be used by the city government during this fiscal year in helping to defray the expenses of other municipal departments.

It was stated that the Power Bureau's donation is in addition and is separate and apart from the money it turns over to the City Treasury each year to meet all interest and annual principal payments on outstanding power bonds. To meet these charges the Bureau is now turning over to the treasury more than $2,000,000 each year.

In connection with the $65,000 donation it was pointed out that in 1923, according to the City Controller, the city collected $1,077,000 in taxes to meet interest and sinking-fund charges on a bond issue voted in 1919. This collection was made, it was explained, despite the fact that the Power Bureau that year and ever since has met all interest and sinking-fund charges on power bonds from its own revenues and without the necessity of levying taxes on account of power bonds. Once the money was collected, however, it could not be used for general city expenses, but only for the purpose for which it was levied.

To meet this situation the Power Bureau last year turned over from the revenues the sum of $1,013,000 to the city's general fund with the understanding that it was to be used to complete the purchase of the site for the new City Hall. The payment of the additional $65,000 brings this total up to $1,077,000, or a sum equivalent to the bond tax levy of 1923.

POUND OFFERS CRIME CURE

Harvard Law School Dean Tells Banquet Guests Change Needed in Criminal Procedure

Characterizing the so-called crime wave as something more than a mere wave, "indeed a rising tide of crime," Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard Law School, honor guest at a California Club dinner last night, set forth in forceful logic what he believes will be the solution of the problem.

The dinner, given by Dr. R. C. Moore of the University of California, Southern Branch, was attended by some forty or fifty judges, attorneys and other leaders of Los Angeles, included in the list being United States District Judges James and McCormick.

Dean Pound's address dealt with the present rising tide of crime, its analysis and what he styled as its probable cure.

"I do not say that I know the exact remedy," declared the speaker, "but I believe that more widespread efforts to educate the public will eventually bring about the turning of the tide. The public must be educated as to the dangers toward which we are drifting. I believe that the law schools of the land possibly more nearly hold the right key to the solution than any other factor. We must expect the law schools to produce the men who will bring about the needed changes in criminal procedure. That done, the day of sanity will more nearly be at hand."

Dean Pound, in his position as director of the investigations on criminal justice in Cleveland, under the auspices of the Cleveland Foundation, has had charge of a thorough study of the administration of justice. His summary and conclusions in the reports issued by the Cleveland Foundation on "Criminal Justice in the American City" has been published, telling the conditions and difficulties which the cities of the United States face in the efforts to prevent crime.

Pageant Stirs Emotions of Vast Coliseum Crowd

New Citizens Introduced as Feature of Spectacle

While 50,000 men, women and children alternately wept and cheered, applauded and sang, the picture of 150 years of American Independence was unrolled before the eyes of the great crowd in the Coliseum yesterday afternoon, where the Pageant of Liberty was staged as the community celebration of the Fourth of July.

The beauty, the color and the meaning of the pageantry gripped the great audience as no public celebration locally ever has. In every episode and throughout the entire spectacle the genius of the motion-picture industry of Hollywood, the ones who planned the pageant, and furnished the bulk of the talent, was evident. Historical episodes in the story of the birth and growth of the nation, down to the World War, were portrayed with the greatest accuracy even in the detail of the costumes worn. The result obtained a remarkable response from those present.

According to observers, men and women actually wept, their emotions were stirred so deeply by the presentation of some of the episodes in the pageant. Again, they burst into the singing of patriotic songs along with the liberty chorus of 1000 voices led by Arthur Farwell, the singing done with a fervor seldom witnessed in a public gathering.

One of the most impressive episodes in the pageant came at the beginning when a troop of Boy Scouts escorted into the arena a large class of some 300 or 400 men and women who have been granted citizenship papers locally during the past year. It brought home to the thousands looking on the realization that they have been enjoying these many years inalienable rights that others must acquire by formal procedure. Citizenship thus visualized took on a real meaning.

Many of those in the Coliseum crowd had come to the place as "just a way to spend the Fourth." They went away thinking as they never thought before of the story of America.

The first of the pageant proper was a tableaux showing a scene in the

CITY SANE ON CELEBRATION

Only One Accident Observing Fourth May Be Fatal; Five Injured in Traffic

All things considered, Los Angeles experienced a safe and sane Independence Day celebration yesterday, in the opinion of police and fire department authorities. No deaths were recorded and only one mishap directly attributable to the celebration which may result fatally was reported. This accident was caused by an explosive intended for use in making motion-picture war scenes.

Five traffic injuries were reported.

The fire department had some fifteen runs to fires caused by fire crackers. All were extinguished with losses not exceeding $10 to $15.

One of the most serious accidents of the day reported to police had nothing to do with the celebration. Frances Valardo, 11 years of age, of 1825 Naud street, suffered burns, which may cause her death when a medicinal preparation containing alcohol, with which she was being rubbed by her mother, Mrs. P. Velardo, caught fire. The child, who has been ill, for some time, was badly burned on the body. Her bed caught fire and the mother was burned on the hands beating out the flames. The girl was attended by Police Surgeon Dorn at the Receiving Hospital and later taken to the General Hospital.

Gerald Coughlin, 20, an oil-field truck driver, living at 121 East Anaheim avenue, Long Beach, may die as the result of trying to set off an explosive intended for use in filming war scenes, police reported.

Coughlin, it was reported, was visiting a friend, G. H. Brown, 700 West First street, with whom he had recently worked in a studio. At that time, it was stated, he had picked up explosive which had failed to go off, and yesterday thought he would make use of it in celebrating the holiday.

ARM BLOWN OFF

He lit it, police said, and blew on it when he failed to get results. It exploded in his face. His left arm was blown off below the elbow; his face badly lacerated, a large piece of tin driven into his chest, and he may lose his eyesight, according to Police Surgeon Sebastian. He was taken to the General Hospital.

Police said he comes from a well-known Butte family and has a wife, from whom he is separated, living at 3877½ Denker avenue, Los Angeles.

Police reported three persons were given treatment after firecrackers had exploded in their faces. None of the injuries are expected to prove serious. Miss Elizabeth Sundberg, 22 years of age, of 1314 South Harvard Boulevard, was burned when someone threw a firecracker near her face in Lincoln Park. John Quirin, 15, of 306 Perris avenue, was burned on the face and hands when a firecracker exploded in Lincoln Park. Leroy Napier, 10, 6043 Bonsallo street, suffered firecracker burns on the face.

PETITIONS have been filed looking toward horse racing in California.

It may be a grand old sport, as they say; but before the people of this State take the grand old sport back to their collective bosom . . .

They may ask a few questions as to whether the grand old sports are coming back with the grand old sport.

"The sport of kings." Mebbe so; but the kings didn't seem to be on the job when they last had racing in California.

There was a noticeable scarcity of kings and a generous preponderance of thugs, crooks, moochers, panhandlers, cheap sports and loafers.

WHAT OF IT?

Personally, I am unable to get up any emotion one way or the other.

I string with the Shah of Persia who said:

"It is a well-known fact that one horse can run faster than another horse; so what is there of interest about it?"

A YOUNG GIANT

It is almost incredible and beyond imagination that this nation only started along its way 150 years ago.

The next 150 years will see it either a shattered wreck, fallen to pieces from its own weight; or the most powerful imperial power the world has ever known.

A PREDICTION

It is on the cards that in a hundred and fifty years, the world will be divided between three groups:

America, bossing the western hemisphere, with a nod and snap of the fingers;

Russia ruling the decrepit old countries of Europe—probably with Germany as an efficient "yes man" at her elbow.

And an Orient ruled by some great power of another color, probably an awakened China.

"Saturday Night" Assails Reorganization Scheme

Says Tabloid's Stockholders Face Still More Loss

Unfortunate Newspaper's Financing Reviewed

The following article appears in the current issue of Saturday Night, the local weekly edited by Samuel T. Clover. The views of The Times on the same subject are set fourth on the editorial page of this issue.

Considering the despicable manner in which stock in the Vanderbilt Incorporated Newspapers was forced on a much too-trusting community when Nelle Vanderbilt engaged in his selling campaign three years ago, with the most extravagant promises sharking that wretched procedure, it is, perhaps, not surprising that at this time another campaign, resembling in several particulars the earlier foray, is under way. In the effort to induce the present holders of stock to advance additional money to take over the sole surviving paper in the V.I.N.—the Illustrated Daily News—from the receiver, I have the word of several of young Vanderbilt's victims that they have been invited by one of the members of the so-called stockholders' committee to subscribe, on the assurance that the News is on a paying basis, and additional stock is, therefore, a desirable investment. In my office this week one of these poor little women, whose little best egg of $12500 went into the Vanderbilt waste-paper basket, recited to me her sad story which, alas, is typical of the experiences of many hereabouts.

EMPLOYING "COME-ON"

It seems that, at first, she sent in $5 for a yearly subscription. Hearing her name, she was, then, a fair prospect for the pirates running the stock-selling campaign. They induced her to invest $500 in two units. Mark their devilish ingenuity! One year later she received a dividend check of $15—3 per cent on her investment, which was represented as her share of the legitimate earnings of the paper. Needless to say, it was nothing more than what is known confidentially as a "come-on." Two days later a solicitor called on her, congratulated her on her fortunate stock purchase, and proposed that she invest further. Not to prolong the agony, after several such visits she succumbed—she is well along in her seventies—to his specious arguments and actually sold a General Petroleum bond to put another $1000 in the Vanderbilt—or should I say Vanderbilt?—enterprise.

BAITING THE HOOK

Think of it! The $15 pseudo-dividend check sent this poor old lady—and, doubtless, many other like victims—to induce her to sink further pernicious money in an extravagantly managed, wretchedly handled property, that is losing upward of $60,000 a month! Could there have been a more diabolically ingenious plan devised to deceive fine old ladies who were pleased to become interested in the clean, wholesome papers Nelle Vanderbilt daily garbaged his congregation were theirs? Having been intrigued once by such artful wiles, the same tactics, it seems, are now employed to cajole the original victims into repeating their folly and, mirable dictu! the stockholders' committee, or, at least, members of it intent on raising funds to buy the paper for their own selfish ends, have the audacity to assure these nice old ladies that the Illustrated Daily News is on the high road to prosperity!

PROSECUTOR SHOULD ACT

Of course, the paper would not be in the hands of a receiver if that were true, but nice, trusting old ladies do not reason that far. If they could see Receiver Snyder and he confided to them the truth, they might learn that to-day the paper owes $34,000. In a printed invitation to stockholders, which is a compilation of endless repetitions, inverted and ungrammatical sentences, recipients are invited to subscribe to the "reorganization," assured that outsiders, not stockholders, who are yearning to get hold of the property, have been denied participation. If the stockholders so brought are wise, they will submit these airy and utterly untenable representations to the District Attorney's office with a view to proper action. Possibly, the Corporation Commissioner may have a word to say in protection of the public, but certainly the Public Prosecutor.

GARBAGE BIDS SOUGHT

City Engineer Shaw has requested of the City Council authority to advertise for bids for the collection of garbage and rubbish in the newly annexed West territory for the final year which began on the 1st inst. It is expected that the collection service will cost the city about $5400.

BEACH CITIES THRONGED

Hundreds of Thousands Witness Holiday Events; Most of Mishaps Due to Autos and Booze

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, July 5.—All the beach cities celebrated the Fourth with patriotic and holiday programs which drew hundreds of thousands from Los Angeles and inland points. Though Sunday was on the calendar as the 150th anniversary of the birth of independence on this continent, today witnessed the main pyrotechnics of celebration. From early morning until late at night the beaches were thronged. Highways were crowded with cars and the Pacific Electric handled all its patrons only through maintaining extra service.

The beach clubs held open house for members, with swimming parties, dinner parties, dancing and other affairs. The Santa Monica Athletic Club carried out an extensive program under Doc Clancy, athletic director. Water and shore events saw some flashy performances by both boys and girls who entered.

Ocean Park carried out a huge celebration, with a fireworks display put on by the Business Men's Association. Carnival and mardi-gras features, with elaborate decorations and great quantities of confetti, entertained the crowds. Children entered a treasure hunt in which hundreds of dollars made up the rewards. Under the A.A.U. direction, a rough-water swim was held. The Bay Cities chapter of the Red Cross gave interesting demonstrations of life-saving work. "Ocean Park on Fire," the final pyrotechnic display, was a superb set piece, remarkably realistic.

American Legionnaires conducted an aquatic meet and in the evening at the Rose Bowl, under the auspices of the fire department, a fireworks display was held.

THOUSANDS HAIL LIBERTY DRAMA

first Continental Congress, 1774, with statesmen debating one with another. Then came a company of Minute Men on foot. It was a nondescript group, some in rags and some in the good clothing of the day, some old and some young. They were gathering for battle.

Near one end of the arena the company stopped, when in dashed Paul Revere, riding like mad to them, shouting warning that the British were coming and then dashing full gallop up the entire flight of stairs out of the Coliseum.

Shortly came the British, resplendent in their red coats and fine uniforms, and the battle was on. Columns advanced, guns blazed and cracked, smoke rolled and a most realistic battle was staged with such intensity that the vast assembly was thrilled breathless. One woman in the audience collapsed and was carried to the emergency hospital on the grounds.

"The Spirit of 1776" marched, alive, around the arena. The signing of the Declaration of Independence took place on one float slowly circling the field. Then came a float bearing Betsy Ross, creator of the American flag and tens of thousands broke forth in wild cheering. Molly Pitcher was on another float, also Lafayette at Valley Forge. Then came the climax of the colonial period with the impressive surrender of Cornwallis to Washington.

CALIFORNIA'S PART

California had a particular part that came next. Spanish dons in dazzling costumes on fiery chargers encircled the field. Father Junipero Serra and mission Indians constituted a tableau that drew feeling applause from the crowd. A group of '49ers, bewhiskered and with pick and shovel, silently trooped past like ghosts of the past. Gen. Fremont with a company of soldiers of the day came. Indians moved like shadows in and out of the picture and with the covered wagon and hard-riding pony express the spectacle passed to plantation days, Gen. Lee, Gen. Grant and Lincoln in a most impressive manner addressing soldiers.

The Spanish-American War, Philippine War and World War had parts in the pageant, as did groups of present-day soldiers and a host of patriotic organizations, motion-picture groups and other bodies. Eight bands added to the music of the 1000-voice choir and to the singing of the multitude.

In the center of the arena stood a forty-foot liberty bell like a great shrine, around which the portrayal of events took place. Millionaires, cripples, some of the stage's best talent, stately old men and women, enthusiastic youths and many other classes enacted parts with a sincerity and feeling that seemed to come from the inspiration of the occasion.

The various patriotic and veterans' societies, joining with fraternal and civic organizations aided in putting the pageant across, even furnishing man and women as participants.

FILM STARS HELP

The motion-picture studios furnished not only many of the leading stars for stellar roles, but furnished technical talent for the designing and construction of floats and the actual staging of the pageant. Frank Lloyd, director, was the technical director. It was Lloyd's own acquiring of citizenship during the past year that gave him the inspiration for the pageant. The affair was sponsored by the Two Thirty-Three Club of Hollywood.

Speaking was confined to two brief patriotic addresses, one by Mayor Cryer and the other by John H. Quinn, past national commander of the American Legion. Boyle Workman, president of the City Council, was official chairman. Edwards Davis, motion-picture actor, was chairman of the committee under whose direction the pageant was staged.

As a fitting close to the afternoon's celebration the entire audience repeated the oath of allegiance and joined in singing the Star Spangled Banner.

Many expressions of a desire to have the pageant reproduced for the benefit of those who missed it yesterday were heard last night in noteworthy quarters with the proposal that it be re-enacted soon.

WEDDING PRESENT WIT

They were discussing a wedding present, a silver butter dish, that they were sending off that morning.

"What shall we put on the card?" asked the wife.

"Oh," said the husband, preoccupied with his paper and coffee, "just the usual dope. I suppose; anything you like."

A few moments' thought followed, and then she handed him the card. It was inscribed: "For butter—or worse."—[Exchange.

FIRE WORKS DISPLAY AT VENICE ELABORATE

VENICE, July 5. (Exclusive)—The wind-up of three days of celebration at Venice came with a burst of skyrockets and bombs that illumined the heavens far out over the ocean. Fourth of July throngs filled this beach resort to overflowing, and every transportation facility was taxed. Fast service with five-minute intervals by Pacific Electric trains helped materially, and proprietors of parking spaces accommodated thousands of autos through utilizing every available foot of space.

Gayly decorated piers and amusement concessions greeted visitors here. Confetti streamers floated everywhere, and the special program put on by the Venice Amusement Men's Association exceeded all Independence Day celebrations of the past. Beach sports, aquatic events, carnival fun and beach picnics lasted far into the night. Police reported an unusually orderly crowd.

STIRRING PLEA FOR ENFORCEMENT OF LAW

PASADENA, July 5.—Making a stirring plea for law enforcement, Judge Frank C. Collier of the Superior Court today addressed a large audience at Library Park at the municipal observation of the nation's birthday.

Speaking of the Constitution, Judge Collier said, "the Federal Constitution up to now has successfully withstood all onslaughts upon it, and it will today withstand just as successfully the attacks now made upon it by those who seek to place the demands of the individual against the good of the people."

Pleading for law observance Judge Collier said: "Obey and observe the law yourselves and thereby add to your respect and the respect of others for you and the country you assert you represent. Add sufficient teeth to the Federal and State statutes so that he who violates them will not merely increase his 'overhead by the payment of a fine, but will 'do' his time in a penal institution. See to it that the officers enforce the law against the so-called respectable and society elements of our citizenry with as great or even greater severity than against the laborer and bootlegger. Grant to those in charge the same or even more appropriate machinery than you provide for any other important department of government. Only under such circumstances can any fair test be made of any law."

In the afternoon at Brookside Park there were a baseball game and more avenue, Pasadena, motorman on an inbound Oak Knoll car, was badly burned on the face and hands when something went wrong as he turned on a switch as Los Angeles and Commercial street, according to police report. His eyesight may be affected. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital and later taken to the Pacific Hospital.

FIVE HURT IN TRAFFIC

One man was so severely injured that he may die and four others were hurt in two traffic accidents yesterday. P. T. Cullen, 35, 3722 West Avenue 30, suffered several fractured ribs, a spine injury and possibly internal injuries in an accident near 3600 San Fernando Boulevard, when in swerving his car to avoid striking another, the auto struck a pile of sand and overturned, pinning him beneath. Police Surgeon Dunsmoor, who attended him at the Receiving Hospital, pronounced his condition as serious.

Harry Stevens, 75, 235 Hewitt street, was the innocent by-stander to suffer most from an automobile collision at Second and Los Angeles streets. Stevens was walking along the sidewalk when a Ford roadster, driven by Jess Ferguson, 25, of 2430½ East Fourth street, and a Ford touring car, driver unidentified, came in collision, the lighter car mounting the curb and striking him. The driver and his brother, Elmer Ferguson, and Fred Apodaca of 1011 East Thirty-ninth Place, other occupants of the roadster, were treated at the Receiving Hospital by Police Surgeons Saverien for cuts and bruises.

Police are searching for the driver of the touring car, who stopped, noted the condition of the injured, got in his car and drove away.

BEACH TRIO ARRESTED

Venice police and firemen arrested three men yesterday for shooting firecrackers. Each was released on $25 bail. Those arrested were Lee Brody, 3714 Rose avenue, who was declared to have had fifteen packages of the forbidden fireworks; C. B. Hartley of 1465 Tameron street, Los Angeles, and Richard Kohn, 1814 Temple street, Los Angeles.

For setting off firecrackers in Bear Canyon and starting a small forest fire, Charles Kopp and Robert J. Leyh were arrested yesterday by Deputy County Fire Warden Taylor, according to a telephoned report to the Sheriff's office. It was expected the prisoners will be taken to the County Jail.

HISTORIC ANIMALS

Bedloe's Island, on which the Statue of Liberty stands, was ceded to the United States government for the purpose of harbor defense and it was occupied by Fort Wood. We do not find a record of any military prison on the island, though soldiers may have been held in detention there. The neighboring Governor's Island has a military prison. It is interesting to note that Bedloe's Island or Liberty Island has lately been transferred to civil status, having heretofore been considered a part of the military post of Fort Wood. By proclamation in 1924 the statue was made a national monument and its base a national park. The government now makes separate appropriations for the army post on the island and for the upkeep of the statue, most of this being for lighting.—[Washington Star.

ROBBERY VICTIM SEIZES SUSPECT

Former Soda Clerk Captured After Struggle

Wanted Bandit Booked on Hold-up Charges

Victim's Driver Identifies Erstwhile Fare

[illegible] Etheridge, 22 years of age, [illegible] soda clerk, collared Sunday night at First and Hill streets by [illegible] H. McGee, who recognized him, he declares, as the man who robbed him in the ribs with a revolver and robbed him at his home on June 11, last, yesterday was identified and subsequently booked at Central Station on a robbery charge.

On the June night in question, Etheridge had just entered his own doorway at 6262 South Van Ness avenue when a bandit sprang from behind a clump of bushes and poked a gun in his rib. He was then ordered into the house, compelled to take off his clothes, and relieved of $100 in money. The bandit also took a watch he found in a dresser drawer.

Still covering McGee, the bandit stepped to the telephone and ordered a hold-up. It came and he made his escape in it. Sunday night, McGee and a cop at First and Hill streets, claim to firmly believed was the bandit. He pounced upon him and after a brief struggle succeeded in capturing him and took him around the corner to the detective bureau.

Yesterday, Detective Lieutenants Lind and Barry of the University division [illegible] Joseph MacKay, the taxicab driver, and he positively identified Etheridge as the man he drove away from the Van Ness address on June 11, according to police reports.

HUMAN RUMINANAS NOT KNOWN TO HISTOR

The first case of human ruminant reported in a scientific journal was that of Robert Gill, a cobbler of Dorsetshire, whose death was reported in the British Annual Register under date of October 1, 1767.

In ancient times and in the Middle Ages men who chewed the cud were apparently very far from rare, but modern science would be prone to dismiss such tales were they not supported by evidence of more recent time. Roger Gill died after suffering "great torture" due to the loss of his strange faculty.

Gill usually began his second chewing a quarter or half an hour, sometimes later, after dinner, when every morsel came up successively sweeter and sweeter to the taste. The chewing continued about an hour or more, and sometimes would leave him for a little while, "in which case he would be sick at his stomach." Many other and later instances might be cited of men who have been "brother to the ox" in the possession of this faculty. —[Chicago Journal.

Donald M. Baker, consulting engineer of this city, returned yesterday from Philadelphia, where he attended the twelfth annual convention of the American Association of Engineers. Mr. Baker was installed as second vice-president of the association at the convention. Accompanying him was his wife, whom he met in New York on her return from a trip around the world.

"Everyone in the East," said Baker, "is again turning their eyes toward California. The Florida boom has fallen flat and even the engineers I met from Florida admit that the bottom has dropped out of things down there and that progress from now on will be very slow.

"I was particularly interested in observing the manner in which the large Eastern cities handle their traffic. In no place outside of New York was automobile or pedestrian traffic as heavy as that in Los Angeles, and even there the method of handling pedestrian traffic did not make for the safety of pedestrians as it does here. I feel much safer crossing one of our downtown streets or driving a car through them that I did in any city I visited in the East.

"Engineers from all over the country are very much interested in the Colorado River development, but very few of them appear to have a clear idea of the magnitude of the project or of the issues involved. Each section of the country seems to have its own particular development project for which they are looking to the Federal government for aid and more education is necessary before the general public, particularly in the East, can be brought to realize the importance of this development to the Southwest."

Prior to being elected second vice-president of the association, Baker served as a member of the National Board of Directors, representing Nevada, California and the Hawaiian Islands.

MITCHELL IN THEATER TALK

W. D. Mitchell, Republican candidate for Governor, yesterday afternoon spoke before the audience at the Orpheum Theater. Mr. Mitchell talked of the seriousness attending the celebration of the sesquicentennial anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Souvenir facsimile copies of the Declaration of Independence were distributed by Boy Scouts.

THE LANCER

Glen B. Winship, a literatus of parts.

He might have added: "Providing there are any novels."

It is unthinkable that the roaring avalanche of books will be able to continue.

For one thing, there isn't enough uncut forest in the world to keep on supplying the paper pulp.

TOO MUCH FICTION

With every man, woman and child in the United States, physically able to beat a typewriter, at work on immortal works of fiction; and with the movies maintaining immense factories to supply tales and stories, there must come a point of saturation.

Alfred Harcourt, the publisher, is very polite when he tries to account for the immense sales of books like Wells's "Outline of History" and Papini's "Life of Christ." He says we have begun to think. The real reason, I fear, is that we are sick of so many stories.

IMPROVING THE BIBLE

P. S.: Of all the banal, bromidic attempts to deal with a great subject, I nominate Brother Papini's book. It takes a great deal of nerve to read the biblical account of the life of Christ and then decide to improve upon it. Some day when he has leisure, Papini ought to get out the garden hose and see if he can make a better Niagara Falls.

Many new automobile roads to extend from Italy to the Ruhr district, Berlin and into Czecho-Slovakia, are being planned.

FIRING PISTOL IN CITY CHARGED

Supposed Celebrater of Fourth Arrested by Police Officers

Charged with discharging firearms within the city limits, Royal Smith, 27 years of age, of 1927 Adair street, was arrested yesterday by Police Officers Sieger and Gruber of the University division on complaint of Harry Snyder of 3004½ Trinity street.

Snyder, police said, declared that Smith, apparently celebrating the Fourth, had been firing a revolver in the neighborhood, some of the shots traveling in the direction of Snyder's bungalow court.

GOOD MOTORIST IS COURTEOUS

The good motor camper is at least as courteous on the road as he is at home. He does not loaf along at twelve or fifteen miles an hour in the middle of the highway. He does not rush around corners to get ahead of the next fellow. He does not come into camp noisily late at night and start tinkering with his car. He does not hold ukulele parties in his tent after 9:30 or so. He does not borrow camp equipment from his neighbors and forget to return it. He does not demand service which the camp is not equipped to give.

He does not consider that all other motorists are boobs. He does not adopt a condescending attitude toward residents of the country he is passing through. He does not cut down growing trees, fences and shrubs for firewood. He does not steal flowers, fruits, vegetables, milk on the hoof and poultry. He does not pollute streams and ponds on private property. He does not leave behind a messy camp site, and—well, he acts generally like a regular fellow and is generally treated as such.—[New York Herald Tribune.

FAMOUS OLD STATUE

The "Victory of Samothrace" can be dated at about the end of the fourth century. It was found in 1863, broken into a multitude of fragments which have been carefully united. "There are," says F. H. Tarbell, "no modern pieces except in the wings. The statue stood on a pedestal having the form of a ship's prow, the principal parts of which were found by an Austrian expedition to Samothrace in 1878. These fragments were subsequently conveyed to the Louvre, and the Victory now stands on her original pedestal.

CAYENNE
That Pennsylvania investigation could hardly help being red hot when it's so full of Pepper.

THERE'S A REASON
Over 4,000,000 calls are made over the phone in New York in a single day. No wonder the line is busy.

THE WORST EVER
The bandits who robbed a hospital may some day be taken there to have their wounds dressed—if they get what is coming to them. The quicker the sooner.

BEYOND THE LIMIT
Two whales were reported as having a desperate battle near the twelve-mile limit off Atlantic City. Off Rum Row is a good place to stage a conflict of marine monsters.

CITY MEN'S SHARE
Lest they labor under any misapprehension, the farmers should remember that while they are the men who dig in the soil, it is the city consumer who does most of the digging up.

THE LADY SMOKER
Gen. Eric Ludendorff in divorcing his wife declared that an old woman has no business smoking cigarettes. But supposing she makes it her business. Some of them seem to be doing it and getting away with it.

WHAT'S THE USE?
A Kentucky Representative wants Congress to make a national survey of crime. We survey enough of it now. What we want is to stop it. Another Congressional inquiry might be only a boost for crime.

BEYOND US
Uncle Sam's income for the last fiscal year was $377,767,816 more than his expense. Greatly as we admire that fine example of living within one's income, we must confess we have no expectation of emulating it.

HELP FOR POLAND
American professors and bankers have been invited to look over the finances of Poland and figure out a way to save the country. Maybe the idea is that the bankers will pass the hat and give Poland some finances to talk about.

CLIMBING FAST
Based upon the school census the population of the State of California now exceeds, 4,500,000 souls. It is certain that the next official count will show that the State has passed Massachusetts and Michigan and taken sixth rank on the roster. California climbs fast.

RING ETIQUETTE
If the card be carried out Paul Berlenbach would be defending his title twice in a span of sixty days. This is rank extravagance in a modern champion. John L. Sullivan used to have a fight every day for a while, but nowadays a real champion fights every seven years.

AT CONEY ISLAND
Nearly 100 girls were arrested at Coney Island on a recent Sunday for wearing bathing suits that would not grade according to the beach standard of propriety. At this distance it was not thought that Coney had any standards except those at which one may throw for the cigars.

THE GIRL EVANGELIST
Uldine Utley has been conducting an old-fashioned revival in New York and is now in demand for a series of meetings in Chicago. This Fresno girl is only 14 years old and is called the Joan of Arc of the Baptists. She has been expounding fundamentalism in the church of Dr. John Roach Straton in New York and even blase Wall street has turned from the ticker to list to the kid evangelist.

EARTH'S GREATEST PILE
Detroit capitalists are putting up a building eighty-one stories high. This will be the tallest in the world. New York has had a lot of fun and considerable glory out of the Woolworth Building. This sport and fame may now be diverted to the City of the Straits. But before the tower of the Michigan masterpiece is finished Gotham may turn up with plans for some new temple of Mammon in which the Washington Monument could be housed in a single elevator shaft. But for the moment Detroit has the Knickerbocker beat.

THE STUDENT MIND
A bit of research made through the presidents of 315 American colleges brings the conclusion that practical Christianity had made a rather substantial advance in the last ten years. This is not exactly in accord with popular opinion, but the heads of the universities should know whereof they speak. At the same time the prexies concede that there is a lessening interest in creeds. It would mean that the rising generation accepts the Sermon on the Mount, but declines to quarrel over the creedal barriers which divide so many churches.

FRENCH FEMINISTS
Following and resulting from the recent session of the confederated women's clubs in Paris a new wave of feminism is sweeping over France. The French women are resenting the political inequalities which the women of so many other countries have been able to correct. They are coming to regard affairs of state as not a domain reserved by right for the masculine sex and they are asking why the right of suffrage should be longer denied to them.

Since the close of the World War the French Parliament has been functioning badly and there is a deep resentment that the representatives of the people should have proved so unequal to the task imposed on them. The very fact that the French franc is worth less than 3 cents, while the German mark, the English pound and the American dollar are all at par is bringing the conviction that France is badly governed, that, as some of the leading proponents of suffrage assert, the men are making a mess of things.

Government in the United States has not retrograded since the women have exercised the right of suffrage; and the same is true in Great Britain. Now the French women are asking each other whether it is because they are less capable than the Anglo-Saxon sisters that they are denied the right of suffrage.

There was never any impelling desire on the part of the French women for the ballot until they began to observe that the women of so many other countries had won it and were making a notable success of it. But, at the same time, it is apparent that suffrage cannot be won in France by the means that proved successful both in England and in this country. In England, notably, suffrage was won in the streets. The militant feminists staged parades, boycotts and other demonstrations until they became such a nuisance that the stolid Englishmen granted them to right to vote in order to silence them.

Militant suffragists played a part, although a lesser one, in the suffrage campaign in this country. But in France the women themselves will take no part in noisy demonstrations. As Gaston Ragnot writes in L'Illustration, there is no class of women in Paris, not even the typists or the midinettes, who would take part in a feminist parade, marching to the portals of the French Chamber. Suffrage cannot be won in the street in France; the French women do not approach their objectives in that way.

One reason why the feminist movement has made so little progress is that the French women naturally shrink from appearing in public life. So long as they dictated fashions and manners they were willing to let the men make the laws. The home and society command their whole attention, and they were willing to leave the tribune to the fathers, brothers and husbands. But Gaston Rageot notes that "Little by little the French woman herself feels life changing about her . . . because conscious of a regime of which the charm no longer suffices." There is a growing desire to emulate the woman of other countries, to dictate in affairs of state as well as in those of manners and fashion.

The international congress has had the effect of bringing the French women from their seclusion. They feel they are as capable of taking part in politics as their sisters in other countries. They sense an inferiority that is repugnant to them, and the result is a feminist awakening that is filling the French press with demands for equal suffrage of the sexes.

Just now the attitude of official France seems to be that the women can have a vote if the majority of them want it; but that they must first give some visible proof that the women themselves are ready and willing to enjoy the privileges and fill the duties of equal suffrage.

USURPERS DISCOURAGED
Utter failure has been the fate of the Liberal revolution in Nicaragua. By persistent and more or less valiant efforts the troops supporting Emiliano Chamorro, the Conservative President, have managed to gain victory after victory. However, they probably would have had to fight much longer to put down the revolutionists had not the United States government sent a body of marines to Bluefields, which had the effect of quieting the rebels massed in that stronghold.

American intervention became necessary when the rebels in control of Bluefields forcibly entered the Banco Nacional and carried away about $160,000 in issue bills. As a consequence of the bank being chartered under the laws of Connecticut a protest was entered by Louis F. Rosenthal with the Department of State. United States marines then landed from the gunboat Cleveland and declared Bluefields a neutral zone. Business was resumed and full protection was given to the Banco Nacional as well as to the local collector of customs.

Then the rebels made the mistake of calling upon W. J. Crampton, American collector of customs, to deliver the customs revenue to them. When he refused to do so they removed him from his office and seized the customhouse. Our marines and local constabulary, together with the Conservative troops, then attacked the revolutionists. There were scores of casualties on both sides, but the rebels were the worse sufferers, losing thirty-three killed and sixty wounded. The rebels were forced to withdraw, and all the important positions in Nicaragua are now held by the Conservatives, who are so confident of complete victory that they have released hundreds of political prisoners.

It cannot be said that what our marines did at Bluefields is to be construed as recognition of the Chamorro government by the United States. This country and every Central American nation have refused to recognize Chamorro on the ground that his administration was established by force. Formerly we were friendly to Chamorro. When he was Nicaraguan Minister in Washington ten years ago he announced his candidacy for the Presidency of Nicaragua, and it was so favorably considered by our government that he was conveyed home in an American cruiser. After the expiration of his term of office he plotted to make himself President again, but Carlos Solorzano was elected. Chamorro promised to support Solorzano, but within a month he took advantage of his position as commander of the Nicaraguan troops to make himself dictator, though this involved considerable bloodshed. Subsequently, by illegal elections, dominated by force, he became President.

It is a sign of the progress of our sister republics of the south that they no longer are quick to recognize leaders of revolutions who usurp Presidential offices, but persistently withhold such recognition. This indicates that they feel there is a moral as well as political principle involved in the attitude of one government toward another, and it also indicates that ambitious rebels are going to find it harder and harder to make successful headway in a civilization that cannot afford to encourage usurpers.

SAVING THE "NEWS"
In the news columns of today's Times is reprinted an editorial article from the current issue of Saturday Night in which the editor, S. T. Clover, discusses the unhappy history of the Illustrated Daily News, local tabloid newspaper established here by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and the present efforts being made to rehabilitate it. The remarks of Mr. Clover are worthy of consideration by all those concerned and likely to be concerned in this endeavor.

While having only the best wishes for the success of the attempt to put the News on a paying basis, thereby to recover some at least of the large sums sunk in it by innocent investors, most of whom can ill afford their losses, The Times is constrained to voice here a word of caution in order that good money may not be thrown after bad.

It is a fundamental principle of the newspaper business that no newspaper can be better than the man who makes it. Mr. Vanderbilt failed in his journalistic enterprises here and elsewhere because, whatever his qualifications in other directions, he is not a newspaper man by either instinct or training. He had practically no knowledge or experience of the intricate details of the business upon which he embarked and those whom he chose as his immediate advisers were in little better case.

Under such circumstances failure was a foregone conclusion. That the enterprise could not succeed was from the beginning apparent to The Times, as to all others familiar with the newspaper business. Notwithstanding which The Times was bound by professional ethics to remain silent. Any criticism by The Times of the conduct of Mr. Vanderbilt's enterprise or of the unheard-of methods of its financing would have been inevitably construed as an unfair attack upon a potential rival.

Now that the Vanderbilt regime is past and the fate of the News is in the hands of its stockholders The Times may with propriety venture a word of advice. The Times has only sympathy for the effort to recoup the heavy losses of investors by realizing something of the potential value of the News as a newspaper. The Times is not disposed to question the good faith of the citizens who originally sponsored this effort. But The Times sincerely and disinterestedly hopes that in this new attempt the old mistakes will not be repeated.

If the News is to succeed there must be no misunderstanding or misrepresentation of its present situation and future outlook. Money must not be collected on the strength of anybody's vague hopes that everything will work out all right if only existing obligations can be met.

Money and good intentions alone will not make a successful newspaper. Nor can such an enterprise be conducted by a committee in "town-meeting" fashion. The first requisite for the rehabilitation of the News is a competent, experienced newspaper man, honest, intelligent, aggressive and familiar with every angle of the newspaper business, to take over the functions of publisher. Given a free hand and substantial financial backing such a man would have a chance to pull the News out and ultimately to make it pay dividends.

But no group of inexperienced citizens, however well-intentioned, can do it and any effort to bring about the desired end through such means is futile and hopeless.

ANOTHER PERIL
While we are still wrestling with the problem of keeping human beings from blowing one another off the face of the planet, the alarum bells peal for a new foe. In this war it will be futile to rely on alliances, balances of power or world courts. It is, in the words of a Department of Agriculture entomologist to the Oakland convention of the Pacific division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a death grapple for the lordship of the earth.

"If human beings are to continue to exist," he warned, "they must first gain mastery over insects."

With the world becoming vastly overpopulated, he continued, insects make a huge dent in the food supply. In this country alone they annually nullify the labor of 1,000,000 men. Aside from economic considerations, it is a humiliating thought for a man that his labor is being canceled by a beetle or a grasshopper. Nor is there any glory in an insect war. It is just one of those messy jobs that have to be done.

Pessimists, especially those who place faith in the beliefs of the late Anatole France, will hesitate in embarking upon such a gruelling struggle. For France, gazing through the far-from-rose-colored glasses of his imagination, beheld the insects instead of the meek inheriting the earth.

"Side by side with mankind, and in spite of him," he wrote, "the insects—bees, for instance, and ants—have already wrought marvels. True, the ants and the bees are like us in needing light and heat. But there are invertebrates less sensitive to cold. Who can foretell the future reserved for their activity and patience?"

But now, it seems, the insects are losing patience with the idea of waiting a few billion years more or less to take over a planet too frigid for man's existence. They want the earth and they want it now. Therein they display a not-uncommon characteristic of the race which, it may be, they are destined to supplant.

POETRY FOR THE PEOPLE
By James J. Montague.

Apologize when you are wrong
The hearts of other men to soften
As through the streets you move along—
Which probably is rather often.
If rude men thrust you off the walk
And forth upon the pavement tarry,
Avoid all sorts of angry talk,
But simply say that you are sorry.

Don't answer back when you're addressed
By men whose voices rasp or rumble,
Remember it is always best
To be polite and suave and humble.
If you must speak, confine your speech
To mild and civil conversation;
Let your expression, we beseech,
Conceal your inward irritation.

On getting on a bus or car
Where people crowd from all directions,
Don't show how very vexed you are
Or give expression to objections.
Though you are pushed and shoved and kneed,
Though now and then a fist may clout you—
It's always wiser not to heed
The rudeness of the throng about you.

Strange things a lot of folks will do
When they are mean or temperamental,
But bear in mind it's best for you
To be forbearing, mild and gentle.
When badly used reply with kind
And pleasant and forgiving greetings,
And when you do, you're sure, you'll find
To get an awful lot of beatings!

Save the Horses
LOS ANGELES, July 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Can't something be done about keeping those fine police horses? Is it not possible to have that decision reconsidered?

Can it be that Los Angeles is so financially embarrassed as to make such a sacrifice necessary? If so, may not the city need help from outside sources? Could we not take up a collection?

These splendid horses are the most beautiful sight on the downtown streets. Surely they have "fine buildings" beat a thousand ways!

Blessings in Disguise
YUMA (Ariz.) July 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your editorial of June 30 you state that Dr. Howard of the United States Department of Agriculture claims that "insects rob us annually of $2,000,000,000 in agricultural products."

Those figures are based on current prices for the product destroyed; but they should be cut in half at least; for we farmers know to our sorrow what universal bumper crops mean. If the United States raises another bumper crop of cotton like last year thousands of cotton raisers will go broke.

The boll weevil is a blessing in disguise, and not much disguise, at that. I'm a cotton raiser. There is more net returns from half a bale to the acre at 35 cents per pound than a full bale to the acre at 20 cents per pound, and it would make but little difference to the ultimate consumer.

Let the farmer experience the same prosperity for equal intelligence, labor and capital invested that the merchants and manufacturers enjoy and he will swamp the world with products of all sorts and feed the insects as well.

About Rabies
LOS ANGELES, July 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Re to the item in the various newspapers relative to the greatly increased number of people being bitten by dogs.

A couple of years ago we had just such another epidemic, but earlier in the spring, so in February I had my toy French poodle, then 12 years old, named Toodles, vaccinated with the canine rabies vaccine. (Just one injection is all that is necessary.) I used one made on the Coast at Berkeley. The following fall of the same year, ten months after Toodles was bitten badly about the head, one eye being injured, by a neighbor's dog called Rowdy. A few weeks before Rowdy had been bitten by a stray dog and developed rabies and not only bit Toodles, but also several other dogs in the neighborhood at Wilton and Melrose, Los Angeles. The other dogs were all bitten on the legs or body and every one within a period of three weeks developed rabies and died or were killed, while Toodles, who had been bitten in the most dangerous part of the body, in or near the head, suffered no bad effects and is today over two years older, or about 14 years old, still alive and active. I believe the value of canine rabies vaccine was well demonstrated in this instance, and if practically all the dogs were given this vaccination we would have little trouble in this section.

Man and the Dog
LOS ANGELES, June 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May I refute through your columns a scare-head article which appeared in a recent issue of the Examiner and in which article the writer laboriously attempts a display of subtle thought and profound and illuminating helpfulness?

"The flattery of a dog's devotion is satisfying to a mean mind." A dog's devotion could only be flattery to a mean mind. Upon whom devotion is bestowed and the effect it may have on a certain type of mind is entirely irrelevant.

"The dog is a survival of savagery and has no place in the economy of civilization." Since the most civilized of us are part savage and large numbers of human beings are complete savages, what is the solution? Does the writer advocate that the slaughter of all savages begin at once?

"He is dirty, disease breeding, dangerous and useless." Ye gods! What under the sun is dirtier than the two-legged animal? In India, where water is scarce, tongue washers go about with vessels of water washing tongues, using the same water over and over. In the igloo country people house themselves month in and month out in unventilated dwellings, eating, drinking and sleeping in a stench-laden atmosphere that no air and sun-loving animal could endure. How about the towns and villages of Europe where sanitary conditions are such as to keep the air continually polluted? As to disease breeding: Do sick dogs, coughing, hawking and spitting, congregate in the center of the city as do the human animals who gather in the city square—beings suffering with tuberculosis, asthma and whatnot, the dried sputum from their disease-ridden bodies befouling the air? The danger of the dog is infinitesimal compared to the danger of one city square or one germ and ancient tenement. As for being useless, how about the dogs of the Arctics, who have lives unnumbered saved by their efforts and energy? Who have been the sheep herders and tenders for years immemorial?

UNDERSTANDING AND INDEPENDENCE

By MYRA NYE

Significant at this time of the celebration of America's independence is the quiet movement of club women to promote a better understanding between Great Britain and the United States.

Mrs. Oliver P. Clark, president of the Friday Morning Club, originated a how work she invited the wives of foreign representatives who were assigned to Los Angeles to talk about the luncheon table as a beautiful clubhouse which is a civic and patriotic center as well as a social one. Mrs. Charles [illegible], honorary, newly elected, has declared her purpose to carry on in the same way this work of international relationship.

Informal talks were given [illegible] by the consuls' wives and by Englishmen who are members of organizations whose purpose is to create a finer co-operation among English-speaking countries. There was no ranting against law and outlawry. There was no talk of peace at any price, no sentimentalism, no waving of flags or patriotism, either red or pink. They were simply reasonable and friendly talks about the countries represented at the table.

Incidentally, as a by-product of information, it became known that of the fifteen consuls' wives in this city, eleven are American born; a fact that contributes naturally to a better international knowledge and consequent understanding.

The very day that this meeting was conducted in Los Angeles Mrs. Curtis Brown, president of the American Women's Club in London, was presented at the Court of King George and Queen Mary, partly in recognition of the relationships existing between England and America because of Mrs. Brown's influence and her work with the American club organizations in England.

The wife of the American ambassador is honorary president of the club and the wife of the American Consul-General is honorary vice-president. Serving actively on the board with Mrs. Brown are several American wives of British members of Parliament. Once again is a definite avenue of understanding. The Viscountess Astor, herself a member of Parliament, is one of the vice-presidents. Others are Lady Ward, the beautiful and efficient Viscountess Templetone and the energetic Lady Harcourt, who serves on many valuable committees.

To parallel the work of international relationship among women here the London club sponsored in June the American Fellowship, which is established by the Union Theological Seminary in New York City for the purpose of encouraging advanced study and promotion of inter-theological relations between England and America. The fellowship is open to students of England or Wales of any ecclesiastical communion.

Also at this time the club is one of the sponsors of a series of lectures being given at the House of Lords on British and American history. The first of the series given the last week in May is "Permanent Conditions Which Have Influenced America and British-American Crises" was the first occasion when a lecture has been delivered within the precincts of the houses of Parliament, according to the editor of the weekly club bulletin.

A club woman returning home after a tour around the world which included a visit to the American club in London, said that she had started with the [illegible] prejudices against England gleaned from a long period of teaching and study of school histories. Now she said they were gone forever. Nowhere did she find such safe and well managed ports as those owned by Great Britain in the Orient and everywhere around the world.

This work of organized women which, of course, is not at all at variance nor in excess of the individual and desires of right-thinking men is helping to make a new kind of Fourth of July oratory. The old choking of the eagle to make it scream anathema against the mother country is replaced by a spirit of gratitude for the common heritage of English-speaking nations.

The widening of the borders of the world by discovery, the shrinking of the distances by science are almost of all this removal of prejudice by understanding aids the cause of freedom of America.

THE TRYST

At parting we vowed constancy
Made plan to meet again—
And only we two lovers know
The why or where or when.
But all day long in joyous song
My heart with trust was filled,
For well I knew that you'd be true
To promise you had made.
This, too, I know if I must go Away when gods decree
If I with you pledge undying love
You'll keep the tryst with me.
I'll have no fears through all the years—Ten thousand though they be—
But brave past death, with my last breath,
I'll sing on hastening way
Straight back to earth and heaven's mirth
To keep our trysting day.

Rome has one advantage over being 2680 years old. Whereas it today claims to be the first city child born within the present city limits.

It is hard to understand why there is any need of a birth-control society in the modern landlord seems to be following the same end—only a little less fuss.

The arrival of Commander Richard E. Byrd in New York occasioned fresh stirrings of American pride in American polar achievement.

In addition to Byrd's courage backed by more than 3000 miles of actual flying experience in the Arctic, a principal contributing factor to the startling success of his flight to the North Pole is conceded by followers of Arctic exploration to be the fact that his Fokker plane was equipped with three motors and specially designed radio equipment.

Americans take pride in the fact that these motors and radio instruments—the first to reach the pole—were American made.

In view of the fact that human lives, as well as the fate of the expedition, depended upon the engines and, in case of any trouble here or with the plane in general, upon the radio equipment, the attention of the engineering talent of the nation was concentrated on these details.

EXPOSITION DAMAGED BY RAINSTORM

Workmen Cut Holes in Roof of Agriculture Palace to Save Structure

PHILADELPHIA, July 5. (AP)—Exhibition and other buildings at the Sesquicentennial Exposition were damaged by a rainstorm which swept the city yesterday. Lightning, which struck several homes and felled many trees and poles, did not hit within the exposition grounds.

The Palace of Agriculture, with inadequate rainspouts, was the greatest sufferer of the exposition buildings. After tons of water had collected on the roof and officials were fearful that it would fall, workmen were sent to cut holes to allow the water to escape. The holes were directly over the Maryland exhibition, which was badly damaged by the rush of water.

Most of the buildings leaked and much damage was reported from various sections of the 1000-acre project.

ISADOR GOLD FACES TRIAL AS BURGLAR

Asserted "Pants Robber" in Wilshire District Held to Answer by Judge

Isador David Gold, known to the police by three different names and as the "pants burglar," has been held to answer in Superior Court on four counts of burglary and one of grand larceny by Municipal Judge Baird.

Under the alias of David I. Gold, the accused served a sentence in San Quentin, following his conviction on robbery charges in September, 1918, police say.

Charges on which he was given a preliminary hearing grew out of the robbery of three homes in the Wilshire district, all of which had been burglarized through methods typical of Gold's style of operation, according to police. In each instance the house was entered between 1 o'clock in the morning and 6 and in each case the thief stole the "pants" of the men in the house.

The homes which Gold is asserted to have robbed are those of C. S. Keener, 4431 South Gramercy Place; A. W. Kinsey, 3819 Arlington avenue, and Mrs. Frank Benchley, 113 South New Hampshire avenue. At the latter place, Gold is said to have taken diamond rings valued at $1780.

He was arrested recently at Santa Barbara and Vermont at an early hour by Officer Schmitz, following a report received by the policeman that a house in the neighborhood had been burglarized.

Metropolitan Summer Course to Open Today

When the summer quarter of the metropolitan college, University of Southern California, opens today in the Transportation Building, late afternoon and evening university instruction in a wide variety of subjects, both practical and cultural, will be available, according to Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, director.

Commerce classes holding initial sessions tonight include accounting, economics, geography and economic history in charge of Hillebert W. Smith and H. Dean Campbell, assistant director of metropolitan college.

For the convenience of teachers and those who wish to obtain their teaching credentials education classes are listed to open tonight, including educational tests and measurements, the principal and his school, philosophy of education and methods of teaching high-school English.

In addition classes in English, history, home economics, psychology, sociology and Spanish will hold organization meetings tonight on the thirteenth floor of the Transportation Building, Seventh and Los Angeles streets, where registrations may be made. Information may be obtained by calling TRinity 1701.

Marchetti in Improved State After Collapse

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Marchetti, who collapsed Sunday night with acute indigestion while making a speech at the Orpheum Theater, was reported greatly improved yesterday at the Westlake Hospital where he was taken.

He is under the care of Dr. E. C. Moore.

Following the attack on the stage, Judge Marchetti was unconscious for more than ten minutes in the wings of the theater. It is expected he will be able to resume his campaign activities in a week in behalf of his candidacy for the Superior Court bench.

GENEROSITY FAILS TO STOP DIVORCE

Even Mrs. Kathryn S. Wyman, who wanted a divorce from Webster W. Wyman, could not say he was narrow-minded. "He insisted on going out with other women," she testified in Judge Summerfield's court, "but he offered to give me money to go to San Francisco, buy a lot of fine clothes and find fellows who would show me a good time." "Well, I don't think his generosity is any excuse for misconduct," Judge Summerfield remarked severely. So he gave Mrs. Wyman a decree.

SOUTHLAND 'DRY FORCE RECRUITING

Reorganized Enforcement Machine to Be in Working Order Soon

Within three weeks the Federal prohibition bureau in the southern district of California and Arizona will have the largest and finest force of investigators west of Chicago, it was announced yesterday by Col. R. E. Frith, district administrator, at his home in Monrovia.

Coincidental with approval of millions for dry defense work throughout the United States by Congress, Col. Frith completed his reorganization program that involved the dismissal of nearly a dozen agents, the transfer of an assistant administrator and the appointment as his assistant chief in charge of enforcement of Maj. Blaine Andrew Dixon, champion crack shot and former West Point executive officer.

The entire eleventh floor of the Transportation Building at Seventh and Los Angeles streets has been taken over by the local prohibition agency and within a few days will have been completely remodeled. Secrecy will be the keynote of the office arrangement and every attention will be taken to guard the confidential information on rum-running and smuggling that is being developed by the new secret service unit of the Treasury Department.

Sound-proof walls will preclude the possibility of "leaks."

John H. Wynkoop, newly appointed chief field agent, has, during the past ten days, been interviewing more than 300 applicants for active service work, field and office duties. More than fifty of these will be recommended to Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, it is understood, which will more than double the field personnel of the division.

Upon arrival from Chicago of Maj. Dixon where the newly appointed enforcement chief went to wind up his private affairs before engaging in the difficult task of mopping up the Southland, Col. Frith will develop a mass attack upon highway rum-runners and alcohol plants.

When this program is well under way the Southern California dry agent will take his annual allotted leave.

His Tithe

From an English book: "A clergyman was quietly seated in his study when one of his male parishioners was shown in carrying a baby.

"Parson," he says, "as the law tells I must give you one-tenth of all I produce, here's my tenth child," and without another word the man placed the baby on the astonished parson's knee and departed.—[Boston Transcript.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

The glorious fascination of Hawaii has proved a lure to many prominent Angelenos who have gone over aboard the City of Los Angeles on its various trips, remaining a week and then back home again, being away in all about three weeks. But so seductive has Honolulu proven that many have remained for longer visits and among those who recently have taken houses there for the remainder of the summer are Mrs. Wolliam Pendleton Campbell of Gramercy Place, and her two daughters, Miss Jeanette and Miss Alice, who have moved from the Moana Hotel into a house at 203 Saratoga Road, where they will be domiciled until fall.

Maj. and Mrs. George S. Patton of San Gabriel, with their attractive daughter, Miss Anita, and Mrs. Patton's sister, Miss Anne Wilson, have been enjoying a month's delightful sojourn at the Moana, going over to visit with Mrs. Patton's son and his wife, Maj. and Mrs. George S. Patton, Jr., who are stationed at Schofield Barracks, just outside of Honolulu.

The Pattons sailed for home aboard the Matson the last of June, and just before leaving the island entertained with a dinner party at the Moana for the many who entertained in their honor during their sojourn there.

Maj. Patton, Jr., is an enthusiastic devotee of polo, and with Mrs. Patton is among the most popular members of the service social set in Honolulu and its environs.

The David A. Hamburgers have been in Honolulu for several months and are returning aboard the City of Los Angeles, which left there the 5th inst., while Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Thompson of Sunset Boulevard will remain over there for another month or so.

Many luncheon and supper parties are arranged in Honolulu social circles preceding and following the Sunday afternoon polo matches, which are under the direct supervision of Walter Dillingham, president of the Polo Club, who has so managed its affairs as to make the matches free to spectators, only reserving the grand stand for club members and their guests.

Bridge-Luncheon

Invitations are being issued by Mrs. John Ward Gibson of West Bothievard and Mrs. D. Russell McBryde of West Tenth street for a luncheon and bridge Friday afternoon next, at the Edgewater Club in Santa Monica.

Home Wedding

The marriage of Miss Avis Hathaway-Bixby, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Bixby, to Paul Harwood Dudley, was one of the beautifully appointed affairs of the last week, taking place Friday at the home of the bride's parents, 1635 East Ocean Boulevard, Long Beach, with Rev. Henry K. Booth of the First Congregational Church officiating. A reception followed the ceremony.

The house was exquisitely decorated with a profusion of blue and pink blossoms, combined with ferns, potted plants and grasses, and an improvised altar of gladioli, delphinium and sweet peas, against a background of palms formed the setting for the ceremony. The wedding trip plans were a secret.

Miss Mildred Aylife of Long Beach assisted as maid of honor, while Marion Durfee of Ontario, a former classmate of Mr. Dudley, served him as best man, and Mr. Bixby gave his daughter in marriage.

Mr. Dudley was graduated from Pomona College in 1925, and now is at the University of California in Berkeley, where he is studying for his Ph.D. degree. He is planning to take up the profession of geologist.

Among those attending the wedding were Mrs. F. B. Dudley of Caldwell, Idaho, mother of the bridegroom, and his sister, Miss Dorothy Dudley, who came west for the occasion. More than 125 relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony and were guests at the reception and wedding supper which followed.

Fir Bride-Elect

Miss Doris Geraldine Sellars, fiancee of Kenneth Childs, whose wedding will be one of the events of the 20th inst., has been the inspiration for numerous charmingly arranged prenuptial affairs recently, among the hostesses being Mrs. Albert Townsend and Mrs. Leland Hadley, who entertained with a bridge-luncheon at the Jonathan Club, June 26. The decorations were effectively carried out with blue and rose tones in early summer flowers, and the place favors were corsages of gardenias and maidenhair fern. Those included were Mmes. George Elkins, Harry Keen, Henry Patterson, Herbert Milleau, Paul Dutro, Donald Edmund, Salvin Tuttle, Jr., Glenn Carel, Lord Mayer, Charles Eckhart, Harold Rhoads and Misses Mary Paul, Anita McManes, Marie Hogan, Thelma Charles, Gwendolyn Witherspoon, Alice Coark, Ann Cunningham, Katherine Conn, Jane Fitzell, Lucille McManes, Norma Mooney, Ruth Hardy, Ruth Sellars and Doris Sellars.

Mr. and Mrs. George Elkins of Beverly Hills entertained with a surprise bridge and kitchen shower at their home Thursday evening while Mrs. Adda Sellars is planning a tea tomorrow afternoon at her home, 7079 Hawthorne avenue, in honor of her daughter and two out-of-town guests, Miss Helen McMahon and Miss Lois McMahon of Huntington, W. Va.

Celebrating Mr. Whitten's birthday anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Whitten entertained last week with a beautifully appointed affair at their home, 307 North Windsor Boulevard.

Delightful Affair

In honor of Mrs. Charles Robert Paul, who has come recently from Chicago to make her home here, Mrs. Rollin B. Lane of Hollywood entertained Saturday afternoon with a luncheon at the Club Casa Del Mar, Santa Monica, the guests being intimate friends of the honoree, who formerly made her home in Los Angeles, including Mrs. Charles Howard Lippincott, Mrs. Ralph Mallette Burdick, Mrs. Philip Wilson, Mrs. S. Steele Sandberg, Mrs. Edwin O. Palmer, Mrs. Clyde J. Eastman, Mrs. Frederick W. Stitth, Mrs. John Gilmore Blystone, Mrs. Jessie Babcock, Mrs. Tracey Q. Hall, Mrs. Maurice De Mond and Mrs. Hodges of Pasadena. Mrs. Paul is domiciled at the Garden Court Apartments on Hollywood Boulevard.

Announces Engagement

Miss Mary Mussen of Bonnie Brae avenue was the gracious hostess at a delightful tea at the Women's University Club recently in honor of Miss Elsa Trinkkeller, who recently returned from Europe, and Miss Marjorie Paup, the affair serving to formally announce the engagement of the latter to Ernest S. Hauser of Hollywood. The news of the betrothal was told by Mary Katherine, a very young sister of the bride-elect who distributed the cards bearing the names of the betrothed. One-hundred guests were bidden. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Wilbur Sichrt and Mrs. Joseph Pipal of Occidental College.

Miss Paup, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Paup of 1742 Garfield Place, Hollywood, was graduated from Occidental College, where she is a member of Kappa Gamma Theta sorority, while Mr. Hauser's alma mater is University of Southern California.

Price-Anderson

Announcement is made by Rev. and Mrs. William Price of 6316 Ruby street of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Ellen Price, to Rev. Harry O. Anderson of Oakland, the ceremony taking place at the family home the 29th ult., with Rev. James Anderson of Valentine, Ariz., brother of the bridegroom, officiating. The house was beautifully decorated with summer blossoms and ferns and Mr. Price gave his daughter in marriage. The wedding gown was of pearl grey taffeta and lace, a picture hat to correspond completing the dainty costume, and she carried an arm shower of orchids, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Delores Wiest in love-bird green chiffon, with picture hat and carrying pink sweet peas was the maid of honor, while Betty Jane Cheadle in pink taffeta carried the rings and Betty Hauck in blue chiffon was the dainty flower girl, scattering rose petals in the pathway of the bride. Mrs. Guy Bush played the wedding marches and preceding the ceremony Mrs. Dana Stores sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning." The bride was graduated from University of Southern California while Mr. Anderson who is an evangelist in the Baptist Church, is an alumnus of the Bible Institute and also of University of California in Berkeley, where he received the degree of M. D. also. After an extended wedding trip, which will include a cruise to Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home in Oakland.

Dinner Dance

The Marigold room was the setting chosen by Miss Joan Burroughs and her brother Hulbert Burroughs at the Edgewater Club in Santa Monica Wednesday evening for a dinner dance, when original for a unique place cards marked the covers for Miss Marian Blair, Miss Alice Warmbath, Miss Marguerite Cornlea, Miss Phyllis Warde, Miss Ethel Emerson, John Lyman, Tom Skully, Jim Pierce, Ash Rosenberg, Bronson Howard and the especial guests of honor, Miss Lenore Griffith and Bell Griffith.

Home Again

Josephine Wingfield Trefts of Montecito and Paris recently returned after a fifteen months' trip abroad. She is domiciled indefinitely at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel after a few weeks visiting friends in Pasadena and Sierra Madre. Mrs. Trefts's home in Montecito was formerly one of the show places about Santa Barbara but the residence was burned just before she went abroad. Mrs. Trefts who is the author of a number of successful novels, plans to go abroad again at the end of the summer.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Brighter Brass

A soft cloth moistened with sweet oil will keep the brass bed in good condition. Rubbing with a dry chamois is also recommended.

Rain Water

If rain water is saved and used on wash day instead of regular spigot water much less soap will be needed and the washing will not be so hard on the hands of the laundress. Get a rain barrel to work.

A Nicer Table

Don't spoil the appearance of your dinner table by putting jars, bottles or boxes on it. The contents of these can so easily be placed in a dainty dish and put back in the original containers after the meal is over.

Large Sheets

The bed will never stay neat with sheets that are too short. When buying sheets, allow ten inches over on each side, top and bottom of the bed and you will have satisfactory results. Remember this when the August white sale comes along.

A Cleaner Feeling

If your body excretes a great deal of grease and you are constantly having to have dresses cleaned on account of grease stains between the shoulders, you will have much more comfort out of dresses made over a washable lining. The lining will catch the body excretions, and prevent them from soiling the outside material. Also, when the dress does not feel quite fresh, the lining may be removed, washed and put back again.

Jottings

Buy a dishcloth with an open weave so it can dry readily and stay sweet and odorless.

Use an old phonograph record for a lightweight bread board. It can be kept in the box.

Add a pinch of salt to the [illegible] filling oil lamps; it will make them burn more brilliantly.

New shoes will feel less uncomfortable if the insides are thoroughly dredged with talcum powder.

Laced Shoes for Baby

Laced shoes are much better for the baby who is learning to walk than button ones, for the ankle support they give.

From White to Ecru

White lace that is strong and pretty but an ugly color can be made to look new by steeping in tea and letting while still damp.

The main objection to a "home"

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

AN OLD SUPERSTITION WHICH DIES HARD.

The old superstition that it is ong to heal ulcers, boils, running s, or sores, by external treatment, y discharge "putrid" material ntained in the blood, dies exceed-ard. It surprises me how often ar it. The old saying that every l is worth $10 is based upon this ief.

The superstition is very prevalent ong the uneducated peasants in Bohemia. While doing post-war k with the Red Cross, we found many were loath to let us wholly e the skin diseases that were so mmon. They were willing to let r the sores partly, but they
we could for the discharge, which ey thought the Evil One out of the dy.

Food and other running condins are not designed by Nature to ve a drain for the putrid materials of e blood. They may be, and often e symptoms of something wrong the system—some primary germ t strong enough to affect ers there, or some secondary in-ion which is able to flourish be-use of toxins which have lost their ing through incorrect diet and unhygienic habits.

Hence, the discharge you see n ordinary pus infections is ntended on the spot, and local atment of some sort is necessary get rid of the pus germs, or to help m to get off. Ordinary pus-is self-limited; that means, ually they kill themselves off their own poisons, combined with e defensive bodies—so-called anti-dies—in the blood. But it is surising and discouraging how long ese germs and washes, even ltraviolet rays (concen-ated given off by specially ade lamps) and other special eatments, by killing off the s germs and stimulating the ies to greater germ-killing propties, stop the discharge. And is highly important to clear up ese sores, even though the infecn may be of a low-grade type, ey may not be enough to furnish suffiient material and some of the isons to the blood to carry them on to other rts of the body, notably the heart d the joints.

Healing up of such conditions ould be confronted with certain ngers which the doctor will want guard open, sometimes with ins, so that the local acmulation will drain off. It will ten happen in some condi-ons where resistant tissue rms over a hard crust will ppear there is some infection

Don't misunderstand me, local treatment is but part the disorder, for, as I told u, many skin disorders are t of general disorders—ecze-
, boils and even of boils e systemic conditions must ttended to before you can expect anent change. But don't ect to have local treatments, for e general treatment is ten sufficient to bring about aring up the "putrid" ma-rial on the surface ing up the "putrid" ma-rial in the blood.

Certain forms of eczema and boils and ertain ulcers will sometimes ear up when the surface is irri-ted by certain articles on these sub-cts you may have by send-g a self-addressed, stamped envelope ecipes, send a large-sized, double-stamped envelope.)

ing is the only one for which you tra.) The article on Eczema is written primarily for babies, but it applies to adults as well.

CHILD THEFT CHARGE

GRIMESLEY DEATH LAID TO INJURY

Fractured Skull Held to be Responsible When He Succumbs in Sleep

A fractured skull sustained in an automobile accident caused by faulty steering apparatus was the cause of the death of O. L. Grimesley, 45 years of age, mining man of 2109 Buckingham Road, who died Saturday at his home, according to a report of Assistant County Autopsy Surgeon
Webb, who conducted an autopsy yesterday.

Grimsley, president and general manager of the New Lotas Gold Mining Company, died under unusual circumstances following an accident near Pomona, when en route here from Arizona. His car swerved from the road when a steering knuckle broke, turning over three times.
Shaken and bruised, he scrambled from the wreckage, hailed a passing car to this city, and a few hours later lay down at his home to sleep. He never awoke. The autopsy was conducted at the request of the family.
Dr. G. A. Scroggs, the Grimesley family physician, was present for the examination.

The body was removed from the county mortuary to the George A.
Fitch undertaking establishment. Funeral services will be conducted from the chapel today at 11 a.m., and the body will be cremated.

Besides a widow, Grimesley leaves two children, Rosamay, 12, and John, 8.

NEW! See all these wonders of the New Easy Washer

Gentle
The new Easy washes your finest, daintiest pieces as gently as though you dipped them up and down in a bowl of warm soapsuds with your own hands.

Thorough
Your heaviest, dirtiest things—overalls, blankets, bath mats, rag rugs—are washed spotlessly clean. Even the wristbands of shirts come out with no telltale streaks on them.

Large capacity
The new Easy washes at one time as many clothes as are equal to eight double or ten single sheets. While all these clothes are washing, another batch just as large is dried at the same time in the Easy's dryer.

Easy to operate
A child can run the new Easy, so simple is it to operate. All you have to do is press a button, move a lever, and both washing and drying are done for you.

Faster
By doing two major operations at the same time—washing and drying—the new Easy cuts its working time in half. It does a complete washing faster than any other washer.

The one right washing method
Like human hands, the Easy's three roomy Vacuum Cups move up and down inside the washing tub sixty times a minute. As they go down, these cups gently flush air, soap and water through the fabric by air pressure. As they rise, the cups draw the air, soap and water back again by suction, turning the clothes so that every piece gets an equal washing.

The Easy Gas Heater
This convenient gas heater under the Easy heats the water hot all during the washing. It will also sterilize your white pieces if you wish. It uses little gas, is completely out of the way under the tub, and swings out for convenience in lighting.

Saves soapsuds
You should see how the Easy's unique water-circulating system makes its own soapsuds in less than a minute. It also recovers all the soapsuds from the clothes and returns them to the washtub. Here the soapy water is returning from the dryer to the washtub.

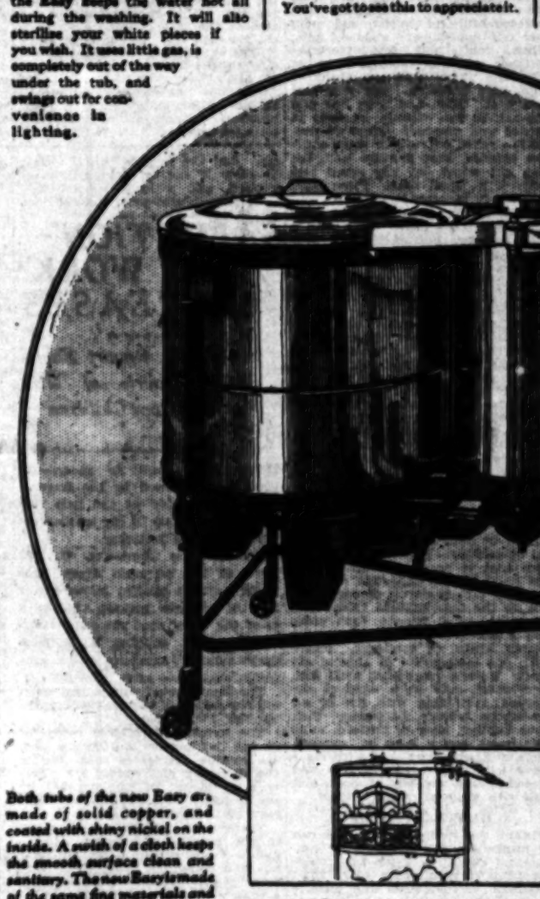
Handles all water
You don't handle so much as a cupful of water with the new Easy Washer. The rinse and the blue waters are sent back from the dryer to the stationary rinse and bluing tubs. All you do is to move a lever. You've got to see this to appreciate it.

Safety switch
This little safety switch makes it practically impossible to blow out fuses with the new Easy.

Two tubs
The small tub dries while the large tub washes. This little extra tub on the new Easy does all the drying for you more gently than human hands. It dries a whole batch of clothes while the large tub washes another batch. Washday time is cut down to a matter of minutes only, for you can rinse, blue and dry one batch of clothes with the new Easy, and wash another batch at the same time.

Independent of weather
Of course you want to hang your clothes in the sun and air; but should the day be cold or rainy, the new Easy makes you independent of the weather. By running the dryer longer than usual you can start ironing the clothes at once.

Saves ironing time
It takes less time and work to iron clothes that have been dried by the Easy's new dryer. Your pieces come out without any hard-to-iron wrinkles in them.



Both tubs of the new Easy are made of solid copper, and coated with shiny nickel on the inside. A watch of a clock keeps the smooth surface clean and sanitary. The new Easy is made of the same fine materials and with the same careful workmanship as a fine automobile.

Like human hands, the Easy's three Vacuum Cups move up and down sixty times a minute. They gently flush air, soap, and water through the fabric and back by air pressure and suction, without wear on the clothes, but everlastingly rubbing the dirt out of them.

FREE You can't begin to appreciate the wonders of this amazing new Washing Machine until you actually try it out in your own home and do a washing with it. That is just what we want you to do—at our expense. We have arranged to do your week's washing free, without any cost or obligation to you. Just call up any Easy dealer—if you do not know of one near you, write us—and on your next washday the new Easy and a demonstrator will be at your home. If you wish to keep the Easy you can leave a small deposit and pay the balance on liberal monthly terms.

The EASY WASHER

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

ROMANCE AND CHIROPODY

BY ALMA WHITAKER

She has been one of the city's best chiropodists for years. In fact, I suspect her of having introduced the luxury to the town. And she has cured the most aristocratic corns and bunions in her day.

But I must admit she doesn't look it. Meet her as chairman of the program committee of her Business
tricked out in a smart little tailor-made, and her snug piquant hat artfully arranged to display her best bit of ungreyed hair, and see her jaun-ty little walk, or perceive her starting her dashing little car, or talking a traffic cop out of a tag, and you really could not associate her with anything so mundane as sore and aching feet.

So when her car was out of commission and she found herself waiting at a remote street corner for a trolley that dallied alarmingly, it was quite natural that she should not only wish that a kind motorist would offer her a lift, but that pretty soon one duly materialized. It was quite a stylish car, driven by a superior looking man of about forty and he slowed up engagingly.

SHE ACCEPTS A LIFT

"There, I hoped you would" she bubbled. "I am in such a hurry and the cars run so far between at this time of day. Are you going to town?"

The gentleman said he was—that he was, in fact, going anywhere in the world that she happened to wish he were. So she hopped in and remarked what a pleasant day it was, and how smoothly his fine car ran.

Of course the traffic kept him pretty busy so he did not scan his companion too closely. But in almost no time at all they had got round to the shows in town and who had seen which and what they thought of them.

Before they got to their destination they had settled the status of Eugene O'Neill's play and Theodore Dreiser's last book, and Cecil de

As they neared her address, he became a shade more personal. They had so many ideas in accord, it would be a pity if they should not meet again. And—er—

"I wonder who you are and what you do, when you are not waiting at street corners for belated trolley cars?" he said, provocatively.

A SENSATIONAL REMARK

"Well," she bubbled naughtily,
"when I am not visiting my married children and playing with my grandchildren, or getting up a new program for my club, or working in my garden, I am running a chiropodist's business downtown."

I think she knew that would be a sensational remark. It was. The gentleman promptly bumped a car in front, and banged on his brakes with a grinding crash.

"Oh, I am so very sorry," she cried,
"perhaps I should have left out the grandchildren or the chiropody."

"Not at all," he hastened to murmur as he recovered his gentlemanly sang froid. "Oh, not at all, I assure you." But he was gazing at her in amazement.

So after the damaged motorist ahead had been appeased, and he proceeded on the journey, he pepped around again.

"Kidding, weren't you?" he demanded.

"Come to my office on Monday and I will give your poor feet a free treatment" she laughed, wickedly.

"But I kind of wish he hadn't come" she sighed when she told us the story. "His feet are so unromantic."

H. P. Allen, 38 years of age, of 735 vestment Company at Riverside one day last month. Allen and another man went to Lewis's office to open an escrow, it was said, and the se-

CHEF WYMAN'S ANSWERS

CHICKEN PIE, COUNTRY STYLE

O. H., Los Angeles: Dress, clean and cut up two fowls. Put in a stew pan with one onion, cover with boiling water, bring to the boiling point and let simmer until meat is tender. When half-cooked, add one-half tablespoonful salt and one-eighth teaspoonful pepper. Remove chicken, strain stock, skim off fat, return to stewpan and let simmer until reduced to four cupfuls. Thicken stock with one-third cupful of flour, diluted with enough cold water to pour easily. When boiling point is reached, add three tablespoonfuls butter, bit by bit, and more salt if necessary. Place a small cup in the center of baking dish, arrange pieces of chicken around it (removing some of the larger bones) and pour over gravy.

Cover with a baking powder crust one-half inch in thickness, from the center of whic ha circular piece two inches in diameter has been removed. Roll remaining dough, one-fourth inch in thickness, in rectangular shape, cut in thirds lengthwise and braid strips. Put around opening in crust, and bake in a hot oven.

BAKING POWDER CRUST

Mix and sift three cupfuls bread flour, two tablespoonfuls baking powder and one and one-half teaspoonfuls salt. Work in three tablespoonfuls each butter and lard, using the tips of the fingers; then add one and one-fourth cupfuls milk.

CHICKEN FRITTERS

D. M., Los Angeles: Melt one tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of flour and one-half cupful of milk. When thick and smooth, add one egg yolk and one cupful of cooked chicken which has been chopped fine. Cook two minutes and season with thyme, a little bay leaf, salt and pepper, chopped parsley, and cayenne. Cut bread in one-third inch slices and spread with a thick layer of the prepared chicken.

Put together like a sandwich, having the filling considerably thicker than would ordinarily be used. Cut into pieces one and one-half inches wide by three inches long and dip into one egg well beaten and mixed with two-thirds cupful of milk. Then roll in sifted bread crumbs and saute in hot lard, frying to an even brown. Arrange on platter with sprigs of parsley between.

LAMB CURRY

P. F., Los Angeles: Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in an omelet pan and add one onion cut in thin slices. Fry until a golden brown and add two tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with one tablespoonful of curry. Then add two cupfuls of tomatoes, canned or stewed, seasoned with three teaspoonfuls of sugar, and a dash of soda to counteract the acidity of the tomatoes. Add one cupful of cooked rice, two cupfuls of diced cooked lamb, and season with salt and pepper to taste. Serve on toast points.

RIBBON CAKE

S. R., Los Angeles: Clean one-half cupful of butter, add seven-eighths cupful of sugar and two eggs well beaten. Add alternately one and five-eighths cupfuls of pastry flour sifted with two and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half cupful of milk. Flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla and one-half teaspoonful of lemon extract. Divide this cake batter into thirds and bake two layers. While these are baking, add to the third layer one teaspoonful of molasses, one teaspoonful of strong coffee, one-fourth teaspoonful each of mace and cinnamon, one-fourth cupful of raisins stoned and chopped, one-half cupful of currants, one-eighth pound of citron sliced thin; these fruits should be dredged with one extra tablespoonful of flour. Make a confectioner's icing: To one-fourth cupful of warm water add sugar to make consistency to spread and one teaspoonful of butter. Flavor with one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and spread between layers, and over the top and sides of the cake.

ALMOND SPONGE CAKE

D. G. T., Ventura. Beat the yolks of two eggs until thick and light in color. Add gradually one-half cupful granulated sugar and beat with egg beater, then add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of cold water. Mix one-half cup of pastry flour with one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and pinch of salt and add to first mixture. When well mixed, cut and fold in the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Flavor with one-half teaspoonful of lemon extract and bake in individual cake pans. Before baking sprinkle the tops with shredded, blanched almonds and powdered sugar.

CURRANT BUNS

A. F. O., Hollywood. Put into a bowl with one tablespoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls sugar, mix with one teaspoonful cinnamon, four tablespoonfuls of butter and pour over one cupful of scalded milk. When cool, add one yeastcake softened in two tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water. Add one cupful of flour, one unbeaten egg yolk and beat well. Then add from one and one-half to two cupfuls of flour as needed and one-half cupful of perfectly cleaned currants or small seedless raisins. Beat mixture well. Let rise, cut down, let rise again and shape into small balls. Place close together in buttered shallow pan and let rise again. Bake in a hot oven and when done, brush over with a little molasses diluted slightly with water. Return to oven to dry off and glaze.

ICED MINT COCOA

A. S. G., Los Angeles. Mix six tablespoonfuls of cocoa with one-half cupful of boiling water; stir until smooth. Add another half-cupful of boiling water, four or five sprigs of mint and cook until thick. Add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and cook five minutes. Then add one quart of milk and bring to the boiling point. Remove and strain through double cheesecloth. When cool, flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla. Ice and serve. Charged water may be added.

MACAROON MOLD WITH RASPBERRY JELLY

D. M. P., Santa Monica. Put into the top part of double boiler one cupful of milk and one tablespoonful of gelatine. Let it heat but take care that it does not curdle. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of sugar and add to the first mixture. Cook until it thickens, remove from stove add a pinch of salt and the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Flavor with one teaspoonful of almond extract. Rinse a quart brick mold with cold water, pour in a layer of the custard, sprinkling with five or six macaroons broken in pieces, then pour another layer of custard, more macaroons, and a layer of custard. Chill, and serve garnished with raspberry jelly broken with a fork and placed around the base of mold, and also with whipped cream if liked.

RASPBERRY JELLY

Drain the syrup from a pint can of raspberries and measure one and one-half cupfuls. Soften two tablespoonfuls of gelatine in four tablespoonsful of cold water and dissolve in four tablespoonfuls of boiling water. Add the raspberry juice, sugar to taste if the syrup is not sweet enough, and a little lemon juice. Pour into an acid-proof shallow dish.

HE BANE GOOT MAN IN BAD

Olaf Ohlson Who Came to This Country From His Native "Schwaden" to Meet Girl Friend of Sister's, Has Effective Alibi in Liquor Scrape

Now, this is the saga of Olaf Ohlson, who "come to this country from Yohanson, in 'Schwaden,' to meet Olga 'Yohnson,'" a girl friend of his sister's. Olga, as Olaf told the judge, "was pretty gor'rl," but one who plainly, on the face of the complaint against Olaf, wasn't to be trusted.

Olaf, who admitted that he would never have left Johanson, Sweden, the land of his nativity, if his sister hadn't wanted him to come to America and get married, was facing Municipal Judge Scott's court on a charge of transporting liquor.

"Yah," he said, "my sister, she vant me to come from 'Schwaden' and meet her friend Olga. Vell, I come. I vor-rk as painter, then I buy automobile. I meet Olga, too. Yah, Vun night Olga say ve should go for ride. So I say all right and ve go.

"Finally Olga she show me bottle. 'Olaf,' she say, 'you vant drink?' Ve are close by park, judge, so I stop and say, 'Sure, Olga, I vant drink.' Vell, yudge, I take drink and give Olga back her bottle and she take drink. Yust then some one step up to my side of car and say, 'Hey, vot you do?'

"Vell, ve are arrested, Olga and me. Ve valk to park telephone with officer and while ve are valking along Olga, she start to run. Vell, yudge, I don't think she stop. I never see Olga no more. Only vun t'ing she leave behind with me . . . her bottle. Now I go to yail for carrying it."

Well, on the face of the evidence Olaf should have gone to jail for transporting liquor, but the court felt the circumstances were mitigated by the missing Olga. A plain case of a good man being misled by a woman, the court ruled.

So with an abundance of smiles and a degree of admonishment Judge Scott dismissed the case of the people against Olaf Ohlson, who "come to this country from Yohanson, in 'Schwaden,' to meet Olga 'Johnson,'" a girl friend of his sister's.

MANDARIN DREAM REEKS OF PIPE

Florida Scheme of Cat and Rat Ranches Proposes to Feed Cats on Rats and Rats on Cats and Net Mere Profit of $9800 Daily on Gustatory Feat

"Now some one is poking fun at Florida," said Health Officer Parrish yesterday when he received a letter signed "Mandarin Cat Ranch Co." offering to sell stock in a project in or near "Mandarin, Fla.," for a cat ranch next door to which will be established a rat ranch. The prospectus said that the cats will be fed on the rats, the skins of the cats will be sold and the rats fed on what is left of the cats at the rate of one-fourth of a cat for each rat. As the letter said:

"The cats will eat the rats, and the rats will eat the cats, and we will get the skins."

Just how the company will make at least $9800 a day with its combination cat-and-rat ranch was set forth as follows:

"To begin with, we will collect, say 100,000 cats. Each cat will average twelve kittens a year. The skins run from 10 cents each for the white ones, to 75 cents for the pure black. This will give us 12,000,000 skins a year, selling at an average of 30 cents each, making our revenue about $10,000 a day, gross.

"A man can skin fifty cats a day at $2. It will take a hundred to operate the ranch, therefore, the net profit will be about $9800 a day.

"We will feed the cats on rats, and will start a rat ranch next door. The rats multiply four times as fast as the cats. If we start with 1,000,000 rats, we will have, therefore, four rats per day for each cat, which is plenty."

SALVATION ARMY WORK INCREASES

Six-Month Report Shows 58,764 Quarts of Milk Supplied Poor Children

The Salvation Army supplied 58,784 quarts of milk to undernourished poor children in Los Angeles, during the period of the past six months, according to the semiannual report released yesterday.

According to Lieut.-Col. C. R. Boyd, of the Salvation Army, this figure shows a marked increase over that of previous periods. Col. Boyd is of the belief that since the Community Chest supplies its maintenance fund, its standards of humanitarian work have been increased.

The family relief department, during the period of the past six months handled 1782 cases.

The number of children cared for in the day nursery during the past six months aggregates 2688. During the half-year just ended, 312 women were placed in employment by the Women's Free Employment Bureau of the Salvation Army.

There were 1104 interviews given in the hospital and prison departments of this organization; 120 prisons and corrective home visits were made; it conducted 394 meetings with a total attendance of 26,782.

In the Truelove Maternity Home and Women's Rescue Home, of the Salvation Army 112 women received care.

MONEY AND PLATINUM OBTAINED BY THIEVES

Thieves entered the Gilfillan Brothers Radio Plant, 1815 Venice Boulevard, and knocked the combinations from two cabinet strong boxes, obtaining $68 and a quantity of platinum used in radio manufacture, according to a report to police yesterday. The platinum had not yet been inventoried, but is believed to be worth several hundred dollars.

"SURVIVED HIMSELF"

In France it is idiomatically stated that Flammarion, the great popular astronomer who died recently, "survived himself." This is the French way of saying that the present generation has quite forgotten him and the older generations, which clung to his words and delved with him in his form of astronomy, had passed on. Flammarion was scarcely known by sight among the younger generation in the village where he died. Curiously enough, just before he passed away he bequeathed his heart to his native village of Montigney de Rol.

Screen Couple's Fight for Son to be Heard Today

The quarrel between Gibson Gowland, screen actor, and his former wife, Sylvia Andrews, film writer, over the custody of the 10-year-old son will be heard today by Mary Maxwell, referee attached to the alimony court of Judge Gates.

The couple were divorced in 1919, at which time Gowland was awarded custody of his son, but enjoined not to take the boy out of California. Recently Miss Andrews, in an affidavit, charged that he had on several occasions removed the child from the jurisdiction of the California courts, and said she feared he intended going to the South Sea Islands. On this grounds she asked for a change of custody.

Judge Gates heard a little testimony two weeks ago, when Gowland declared that his property interests in Hollywood are too extensive to permit him to leave the State permanently, and the matter was continued for hearing before Miss Maxwell.

FOLLOWING ORDERS

Old Prof. Jinks was one of the most absent-minded men. One day he went to New York to an important meeting. The train was late and when he came out of the Grand Central station he popped into a taxi and called to the chauffeur, "Drive fast."

Off they went at a swift clip with the taxi swaying from side to side and bump, he glanced at his watch, the professor bouncing about and occasionally striking his head on the top.

Finally, after a particularly vicious bump, he glanced at his watch looked perplexedly into the unfamiliar street and then, sticking his head through the window, cried, "Hey, where are you going?"

"I don't know," the chauffeur yelled back, "but I sure am drivin' fast."—[Kansas City Star.

COLLECTION OF PICTURES UP IN COURT

Dr. E. J. Haweis Asserts Dealer Made Attempt to Switch Costly Works

The question of what happened to three oil paintings by Paul De Longpre, said to be valued at $6800, has been taken to Superior Court for solution by Dr. Emil J. Haweis, Hollywood art collector, who says he is the owner of the paintings.

Dr. Haweis declared the canvases in question were included in a collection he turned over to James S. Amsalak for exhibition and sale. He said he discovered the three paintings were missing from Amsalak's store, and when he asked Amsalak about them the latter told him one of them had been sent to New York. Amsalak, according to the complaint, deposited $1000 with Joseph F. Baddour to insure the return of this one, but, Haweis declared, Amsalak sought to return another picture than the one for which he had deposited the $1000.

According to Dr. Haweis, Amsalak has started a suit against him in Municipal Court over the pictures, and Dr. Haweis asked that the case be transferred to Superior Court on the ground it was outside of the jurisdiction of the lower court. Attorneys for Dr. Haweis procured an order in Judge Keeler's court temporarily restraining the Municipal Court from proceeding with the case filed by Amsalak.

NOBILE WAVES ADDIO TO CITY

Norge Hero-Builder and Party Leave Southland

Pole Conquerors Feted at Italian Vineyards

Declares Fears of Hydrogen Use Overplayed

Maj.-Gen. Umberto Nobile, designer, builder and pilot of the Norge on her recent polar flight, left for the East yesterday afternoon on the California Limited with the members of his party.

The famous Italian soldier-explorer and his countrymen immediately before their departure were guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Secundo Guasti at the great Italian vineyard. The Santa Fe Limited stopped at Guasti where the General and his party boarded the train.

The dinner afforded Gen. Nobile and his aides an opportunity to see something of Southern California and to enjoy some of its proverbial hospitality. Among the guests were Count Busti Gradenigo, local Italian vice-consul, Enrico Piana, former vice-consul, J. Barlotti, president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce, and others prominent in the local Italian colony.

GOODYEAR CONFERENCE

The eastern itinerary of the Italians includes Chicago, Akron, Cleveland, Boston and New York. At Akron Gen. Nobile will confer with President Litchfield of the Goodyear company relative to dirigibles.

During his brief stay here, according to Maj. Ford A. Carpenter, of the Chamber of Commerce, Gen. Nobile said that fear expressed over possible explosions from hydrogen in dirigible bags is overplayed in this country. The chances, he believes, are so small as not to justify the employment of helium because helium has only two-thirds the lifting power of hydrogen.

TELLS OF FEARS

There is reason to fear explosion from gasoline line leaks on the dirigible, said the General, and possibility of such an explosion was the greatest fear the party had when flying the Norge on her flight over the Pole.

When Maj. Carpenter discussed the Shenandoah with Gen. Nobile the latter said, in response to a question, that in his opinion the great dirigible could have continued her flight from Lakehurst to Tacoma clear on to the North Pole and return if she had carried hydrogen in her bags.

The element of weather, of course, would have had to be counted on, he said.

Gen. Nobile also told Maj. Carpenter that he thinks the dirigible Los Angeles undoubtedly one of the finest ever made.

Court Helpless to Restore Boy Now in Kentucky

Judge Gates could and did give Mrs. Dorothy Allie Turner a divorce from Earl Turner, but Turner had circumvented even the court in the matter of the custody of their 5-year-old son.

"He has the boy in Kentucky," Mrs. Turner told the judge.

"If that is the case I am powerless to help you," Judge Gates replied. "Our writs do not run in Kentucky."

So with her divorce of record, Mrs. Turner set forth to prepare for a new legal fight in Kentucky, where she will contest custody of the child, according to her attorney, John B. Haas. She obtained her decree on charges of cruelty, testifying that Turner had beaten her and threatened her with a revolver.

FIREMEN WILL GIVE EXHIBIT AT THEATER

Demonstrations of life-saving methods by the Los Angeles Fire Department will feature a theater party staged by firemen off duty tomorrow night at Grauman's Egyptian Theater. Rising fifty feet above the forecourt, a tower is being erected above the parapet of the foyer, and firemen will make the leap from the summit into a life net. Fire Chief Scott also has been asked to permit rescue squads of the department to demonstrate life-saving work with oxygen inhalators. Members of the First Platoon will view tomorrow night's presentation of Mary Pickford in "Sparrows" and Douglas Fairbanks in "The Black Pirate," while the Second Platoon will visit the theater on the 13th inst., when the life-saving demonstrations will be repeated.

ARROWSMITH
by Sinclair Lewis

DR. MARTIN ARROWSMITH, staff member of the McGurk Institute of Biology of New York, has resigned from the life of St. Hubert after six months fighting an outbreak of bubonic plague, a disease for which he has discovered a remedy. Deploring the death of his wife, Leora, Dr. Arrowsmith, from the plague, he forgot his resolutions to forget humanitarianism that science might be benefited by strict observation of conditions, and instead of making tests of his remedy, immunized the whole island population.

LEORA TOWER ARROWSMITH, Martin's wife, died of the plague in St. Hubert's. She was one of the prominent characters ever to appear in Martin's history.

DR. MAX GOTTLIEB and scientist, who, until recently, was director of McGurk Institute. A great friend of Martin.

DR. RIPPLETON HOLABIRD alias "The Holy Wren," head of the department of physiology, and now acting director of the Institute.

DR. A. DeWITT TUBBS was formerly director of the Institute.

DR. GUSTAF SONDELIUS was a famed scientist, who met death while battling the plague in St. Hubert's.

MISS GWILLIAM is a tourist, with a mild Kansas complex; she'll never know any better. She was Sondelius and Martin and Leora on their way to St. Hubert's.

PEARL ROBBINS is the Diana-like secretary of the Institute.

THE HON. CECIL ERIC GEORGE TWYFORD owns 12,000 acres of sugar cane land in St. Hubert's, Pardon.

"The Holy Wren," is head of the department of physiology at McGurk Institute.

DR. OLIVER MARCHAND was a negro physician of great knowledge. He, too, died from the plague on the island.

DR. TERRY WICKETT, a roughneck microbiologist, is perhaps Martin's best friend in the McGurk Institute.

It happened that Martin returned to New York, as he had come, on the St. Buryan. The ship was haunted with the phantoms of Leora dreaming, of Sondelius shouting on the bridge.

And on the St. Buryan was the country-club Miss Gwilliam who had offended Sondelius.

She had spent the winter importantly making notes on native music in Trinidad and Caracas; at least in planning to make notes. She saw Martin come aboard at Blackwater, and partly noted the friends who saw him off—two Englishmen, one puffy, one rangy, and a dry-looking Scotsman.

"Your friends all seem to be British," she enlightened him, when she had claimed him as an old friend.

"Yes."

"You've spent the winter here."

"Yes."

"Hard luck to be caught by the quarantine. But I told you you were silly to go ashore! You must have managed to pick up quite a little money practising. But it must have been unpleasant, really."

"Ye-es, I suppose it was."

"I told you it would be! You ought to have come on to Trinidad. Such a fascinating island! And tell me, how is the Roughneck?"

"Who?"

"Oh, you know—that funny Swede that used to dance and everything."

"He is dead."

"Oh, I am sorry. You know, no matter what the others said, I never thought he was so bad. I'm sure he had quite a nice cultured mind. When he wasn't carousing around. Your wife isn't with you, is she?"

"No—she isn't with me. I must go down and unpack now."

Miss Gwilliam looked after him with an expression which said that the least people could do was to learn some manners.

* * *

With the heat and the threat of hurricanes, there were few first-class passengers on the St. Buryan, and most of these did not count, because they were not jolly, decent Yankee tourists but merely South Americans.

As tourists do when their minds have been broadened and enriched by travel, when they return to New Jersey or Wisconsin with the credit of having spent a whole six months in the West Indies and South America, the respectable remnant studied one another fastidiously, and noted the slim pale man who seemed so restless, who all day trudged round the deck, who after midnight was seen standing by himself at the rail.

"That guy looks awful' restless to me!" said Mr. S. Sanborn Hibble of Detroit to the charming Mrs. Dawson of Memphis, and she answered, with the wit which made her so popular wherever she went, "Yes, don't he. I reckon he must be in love!"

"Oh, I know him!" said Miss Gwilliam. "He and his wife were on the St. Buryan when I came down. She's in New York now. He's some kind of a doctor—not awful' successful I don't believe. Just between ourselves, I don't think much of him or her, either. They sat and looked stupid all the way down."

Martin was itching to get his fingers on his test-tubes. He knew, as once he had guessed, that he hated administration and large affairs.

As he tramped the deck, his head cleared and he was himself. Angrily he pictured the critics who would soon be picking at whatever final report he might make. For a minute he hated the criticism of his fellow laboratory-grinds as he had hated their competition; he hated the need of forever looking over his shoulder at pursuers.

But on a night when he stood at the rail for hours, he admitted that he was afraid of their criticism, and afraid because his experiment had so many loop-holes. He hurled overboard all the polemics with which he had protected himself: "Men who never have had the experience of trying, in the midst of an epidemic, to remain calm and keep experimental conditions, do not realize in the security of their laboratories what one has to contend with."

Constant criticism was good, if only it was not spiteful, jealous, petty—

No, even then it might be good! Some men had to be what easy-going workers called "spiteful." To them the joyous spite of crushing the almost-good was more natural than creation. Why should a great house-wrecker, who could clear the cumbered ground, be set at trying to lay brick?

"All right!" he rejoiced. "Let 'em come! Maybe I'll anticipate 'em and publish a roast of my own work. I have got something, from the St. Swithin test, even if I did let things slide for a while. I'll take my tables to a biometrician. He may rip 'em up. Good! What's left, I'll publish."

He went to bed feeling that he could face the eyes of Gottlieb and Terry, and for the first time in weeks he slept without terror.

* * *

At the pier in Brooklyn, to the astonishment and slight indignation of Miss Gwilliam, Mr. S. Sanborn Hibble, and Mrs. Dawson, Martin was greeted by reporters who agreeably though vaguely desired to know what were these remarkable things he had been doing to some disease or other, in some island some place.

He was rescued from them by Ripleton Holabird, who burst through them with his hands out, crying, "Oh, my dear fellow! We know all that's happened. We grieve for you so, and we're so glad you were spared to come back to us."

Whatever Martin might, under the shadow of Max Gottlieb, have said about Holabird, now he wrung his hands and muttered, "It's good to be home."

Holabird (he was wearing a blue shirt with a starched blue collar, like an actor) could not wait till Martin's baggage had gone through the customs. He had to return to his duties as acting director of the Institute. He delayed only to hint that the Board of Trustees were going to make him full director, and that certainly, my dear fellow, he would see that Martin had the credit and the reward he deserved.

When Holabird was gone, driving away in his neat coupe (he often explained that his wife and he could afford a chauffeur, but they preferred to spend the money on other things.) Martin was conscious of Terry Wickett, leaning against a gnawed wooden pillar of the wharf-house, as though he had been there for hours.

Terry strolled up and snorted, "Hello, Slim. All O. K.? Let shoot the stuff through the customs. Great pleasure to see the director and you kissing."

As they drove through the summer-walled streets of Brooklyn, Martin inquired, "How's Holabird working out as director? And how is Gottlieb?"

"Oh, the Holy Wren is no worse than Tubbs; he's even politer and more ignorant. . . . Me, you watch me! One of these days I'm going off to the woods—get a shack in Vermont—going to work there without having to produce results for the director! They've stuck me in the Department of Biochemistry. And Gottlieb—" Terry's voice became anxious. "I guess he's pretty shaky—They've pensioned him off. Now look, Slim: I hear you're going to be a gilded department-head, and I'll never be anything but an associate member. Are you going on with me, or are you going to be one of the Holy Wren's pets—hero-scientist?"

"I'm with you, Terry, you old grouch." Martin dropped the cynicism which had always seemed proper between him and Terry. "I haven't got anybody else. Leora and Gustaf are gone and now maybe Gottlieb. You and I have got to stick together!"

"It's a go!"

They shook hands, they coughed gruffly, and talked of straw hats.

The next installment of this most absorbing novel—written by the author of "Main Street" and "Babbitt"—will appear in tomorrow's Times Watch for it.

THE HOTTEST PLACE

For years it has been supposed that the world's hottest region, if not its hottest spot, was at Greenland ranch, in Death Valley, Cal., where on July 10, 1923, the temperature reached 134.1 deg. Fahrenheit. Now the world hears that in Azizzia, a town in Italian Tripoli, North Africa, the people sizzle at a temperature of 136 above. Azizzia, the well-named, is a desert village twenty-five miles inland from the Mediterranean. The people are poor and live in underground dwellings to which sloping tunnels lead eight to ten feet under the surface and through small openings to chambers hollowed from the conglomerate rock. Something like a cellar is required to keep cool, notwithstanding until 1911 this region conducted an almost continued war with the Turks and Arabs on one side and the Italians on the other. No wonder Death Valley is a pleasant place compared to it.—[Capper's Weekly.

"ACCIDENTAL DEATH"

"Accidental death" is the verdict returned by the Coroner's jury as their finding over the body of a man killed in an auto accident. True it was accidental, but the accident was caused by one or both drivers of the cars which came together traveling a rate of speed far in excess of that which is by law permitted. Probably "just touching her up around sixty or seventy miles." Ever hear that expression from otherwise sensible men? Going at least twice as fast as the law says can legally be traveled over the roads. Yes, it was an accidental death, but underlying it is a vacuum in the minds of some irresponsible driver in most cases — [Oelwein (Iowa) Register.

The Azusa prisoners were Robert Cobb and four Mexicans, whose names were not reported. Cobb's automobile was seized.

Near Sherman, James Doyle, former policeman, was arrested and his auto seized. James Marshall was arrested and his car seized and R. M. Lavendar was arrested and his car seized, all for asserted transportation and possession of whiskey. At Gardena, officers arrested Mrs. Florence Bush and Earl Leffingwell on selling charges. At Vernon, Harry Gray was arrested, his second arrest within a week. Fred Retz was arrested at 414 East Sixtieth street, Jess Traynor at 1407 East Sixtieth Place, and John Engles and his wife at 6018 Maywood avenue, all on selling charges.

Otto Wolf and his wife and Leonard Steves were arrested near Watts. C. C. Kinnady was arrested near Gardena, and his car seized. At the Frudois Drug Company store at 304 Fort street, Belvedere, Joe Dietsn was arrested. D. Orcoyen was another Belvedere prisoner.

FRENCH LITERARY MEN DISCUSS UNICORN

Was there ever such an animal as the unicorn? Its existence has been testified to by no less authoritative writers than Aristotle and Pliny, and even in 1677 the members of the French academy, including the distinguished names of Renan and Victor Hugo, were so doubtful on the subject that in their dictionary they gave the ambiguous definition that, according to the most general opinion, the unicorns never existed. But the present members of the academy, still at work on the new edition of the famous dictionary, have tried to settle the question for once and all. The unicorn, say the immortals, is a fabulous animal of antiquity.

The French press refuses to accept the dictum as final. Why, queries Andre Billy, a well-known writer, should the members of the academy, counting not a single naturalist in their ranks, be allowed to settle the question? And, in the century of radium and the wireless, why should we deny the testimony by Pliny and Aristotle on the existence of a beast remarkable only in that it had a horn on its forehead?—[Paris Letter.

WHITE CIVILIZATION DEADLY

The athletic black aborigines in the back country of Australia are rapidly becoming extinct through their adoption of the white man's clothes, liquor, habits and diseases. The white man's civilization slays every other race but his—only he can thrive on it. The few organizations which have been trying to preserve the natives of Australia have given up hope of accomplishing anything, and a race which a little more than 100 years ago peopled all of Australia, will soon disappear from the face of the earth.—[Capper's Weekly.

IF THE AUTO HADN'T COME

If automobiles hadn't been invented and there were as many horses and wagons as there are motor cars today, imagine the noise. Tests made in New York, reveal that the increased noisiness of big cities is due to the increased amount of traffic. Motor cars are noiseless compared to the clatter of hoofs and the grinding sound of wagon wheels. So far as the auto itself is concerned, it has made city streets quieter than they would have been under the same amount of horse-and-wagon traffic.—[Capper's Weekly.

"Homey" Things

The "little things" in your home are the things that show your individuality and, incidentally, are the real comforts and home-makers to most of us. Do not clutter with useless articles when there are so many interesting objects of beauty and art that are useful as well as ornamental.

HAD ORAL PROOF THAT "DE CLIPS" HAD COME

When I was a boy, living with my parents near Waterloo, Iowa, writes a Companion reader, we had some Scandinavian neighbors living across the road from us. They were excellent neighbors, kind-hearted and obliging, honest and hard-working, but with very little education. There was to be an eclipse of the sun on a certain day one summer. Naturally, people were discussing it in advance, and neighbor Lars and his good wife had heard it talked about, though they had not much comprehension of what it was all about.

During the forenoon of the day of the eclipse the wife rushed across the road and excitedly informed my mother that "de clips is comin'; I hear it clippin'!"

Curious to learn what had caused the good women's excitment, mother stepped out of the house to look and listen.

"Don't you hear it clippin'?" earnestly exclaimed our neighbor.

Then it dawned on mother's comprehension what she meant. In a field a half-mile away, but out of sight of either house, mother heard the click of a mower where some neighbor was mowing hay. The "clip" of the knives was "de clippin'" that our good neighbor had connected in her mind with the mysterious eclipse of which she had heard so much and understood so little.—[Youth's Companion.

Pressing Thoughts

A too-hot iron fades colors.

All stains should be removed from a garment beforehand.

Wring the pressing cloth out of warm water, as cold cools the iron.

Never let clothes become in such need of pressing that the first creases are gone.

Press until the garment is thoroughly dried under the pressing cloth if you want the creases to stay in particularly well.

Accidents Will Happen

The tenant of the newly built house approached the landlord and calmly informed him that he wanted a new front door.

"A new front door!" exclaimed the landlord. "Whatever do you mean? It's a new house, and you have only been in it a week."

"Yes, I know," replied the tenant, "but you see, I tied my dog to the doorknob and a cat went by."—[Atlanta Journal.

Hard to Tell

"Sir, you know hot water boilers, don't you—how they have a long line of bumps down the side? One day we discovered Odds, of the twins, running his hands up and down this line of bumps, curiously.

"'I know,' said my wife fondly, 'he's going to be a plumber when he grows up.'

"'Nonsense,' said I, most thoughtfully, 'he's going to be a chiropractor!'"—[Toronto Telegram.

BODY FOUND IN YACHT TRAGEDY

List of Dead in Chaffee Boat Explosion Stands at Two

Nine Victims Hurt in Blast Brought to Mainland

suffered third-degree burns, according to Miss Ruth Thorpe, superintendent of nurses at the hospital. The first four named are the most seriously injured.

Six of the injured were taken to the mainland aboard the steamer Catalina in charge of Dr. C. E. Wheeler and Nurse Elinore Rymal, and removed to the Golden State Hospital. Later three more of the injured were taken across the channel on the steamer Avalon and to the Golden State Hospital. Three of the injured still remain in the hospital on the island.

The body of Mrs. Tyler, 50, of Pasadena, was recovered at noon today, four miles east of the scene of the explosion, and brought to the morgue here pending the inquest.

Herbert Riggin, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Riggin, compound fracture of the right leg and severe burns on fact, legs and body.

It was found by James S. Lawahe of Los Angeles, who was business manager of the late Gene Stratton Porter, the author, and Roger E. Wilson of Pasadena, who were fishing from Lawahe's yacht, the Columbine. The body was found in a kelp bed about midway between Seal and Church rocks.

The outer clothing was burned entirely off and the body burned almost beyond recognition. It was identified by friends and relatives by a signet ring.

The body of Doris Riggin, 2 years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Riggin of 1885 Maple street, Pasadena, has not been recovered, despite efforts of deep-sea divers to explore the hull of the yacht, which is sunk in about 110 feet of water, some 800 feet offshore. The child was asleep in a forward compartment when the explosion occurred, and it is regarded as certain she was killed instantly. The child was a grand-daughter of Mr. Chaffey, owner of the yacht.

Deep-sea divers were dispatched yesterday to scour the ocean depths for the body of the child. J. R. Ingram, diver for Merritt, Chapman & Scott, left Los Angeles Harbor on the Sea Hawk this morning, and Fred Henderson of the Henderson Deepsea Diving Company, followed over on the Avalon yesterday noon. The boat is reported in 110 feet of water, and surmises are the body is still in it, carried down when the flaming hulk sank.

It was announced at the office of Coroner Nance that an inquest will be ordered looking toward an investigation of the cause of the explosion. The date of the inquest will be fixed tomorrow.

FEARS FOR CHAFFEE

The four most seriously injured, together with Hugh G. Chaffee, the yacht owner and host, and E. D. Tyler, husband of the woman whose body was recovered today, were taken to Los Angeles on the steamer Catalina at 2 p.m. today on their way to the Golden State Hospital. Chaffey, who is 60, was reported suffering from minor bruises on the legs and arms, and severely from shock. A relapse on the latter score was feared. His son, Frank Chaffee, who was forced to return to Los Angeles Sunday and so was not on the yacht when the explosion occurred, today expressed fears for his father's life.

Tyler, who is 53, was reported suffering from burns, bruises and shock. He is expected to recover.

The three injured remaining here are the members of the Richardson family of San Gabriel, George Richardson, who suffered only minor bruises and required slight medical attention; his wife, who suffered a fractured left leg and severe burns on the body, face and legs, and their daughter, Phyllis, 14, who suffered a few minor burns. They remained at the Catalina Island Hospital.

ONE OF WORST

The explosion on the Una-C was one of the most terrific and spectacular known in the history of local pleasure boating.

An eye-witness story of the explosion as told by Dr. N. W. Goodman, of Los Angeles, whose power yacht, Kimi, was within a stone's throw of the Una-C when she blew up, brings forth Edward Graham, Jr., 23 years of age, of Altadena as probably the foremost figure in the heroic rescue work.

"We were not more than 150 feet or so from the Una-C when the explosion came," said Dr. Goodman, who had a party of friends aboard his boat out to view the fireworks. "We were anywhere from three-quarters to a mile off shore. I noticed this boat lying there as we stopped our engine. Noticing that we were drifting, after a few moments, I had just started up the engine and had my eyes right on the Una-C when the explosion came.

"It was terrific. Why, the boat just seemed to blow to pieces like a paper box. It appeared to me that the entire stern was blown off and the sides blown out, leaving the bow afloat. The bow sank, however, in about five minutes.

HEROIC WORK

"We saw men and women blown up into the air and drop into the water. They were blown from fifteen to fifty feet from the boat. I headed my boat right for the Una-C. We saw the figure of a man silhouetted against the flames of the boat—she broke out in flames immediately. He hesitated an instant and then leaped into the water.

"It was not more than two minutes, I would say, before we were right in among the wreckage and the persons struggling in the water. One of the young men in our party, Edward Graham, just graduated from Southern Branch, peeled off his clothes as we made for the boat and was in his bathing suit as we came alongside. He went overboard and began dragging men and women clinging to bits of wreckage over to our boat. He did some great swimming! As fast as he brought them over we would manage to grab hold of them and hold them alongside. We could not try to lift them aboard immediately. Others joined in the rescue work.

"The calm deportment and bravery exhibited by those injured and struggling in the water was, to my mind, remarkable. There was no frantic screaming as one might well expect. They held on to their bits of wreckage and called quietly for help so that those aiding could pick them up.

QUIET IN SUFFERING

"Even those most seriously injured were quiet in their suffering. It was the subject of comment on the part of the doctors at the hospital on the island where they were taken. The conduct of this women in the face of possible death was wonderful. The concussion from the explosion was so violent as to be felt distinctly by those on shore. I would say that in less than thirty minutes from the time the explosion occurred the injured were landed."

Dr. C. E. Wheeler was on his yacht Siesta when he heard the explosion. He saw a giant tank of gasoline ablaze and floating toward him. By its light he saw a woman swimming. The burning gasoline was spreading toward her. He got out of his skiff, rowed toward her and managed to throw a life preserver to her as she was about to give up and sink.

Maynard A. Laswell, manager of the C. O. 2 Fire Equipment Company of Los Angeles, made an unofficial investigation of the explosion today, at the request of Frank Chaffee, a personal friend. The theory is hazarded that there was some leakage from the 150 to 200 gallons of gasoline in the lazarette, and this was vaporized by the heat of the engine. The supposed spark from the starter is believed to have ignited this gas, causing the blast.

There was a shortage of doctors, nurses and beds for the victims at the Catalina Hospital, which has accommodations only for twelve and was already partially occupied. The patients, however, were hurried to private homes and hotel rooms to make room for the emergency cases. Dr. W. J. Harrison and Dr. C. J. Simon were the attending physicians. There were but three nurses at the hospital but a call for volunteers brought others and within an hour there was a nurse for each victim.

Marine men believe the explosion was caused by a spark from the starter. Hugh G. Chaffee, the owner, was at the wheel of the forty-foot craft when the tragedy occurred. The yacht had just been delivered Friday. It cost $25,000.

The party was watching fireworks on shore when Chaffee noticed his yacht was drifting toward another craft. He stepped on the starter, it was said, intending to back away. The starter did not respond, and Chaffee, turning, remarked to his guests that he couldn't account for the yacht's behavior.

Then the explosion came. There was a sheet of flame. Those of the guests who were not blown into the water leaped to escape the fire. Only one member of the party of fifteen escaped injury. He is David Houghton 15, who was at the bow when the blast came. He was blown overboard and picked up unharmed.

George Richardson, one of the injured, said:

"I was standing on the deck talking about the fireworks when the explosion hit us. I don't know yet what happened and I don't think any of the rest of the party know either. I do know, however, that I took a ride through the air and came up dripping wet. I don't suppose any one will ever find out just what caused the explosion."

HEAD OF STORES

Mr. Chaffee, the owner of the yacht, is head of the H. P. Chaffee Company, which controls a chain of markets and bakeries throughout Southern California. He and his wife reside at 1111 North Los Robles avenue, Pasadena. His sons, Frank and Roy, are associated in business with him. They were not on the Una-C.

Mrs. Carlton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee. The Riggins live at 1856 Maple street, Pasadena. Their son, Herbert Riggins, was named for Lieut. Herbert Chaffee, an army aviator, who was killed in a fall several years ago. All members of the family not at Avalon left for the scene immediately upon being notified, except Roy Chaffee, who was on a train bound for San Francisco.

Mrs. Tyler of 539 South Pasadena avenue, Pasadena, was the wife of Ekford D. Tyler, a contractor of aPsadena. She was the mother of Roland Tyler, 15 years of age. Mrs. Tyler was born in England, coming to Pasadena in her youth. Besides Roland, her sons are Harvey, now in the East, and Donald, 18, who was on the island. Mrs. Tyler was active in church work.

Mrs. Bennett, a wealthy widow who resides with her mother at 487 South Madison avenue, Pasadena, is a friend of the Tylers and was a guest at their cottage at Avalon.

Late last night it was announced that deep-sea divers had found the hulk of the wrecked vessel in water too deep to permit going down to explore it. It is expected that bargos will be summoned to throw a cable over the wreck and drag it closer to shore where the divers can go to work on it.

Deputy Sheriff Hanby announced that arrangements had been completed to have Mrs. Tyler's body removed to the morgue in the Hall of Justice, where the inquest will be conducted.

Capt. A. A. Morris of the steamship Avalon said that the explosion was the most disastrous he had seen in connection with pleasure boating. The Wilmington Transportation Company through its superintendent of transportation, L. H. Connors, and his assistant, Fay Griffin, sent a number of boats to the waters around the island, where they searched all night for bodies of victims.

BUILDER SAYS NO BLAME CAN BE FIXED

"It is one of those deplorable, unexplainable things on which blame may not positively be attached to anyone," according to T. S. Smith of the Wilmington Boat Works, which had just completed the Una-C Friday. Smith was visibly depressed by the tragedy.

"The boat was equipped with a power plant of two 200-horsepower engines of the same type installed by us in many fine boats now in local waters," he said. "The craft was entirely new, having been completed and given her trial run Friday, two days before the accident. Everything functioned perfectly on the trial, and apparently did so on the cruise to the islands Saturday and after arriving there.

"Several things might have happened, but the presumption, perhaps, is that the carburetor, which always needs occasional adjusting on a new boat, may have stuck temporarily. Perhaps gasoline then accumulated in the adjoining airtight compartment—it wouldn't take much to effect a violent explosion—and when the spark was applied the blast naturally followed.

"The boat was one of the finest of the dozens we have turned out; it was built unusually well and with no thought of economy, in accordance with Mr. Chaffee's direction. Every part of the motor had been tested and every safety precaution taken.

"I am still of the opinion the boat was as perfect as a new boat could be made—unusually so, because no restrictions were put on the cost of installation. These yards have built a great number of fine boats, using the same standard equipment which is known everywhere, and their performance has lived up to highest expectations."

RURAL ENGLAND IN 1825

The Chinese Minister of Communications sent from Peking a long cablegram of poetic prose felicitating the managers of the Darlington Railway exhibition in England on their centennial of George Stephenson's Locomotion No. 7.

Unless the railway track was laid over the graves of ancestors in an inland province, the spectacle of the puffing monster once regarded as first cousin to the earth dragon, would excite far less confusion in the celestial republic today than it did among the honest English yokels of Stephenson's era.

Then, according to contemporary report, "in many bosoms the arrival caused the greatest consternation. They fled in abject terror, many hiding themselves in the church, others seeking consolation in the bottle, while some of the more courageous climbed into trees and at a safe distance from the monster's claws watched it pass."

Reading that account one is inclined to believe, that Europe in 1826 was not many leagues in advance of the cycle of Cathay, remarks the Philadelphia Ledger.

Never Again

Sanford Nelson, 16, Seattle messenger boy, saw a burglar in a store. The robber fled but Sanford caught and disarmed him. It took bravery to do that but not nearly so much then as the next Sunday morning when his admiring pastor called young Nelson to the pulpit to tell how he did it. "N-n-next time I-I catch a-a bandit," stammered the lad, turning red and trembling with all eyes on him, "I-I ain't going t-t-tell nobody. You betcha I ain't."

SCREEN CELEBRITIES FOR LEGION FETE

Few celebrities in the amusement field will be absent from the program to be conducted by West Adams Post, No. 254, American Legion, at the Olympic Auditorium, the 22nd inst., according to the reports made to Commander John C. Chrystal and Adjt. C. C. Tripplett, post officers, who are in direct charge of the affair.

Past National Commander John R. Quinn and Frank Kerwin, who head the special entertainment committee, made a tour of the Hollywood motion-picture studios and obtained the promise of many additional screen celebrities to participate in the program. Tom Mix gave his promise to have a special act written for him and will give its first presentation for the Legion.

Capt. Seth W. P. Strelinger, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, also is working with the committee and is doing everything in his power to have the brightest stars of the ring game on hand. Fidel La Barba and Georgie Rivers have promised the Legion that the winner of their flyweight title battle at the Olympic Wednesday night, will appear, and Dick Donald, promoter of the Tiger Flowers-Eddie Huffman contest at Ascot, the 24th inst., has stated that the middleweight champion will be on hand.

The Legion also was highly elated last night when Frank Kerwin received a wire from Sammy Mandell, newly crowned lightweight champion, stating that following his wedding in Chicago this week, he will make a tour of the Pacific Coast, and, if possible, will be glad to appear for the post.

Commander Chrystal announced that tickets for the event will go on sale at The May Company store and at the Ellis Cohn cigar store Tuesday morning.

STORIES OF LOS ANGELES

Temple Street, Looking West from Broadway, in the 70's

"The Temple Street Stage is using four horses during the muddy week ending today."
—Los Angeles Newspaper, Feb. 2, 1884

"During the Muddy Week"

THE first paved street in Los Angeles was Main Street, paved in 1887. Spring and Fort (Broadway) Streets followed soon after.

Before then, the streets were merely dirt roads, frightfully dusty in dry times and extremely muddy in wet.

The need for extra horses on the Temple Street Stage shows just how muddy early Los Angeles streets could become.

Sometimes electric utilities have "muddy street" periods when, through emergency or shortage, additional power is needed to maintain service.

Electrical interconnection of power lines among electric utilities makes possible the transfer of power from one company to another to meet any such emergency or shortage.

A practical demonstration of electrical interconnection and its value was made during the California power shortage two years ago when Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation sent its surplus electric power to aid other companies whose supply was short.

Sam E. Rork and His Daughter Ann

...completed arrangements for the merger that unites the forces of two of the strongest factions in the First National ranks, Sam E. Rork, prominent film producer, returned yesterday from New York. He is the man arranging details of consolidation of his resources with those of Marion Fairfax. Mr. Rork has signed contracts with First National for two more pictures to be made this year at the New First National studios in Burbank.

The producer was met at the station by a large number of friends and his daughter, Ann, a popular member of the younger social set, who arrived here by machine from Coronado for the occasion. Rork has contracted to star his daughter in advertising and rumor has it that she will appear in the screen, and it is said she will have one of the leading roles in his next picture. "The Rose Girl."

Rork is one of the most successful of the independent producers, having made "Peaches," "Ines From Hollywood," "The Talker," and "Clothes Make the Pirate." Also he launched the career of Marion Fairfax as a director with her adaptation of "The Rose Girl."

...TIONAL AFFILIATION

"Freemasonry" was the name given to a masonic affiliation, formed in the seventeenth century in England. This band of persons made a practice of buying and selling children. These children were by means of ritual operations deformed and crippled so that they assumed certain distinctive attitudes, which provided the means of identification at the time. The organization had its own laws, oaths and symbols, and was found principally in England, Spain, France and Italy. The name is a compound of two words meaning "buyers of little children."

BRITON REVIVES CAT-O'-NINE-TAILS

PUNISHMENT IS USED IN EFFORT TO CHECK CRIME IN ENGLAND

Social service agencies and penologists in England are greatly interested in the sudden revival of flogging in sentences passed for crimes of violence committed with the aid of lethal weapons. No less interested is the public which thought that the cat-o'-nine-tails had been abolished from the British penal code. That it survives today has recently been proved in a case where a butler (who was an ex-army officer) and his wife were convicted of robbing their employer's wife under circumstances that might have caused her death. In addition to the sentence of imprisonment passed on the man, the judge ordered twenty strokes with the "cat."

That this more or less obsolete punishment has been revived because of a sudden rise in crimes of violence is evident from the remarks of the judge in ordering the flogging. In another case, where a burglar used a revolver to intimidate the servants of a country mansion, five years' penal servitude was the judge's sentence.

"AND TWENTY STROKES"

"Thank you," replied the prisoner with an attempt at sarcasm.

"And twenty strokes with the cat," added Justice Avory of the Surrey Assizes, to the burglar's astonishment.

A London mother recently brought her son to court for persistent stealing. She told the magistrate that she had whipped him without any corrective result.

"Ah," remarked the magistrate suavely to the court policeman; "just take our young friend below and show him where we keep the instrument he'll be introduced to the next time he comes into this court." Which indicates that flogging is still permissible in juvenile as well as in adult cases.

During the past year a new element has appeared in British criminology—the armed burglar, familiar enough in the United States and Canada, as well as on the Continent. The pistol is not carried by British policemen, because hitherto there has been no need for it.

BURGLARS USE PISTOL

But since the war the pistol has augmented the British burglar's jimmy. The past year has witnessed several attacks on the police by burglars disturbed at their work. Instead of arming the police, authorities are reviving the "cat" which worked miracles in the early '60s, when Britain was swept by a wave of garrotting. The menace of this "jolly cat-o'-nine-tails" alone put an end to garrottism in 1863.

In the early days of flogging sentences of a thousand lashes were usual in cases of mutiny. Down to the nineteenth century fifty lashes was the maximum punishment.

In common law the choice of instrument for whipping and the number of strokes are left to the discretion of the prison authorities. The broad arrow prison uniform has just been abolished; but the "cat," though no longer possessing nine tails (being usually a single thong), is still in force. PLAY FOR WATER POLO TITLE AT ARROWHEAD

The third annual water polo classic will be held at Lake Arrowhead Saturday morning when Roy Baker will captain one of the teams. Baker, the famous Southern California football star, led the winning team in 1925.

During the evening the annual Pomona College dance will be held at the village of Lake Arrowhead and during the day the first amateur invitation tournament will be held at the Grass Valley golf course. The entrants may play thirty-six holes on Saturday or Sunday, or eighteen holes on each day, according to Jack Malley, director of the course.

The Sunday-afternoon water sports program will include tilting contests, exhibition diving and swimming and boat races for the various craft on the lake.

CAUSE ENOUGH

A camel has its limit of endurance as the old saw concerning the ultimate straw and the broken back will testify. Mrs. North also had her limit, which was finally reached when an argument, about which little could be understood, continued with unabated fury for two hours in the Smith household next door.

Calling to Willie Smith, who was playing in the back yard, Mrs. North asked the 7-year-old shining light of the warring Smiths:

"What is all the row about, Willie?"

"Oh, mama put her cushion on daddy's chair and he sat down on it," replied the small lad.

"Why, that is no cause for such an argument, is it?"

"Sure it is! It was mama's pin cushion!"—[Exchange.

PACERS IN OPENING OF CIRCUIT

Fleming Stable Runs Away With Big Honors in First Day at Cleveland

CLEVELAND (O.), July 5. (AP)—Defeating a field of eleven of the best pacers in training, Myrtle Baxter, driven by Vic Fleming, won the eighteenth renewal of the $5000 Edwards stake, feature of the Grand Circuit opening at North Randall today. The mare had little trouble winning the first heat, but was forced to clip three-fifths of a second off the record for the stake to beat Louis Direct in 2:02 2-5 in the second heat. Louis Direct won the third heat.

It was the second victory for Fleming, his John Gallagher taking the 2:09 trot in straight heats. He also finished second with Lucille Page, his only other entry, in the 2:18 trot. This event went to Robbingsen, an outsider.

Peter Stawah caused another upset in the 2:04 pace, which resulted in a split-heat affair. Peter Stawah took the third after Shooter W. took the first and Jakie O'Connor the second heats.

Father beat sons in the special pacing exhibition which was won by Symbol S. Forrest, 13-year-old pacer. He was driven by C. C. Spurgin. The Judge, 6-year-old son of Symbol S. Forrest and driven by Earl Spurgin, was second, ahead of Don McLain, an 8-year-old offspring, driven by Bud Spurgin.

PUBLIC WORKS IN RECORD

Improvements Completed During Month of June Reach Total Value of $4,000,000

Public improvements completed in Los Angeles during June totaled more in extent and value than in any other month in the history of the city, Public Works Inspector Rook reported yesterday in filing with the Board of Public Works a statement showing more than $4,000,000 worth of sewers, storm drains, street paving, curbs, sidewalks.

During the first two weeks of June a total of $3,412,000 in public improvement work was accepted, or nearly one-half of the total public improvements completed during the entire year of 1924, and more than the totals of some entire years previous to 1924.

During the first two weeks of June, the Public Works inspector's report showed twenty-seven miles of sanitary sewers completed and accepted, forty-six miles of storm drains, seventeen miles of concrete paving, five miles of asphalt paving and thirty-eight miles of curb, sidewalks and gutters.

VALUE FOR YEAR HIGH

The total value of public improvements completed during the fiscal year which closed on June, 30, last, exceed $30,000,000, which was $6,000,000 more than was accepted during the previous year.

These public improvements are petitioned for by property owners, designed by the city engineering department and constructed by contractors under the supervision of the Board of Public Works and the inspector of public works, in accordance with the city plans and specifications.

Chief Inspector Rook also reported to the board the progress of four large public improvement projects which are being built under his direction by city forces—Mulholland Highway extension, the new widened road through Cahuenga Pass, the extension of Beverly Boulevard to the ocean, and the South Sherman Way extension through the Hollywood hills to Wilshire Boulevard.

"These four projects," said Inspector Rook, "total in cost about $3,000,000.

"It is expected to have all work completed soon on the Mulholland Drive and Cahuenga Pass roads. Cahuenga Pass road is the most important of the projects and, in fact, is one of the most important strips of highway in the State of California, being the main outlet from the city of Los Angeles to all points north along the coast line and to the San Fernando Valley from the Hollywood district. Mulholland, when completed, will open a vast area lying in the Santa Monica Mountains and the foothills of Hollywood.

"Beverly Boulevard at the present time is about one-third completed and it is expected that this thoroughfare will be completed by the first of October, thus giving to the traveling public another scenic boulevard from Los Angeles to the ocean front north of Santa Monica.

"Grading work in connection with the South Sherman Way project will be completed at about the same time and will give another road connecting San Fernando Valley and the Sawtelle district.

"In connection with the activities of the department of the inspector of public works it might be well to say a few words regarding the problems that this department has to consider when undertaking the construction of such large projects as the Sacatela storm drain and the Jefferson-street storm drain or any other projects of such magnitude. Criticisms have been offered that the traveling public's convenience has not been considered to the extent that it should be. However, I wish to state that many engineering problems enter into the construction of these structures that cannot be foreseen and which absolutely necessitate the blocking at certain times of certain thoroughfares to which, or under which, these structures pass. It is only after due consideration and careful thought that such inconvenience is caused to the traveling public and then for only as short a period of time as is humanly possible to do so. We fully realize what inconvenience the public must stand and we fully realize that this department is the main contact between the property owners and contractor."

BROOKS FACES SHULL IN WHITTIER FIGHT

Lightweights are featured in the main event at the Whittier American Legion Boxing Club card Thursday night when Bobby Brooks of Venice and Tommy Shull of Whittier will meet in a ten-round contest. They will be fighting off a draw which they had in the show two weeks ago, in which six rounds was too short to settle supremacy.

The semi-wind-up for six rounds will have Joe Guerrero, the "Emsco Boy" trading blows with Tousy Lopez of Wilmington. Paul Semon and Sammie Baker will clash in the six-round special event. The four-rounders are Art Molina, taking on Jimmy Valentino, and Pat Patrick mixing with Rosie Johnson in the curtain raiser.

Philadelphia Oarsmen Sweep River Program

PHILADELPHIA, July 5. (Exclusive) With the exception of one race, Philadelphia oarsmen made a clean sweep in the annual People's Day regatta on the Schuylkill River today. The lone out-of-town victory was turned in by the Arundell Boat Club of Baltimore in junior four-oared gigs.

Of the twenty-one rowing races, Philadelphia crews won twenty. Washington Canoe Club, 1924 Olympic champions, took all four canoe races. It rained hard most of the afternoon, but 9000 stayed to the finish.

Walter M. Hoover, national sculling champion, had his hands full to win from Russell Codman, Jr., of Boston, representing the University Barge Club of this city, for the first time. Hoover beat Codman by half a length, the time for the mile and a quarter being 7m. 22 1-5s. Five other noted scullers started in the championship singles. W. E. Garrett, Gilmore bachelors' veteran, disappointing his followers by finishing fifth.

HUMAN NOSE IMPERFECT

The human nose is not perfectly trained and its powers are not developed to the point of providing accurate information when one depends on the power of smelling for guidance. In fact, scients say smelling is far the most imperfectly developed of the senses. It is vastly inferior to the power of sight, as by sight the average individual is able to identify many thousands of different articles and objects. While if one tries the sense of smell on a dozen odors and perfumes, there will be a poor record made, and many perfumes taken from known flowers will be perfect strangers to the human nose.—[Ohio State Journal.

HUSBAND DID THE WASHING

His Wife Confined to Her Bed by Ill Health

Because of his wife's frequent ill health, Mr. J. F. Gage was obliged to do the washing and cooking for the family.

One day when Mrs. Gage was confined to her bed, he brought her the newspaper to read. Among the advertisements she noticed a letter from another sick woman telling of the help she had received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I'll try it," she decided.

Her husband brought home a bottle and only a few days after she had begun to take it she felt well enough to be up around the house. Gradually her general health improved until she is now able to do her own work.

In a letter which Mrs. Gage recently wrote, she said, "I have taken twelve bottles and feel like a new woman." She has told many women about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of her friends is now taking it. Her address is Mrs. J. F. Gage, Route 3, Brownwood, Texas.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

BLUEJACKET CAUGHT AGAIN

Youthful Sailorman Stages Second Break

Address of Girl is Gob's Undoing

Held for Navy by Police of Long Beach

LONG BEACH, July 5.—The United States Navy seems to be having a hard time to keep Matthew Ramsey, 20-year-old seaman, in its service. The youthful bluejacket got himself into a peck of trouble aboard his ship, the dreadnaught West Virginia, two weeks ago, when, one dark night, he went over the side, taking with him, police reports show, the ship's moving-picture camera, valued at $450.

Long Beach police were appealed to and Detective Sergeant Woodruff, famous as a tracker of naval deserters, located Ramsey in Los Angeles and recovered the camera, which, it is alleged, had been pawned for a nominal sum. Ramsey was returned to his ship by the police but the confinement, plus the details of a court-martial proceeding, irked him and, on Saturday night, the sailor again jumped overboard and swam ashore.

Again Detective Sergeant Woodruff took up the hunt and last night Ramsey was again in custody. A girl's address, hastily scribbled on a card, which Ramsey had hid in on the occasion of his first arrest, led the detective to the errant gob's hiding-place last night. He will be turned over to the naval authorities once more, police said.

Preferred Death Rather Than to be Always Ill

ALHAMBRA, July 5.—Disheartened because of a protracted sickness, H. M. Thomas, 72 years of age, chose death in preference to a prospect of continued suffering. His body was found this morning on the floor of his room at 100 North Almansor street, a bullet hole behind his ear. A .32-caliber revolver lay on the floor beside him. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Turner, Stevens & Turney.

Thomas had lived in Alhambra for fourteen years, making his home with his brother, M. L. Thomas. He is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ida E. Allen, Tacoma, Wash.

Thomas, who was a native of New Hampshire and who was a member of Masonic bodies in the East, had been sick for about three months. His brother told the police and had become despondent over his condition.

BUILD EXTENSION

Spur Car Line to be Built Into Manufacturing District

VERNON, July 5.—Work started Saturday on the extension of the Los Angeles Street Railway Company's "P" line, which operates through this city, the extension to be made into Loomis avenue, from Pacific Boulevard to Downey Road, which is into the Central Manufacturing District. A crew of men from the company's construction department began the work of tearing up the pavement on the east side of its Pacific Boulevard tracks to permit the laying of rails into Loomis avenue, or Forty-eighth street. The extension will be a double-track extension, and will provide transportation into that district by many hundreds of workmen, who are making their homes in Los Angeles, Huntington Park, Walnut Park and South Gate. When Loomis avenue was paved recently, several feet in the center of the thoroughfare were left unpaved for this improvement. The City Trustees of Vernon some time ago granted a franchise to the railway company for the laying of tracks, and also, an application before the State Railroad Commission for the extension of the line was granted.

FIRE NEAR SAN DIEGO IS UNDER CONTROL

SAN DIEGO, July 5.—Guarded by a crew of twelve patrolmen, a forest fire which Saturday night and yesterday burned over 2000 acres near Live Oak Springs, was smoldering this morning, according to reports from men at the scene of the blaze.

Although the fire is practically under control, there is said to be danger of its starting again and, for this reason arrangements have been made to provide a large force of fire fighters, should they be required later in the day or tonight.

The fire which started at Newton near Jacumba, was reported out today.

THOUSANDS SPEND HIGH-UP HOLIDAY

SAN BERNARDINO, July 5.—More than 100,000 persons spent double-holiday in the San Bernardino Mountains, a count by forestry officials of automobiles indicated. The Waterman Canyon road handled 5700 automobiles into the mountains in two days. The City Creek road handled more than 4000 upbound cars.

To guard against forest fires forest rangers stopped each machine and made a search for fireworks. The downward procession of automobiles was still under way tonight. There were no serious accidents.

BUDGET OF CHURCH RAISED IN JIFFY

OWENSMOUTH, July 5.—The Owensmouth Community Church will need $10,000 as a budget to run it for the next twelve months. Rev. Clyde P. Metcalf called a meeting and 100 members and several out-of-town pastors responded. Following a talk by Rev. William A. Brown of the University Church of Los Angeles, pledges for the $10,000 were quickly made. The church's debt is $20,000. It is planned to liquidate it within the next five years.

ASK FOR LOW FARE TO BEACH

Venice Petitions Railroad For Rates on Same Basis as Given to Other Points

VENICE, July 5.—A petition for lowered rates to Venice has been presented to the Pacific Electric Railway by a committee representing various Venice organizations, it was announced today by Dr. J. H. Wolfe, chairman of the Los Angeles Good Health Club and of the committee. Others of the committee, Dr. Wolfe said, are E. J. Coyle, president of the Venice Beach Board; W. D. Newcomb, Jr., president of the First National Bank of Venice; J. R. Daniel, editor of the Venice Vanguard; Mrs. A. G. Mahan, vice-president of the Venice Women's City Club; Mrs. E. Lovelen, president of the Venice Woman's Civic Club; H. E. Pool, secretary of the Federation of Venice Civic Associations; D. J. Davis, Sr., president of the Venice Amusement Men's Association; Sherwood Kinney of the Abbott Kinney Company; H. Pool, secretary of the Del Rey Beach Improvement Association; Edward Reutler of the South Beach Property Owners' Association, and Max Markowitz of the Venice-Los Angeles Civic Club.

The petition says that the Venice rate of 70 cents is approximately 2.4 cents a mile, while that to Balboa Beach is 1.23 cents, Pasadena 1.6 cents and Redondo 1.2 cents. The Balboa rate would make the round-trip 37 cents, the petitioners state.

Pay Tribute to Patriots Under Oldest Trees

PORTERVILLE, July 5.—Featured by an impressive ceremony held under the General Sherman tree at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Giant Forest had the most successful celebration in its history, when between 6000 and 10,000 persons celebrated the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the country by motoring over the wonderful new General's Highway to that beautiful spot to attend the program arranged by the American Legion, Tulare county council.

Allan Bixby, present State commander, and Burton Pitts, past State commander, were the principal speakers. Both were in excellent form and made a deep impression upon their thousands of hearers.

Sixteen hundred and thirty-six automobiles registered through the park gates during the week-end, conveying about 5700 visitors, in addition to the 3000 or 4000 already in the park. No accidents of any kind marred a perfect day. A huge campfire and a sister program were enjoyed Sunday night under the guidance of the Forty and Eight. The Lindsay Band furnished music for the day and for the parade featured by the spirit of '76 fife-and-drum corps, perfectly costumed.

RAID "FRAT" ROOMS

Long Beach Police Report Finding Youthful Gamblers

LONG BEACH, July 5.—Brothers of one high school fraternity in Long Beach will find it difficult to meet under one roof hereafter, if local police have their way. A sudden visit by vice squad members, headed by Sergt. Davison, to the fraternity rooms of the Long Beach chapter of the Delta Sigma fraternity, at an early hour this morning led to the arrest of three youths and a promise by the police to close up the fraternity rooms at Elm avenue and Broadway.

Black jack with 25 cents as the limit, was the chief attraction for several frat members, police say. A noisy phonograph and long strings of cuss words from youthful mouths, however, proved the attraction for the police. York Quimby, 17; Jack Sturges, 17, and Merle Chapman, 16, were booked at police headquarters, and released with instructions to report to the juvenile officer tomorrow.

ODD FELLOWS TO INSTALL OFFICERS

TO GO TO COLLEGE

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 5.—Carl C. Barry, registrar at the Huntington Park Union High School, has announced that of the 232 students graduating from the high school three weeks ago, seventy have signified their intention of entering higher institutions of learning. Of this number, forty expect to enter the University of California, Southern Branch. Only two of the seventy will leave the State, one to go to a university in Arizona and another to Massachusetts.

SHORT HONEY CROP

VENTURA, July 5.—That the honey crop this season will be but half of the normal crop after all, was the statement of Bee Inspector Marks, of Moorpark, who was in Ventura this morning.

The short crop is due to a hot summer in the hills and is a disappointment to the bee men who had anticipated a record-breaking harvest following the generous spring rains. Marks said that the prices are all awry as a result.

FIRECRACKER BLAZE

MONROVIA, July 5.—The only serious mishap of a two-day Fourth of July celebration here, occurred at noon today when the awnings in front of the Arthur Asher Company, Monrovia's largest department store, were destroyed by fire. Officers say the fire was started by an exploding firecracker.

WOMEN TO BE MASTERS OF AIRCRAFT

Pretty Aviatrix Makes First Solo Flight at Santa Ana

Likes Safety of Flying

Mrs. Sacha Hall poses with her teacher, Eddie Martin before first flight alone in plane.

SANTA ANA, July 5.—If the next war is fought in the air, and all those who have any ideas about the next conflict at all seem sure it will be, then Mrs. Sacha Hall of Santa Ana will be among the first to volunteer for the American aviation forces.

That's what the pretty aviatrix said as she climbed from the cockpit after her solo flight, the first time she had been up in the ozone alone. Her teacher was Eddie Martin, well-known local flyer, who operates an airport here.

Mrs. Hall, better known as Peggy Hall, could have taken her solo several months ago, but that she wished to take advantage of the extra training.

Mrs. Hall thinks that woman will provide some of the best aviators in the next conflict. Flying is ideally suited to the female sex, she said, because of the safety of the air.

"It's really much more safe up in the air than down on the ground with motor cars chasing you all the time," she remarked.

Her next ambition is to own her own plane, so she can give stunt flying exhibitions at Southern California outdoor events.

Newport Bay Suggested as Base for Navy

NEWPORT BEACH, July 5.—Efforts to secure government assistance in establishing an emergency naval seaplane base on Newport Bay are being made by a large number of citizens and yachting men here, it was revealed today. The plan of the men will call for improvement of the harbor entrance to allow good-sized ships to sail in and out and will probably mean that auxiliary navy training quarters will be established here.

Sponsors of the plan declare that Newport Bay is an excellent place for the development of such a project. They point out that it is one of three smooth bodies of water along the Coast of Southern California. San Diego an dSan Pedro having the other two still-water harbors.

The advocates of the plan also declare that an emergency landing spot is a necessity along the Coast of Orange county. More than seven seaplanes have been forced into the ocean in the vicinity during the past year, they point out.

Local mariners are also making efforts to secure the famous cutter Bear for Newport Bay. The establishment of a Coast Guard cutter base in Newport Bay is also considered a possibility by local boating men. Coast Guard cutters are now making Newport Bay a port of call and are keeping a careful watch on the bay entrance.

LONDON POST HAS HAD EVENTFUL HISTORY

The London Morning Post has celebrated its one hundred and fifty-third birthday. Among its contributors have been Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Wordsworth and Southey, all of whom not only contributed verse, but editorial articles considered of weight in their day. Charles Lamb contributed "smart paragraphs," for which he was paid at the rate of 12 cents each, the New York Times says.

Poets seem to have marked the Morning Post for their own, for Mackworth Praed, a writer of fine lyrics, was its chief political writer in 1832. Praed was followed by Benjamin Disraeli, and in later years Andrew Lang and Rudyard Kipling were contributors. The Morning Post has through the years preserved its die-hard conservatism, and is recognized as the organ of the British aristocracy.

COLLEGE SINGERS APPEAR AT RESORT

IDYLLWILD, July 5.—On Saturday the 23rd inst., the Lyman Quartet from Pomona will hold an open-air popular concert in Recreation Bowl at Idyllwild. The hour is set for 7:30, just at dusk. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

AUTOIST'S INJURIES CONSIDERED FATAL

REDONDO BEACH, July 5. (AP)—Jack Perry, 15, Los Angeles, was seriously injured near here early today when his automobile was struck by one driven by Carl Strong of Lomita. Strong, who was said by a police physician, to have been drinking, was held in jail awaiting the outcome of Perry's injuries. Perry was taken to a hospital here, where physicians expressed doubt that he would recover.

THOUSANDS AT PICNIC

VISALIA, July 5.—Twenty-five hundred automobiles and 10,000 persons attended the Tulare county farm bureau picnic at Mooney Grove today. The relay races, barnyard golf and dancing furnished amusement. The chief speakers of the day were J. J. Beuel and James P. Whittlesey, Earl C. Houghton, State president of the California Farm Bureau Federation, is a Tulare county resident and actively interested in these picnics, which are annual affairs and growing in popularity.

Strive to Cut Down Landmark Near Duarte

DUARTE, July 5.—Whether or not a huge tree in the middle of a boulevard is defensible as a traffic guide is a subject of general discussion in the foothill section today, as the result of a campaign to eliminate the famous Duarte oak on Foothill Boulevard.

This well-known obstruction at the corner of Foothill Boulevard and Highland avenue is held up as a horrible example in 900 letters sent out today to police and civic organizations through the county by the Lamanda Park Men's Brotherhood, a church organization, headed by William D. Shoemaker, president, who has declared war on "such trees."

Devoting more space to the Duarte landmark, the brotherhood quotes the owner of the tree, Capt. H. D. Fowler, pioneer Duarte rancher, as declaring that it prevents automobile accidents at this busy intersection and that "if the tree is removed an emergency hospital must be erected in its place."

Chief Peeler found able support in Jim Quiggle, veteran constable of Monrovia township, who agreed with the "hospital" sentiment.

"That oak is the best traffic cop in Southern California," Quiggle declared. "If it wasn't for that tree we'd be hauling them into the hospital here every day. That tree's mighty unhealthy looking and maybe them take at least a little precaution in rounding the Duarte store curve, one of the worst in the valley."

Odds were offered that the Lamanda Park churchmen were out of luck as far as the Duarte landmark is concerned.

HURT IN TRAFFIC ON SAN FERNANDO ROAD

PACOIMA, July 5.—Notwithstanding thousands upon thousands of motorists and autos passing through here today, over San Fernando Road bound for outing resorts over and beyond the Ridge Route, only a few accidents of minor results occurred here or within a radius of several miles. The only accident noted by police was the one in which James Martin of San Fernando suffered. While driving near Osborn avenue, his car came in collision with one driven by J. W. Asking of Van Nuys. Martin suffered severe cuts and bruises. He was taken to the Van Nuys Emergency Hospital for treatment. Regarded for some time as the most-traveled thoroughfare in Southern California, old-timers in this vicinity today stated that the traffic on San Fernando Road this July Fourth was probably twice as much as last year.

LAGUNA BEACH, July 5.—Tony Coskins, 16 years of age and weighing sixty pounds covered himself with glory yesterday when he plunged through the surf to save a drowning boy who had been carried out by the rip tide that was running high. Tony pushed his companion out beyond the line of breakers and kept him afloat for more than twenty minutes while a line was being taken from the shore to assist in bringing the boys to safety.

Tony is a cadet of Page Military Academy of this city and it was at the school that he learned the life-saving method that he put to such valuable use.

(Exclusive) Calling for cash rental of $5400 a year until drilling begins, together with one-sixth royalties and bonuses, reported to extend into thousands of dollars, Alfred Puhrman has leased another 120 acres of potential oil land in the Poso fields to the Shell company, thus obligating the company to drill an additional twelve wells in the area to the northwest of this city. The property is located just south of Poso Creek, in the northwest and northeast quarters of Sec. 4, 28-28.

YOUNGSTERS TO HAVE PLAY DAYS

Ontario Provides Supervision of Grounds

First Park to be Opened in Mexican Quarter

Alhambra Plans Elaborate Summer Program

ONTARIO, July 5.—Plenty of healthful outdoor play is assured the Latin-American children of Ontario this summer with the inauguration this week of supervised playground programs at the Sultana School in the Mexican quarter. The play center will be operated throughout the vacation months under the direction of Reed H. Clapp, director of physical training at Chaffey High School, and was made possible through the co-operation of the school and the City Council.

During the past week, Clapp, accompanied by the school nurse, has visited many of the Mexican homes for the purpose of explaining to parents that the use of the playground is absolutely without charge and urging the necessity of their children taking sufficient clean and healthful outdoor exercise. Roy Vic, assistant to Clapp, will be in active charge of the Sultana grounds and he plans on organizing various ball teams among the youngsters, in addition to instructing them in use of the apparatus that is being installed.

Clapp says that he believes the program he has outlined will greatly benefit the health of the Mexican children. The playgrounds, he says, will be extended to all parts of the city, for all children, as rapidly as possible. Due to a recent donation of $700, made for the purpose by the City Council, free swims and swimming instruction may be had by all Ontario youngsters at the Chaffey plunge throughout the summer.

ALL KINDS OF FUN FOR ALHAMBRA FOLK

ALHAMBRA, July 5.—Recreational activities will be an important phase of the vacation period in this city, wide interest being shown in the start of the summer program, which is in charge of the City Playground Commission.

W. R. Hillebrand is the general supervisor of the recreation program, with a corps of assistants for various branches of the work. The municipal park is headquarters, while sports and other events are held at the playgrounds of the schools.

The Twilight Baseball League sponsored by the Playground Commission will swing into action Tuesday, with eight teams entered. The games will be played on the high school and the park diamonds. The Alhambra A. C., city firemen; city police, City Hall employees, De Molays, playgrounds, schools and Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company are represented in the league.

Handball, tennis and volleyball tournaments are being arranged. A women's volleyball league will be formed. Instruction in swimming will be given at the park plunge.

The parent-teacher associations of the district are co-operating in the playground work and have arranged to stage community programs each Friday night at the city park.

Events for children of grammar school age have been mapped out by Hillebrand. These will include jackstone contests, kite flying, harmonica contests, pushmobile contests and other juvenile sports.

At all the centers instruction in practical work will be given by competent teachers. Reed work, modeling, sloyd and basket weaving will be taught.

SERIOUS AUTO CRASH

Four Injured When Cars Collide Near Bakersfield

BAKERSFIELD, July 5.—Two women were seriously injured, and two men escaped with scratches and bruises, when two heavy machines collided on the State highway seven miles north of Bakersfield early this morning.

The injured are Naomi B. Parks, Oakland, severely cut wrist, weakened condition from loss of blood. Rev. X. C. Runyon, Oakland, bruises. Mrs. X. C. Runyon, Oakland, bruises, shock, possible internal injuries, possible fractured shoulder. R. C. Cage, Oakland, cuts and bruises.

According to a report of the accident given by the local traffic department, the Oakland party was en route from Oakland to Bakersfield, when a heavy coupe driven by Jack Winther of Bakersfield, an employee of the Bakersfield Creamery, crashed into them, totally demolishing the northern car. Motorcycle Officers Fred Payne and Deputy Sheriff Phil Pickert were called to the scene of the crash, and the four accident victims were taken to Bakersfield Emergency Hospital where they were attended.

Rev. Runyon and Mr. Cage were released from the hospital after first-aid treatment. According to officials, Winther, driver of the other machine, was asleep when the automobiles crashed. Broken glass from the windshield cut to the bone of Naomi Parks's wrist, severing the arteries and tendons, and causing severe loss of blood. She also received a deep laceration on her forehead. Mrs. Runyon also is in a serious condition.

THIEVES WORK FAST TO STEAL FIFTY HENS

VAN NUYS, July 5.—Chicken thieves proved to be too quick for George M. Hasking of 14126 Sherman Way, formerly Tulare street, and his patent chicken-burglar alarm. Haskins and his wife were seated in their ranch home when they heard the alarm ring. They rushed out just in time to see a light truck scoot around the corner, the squawk of the chickens in the truck drowning down the whirr of the motor. On going back to the henhouse, Haskins found that fifty of his prize hens had been taken by the thieves.

Maddened Bull Gores Fighter at Tia Juana

SAN DIEGO, July 5.—Gored by a wild bull before hundreds of spectators in a bull ring at Tia Juana yesterday, Alfredo Quijno today is in serious condition at the Elwyn Sanatorium at National City.

According to reports of the goring by witnesses, Quijno tried to draw first blood from the bull by piercing the animal's shoulders and back with long darts. He plunged the weapons into the bull and tormented the bull-ring waif. The infuriated animal charged suddenly, impaling Quijno on one of its horns and tossing the bloody fighter into the air.

The fighter staggered to his feet from the dust and before the bull could charge again, stumbled to the wall and was pulled over. He was treated at a Tia Juana hospital and taken to the Elwyn Sanatorium by Deputy Sheriff Gardner of San Diego. Several women fainted when the accident took place and many spectators cut to 100 men.

Quijno told hospital attendants that he is assistant collector of customs at Tecate.

Two Firemen Hurled From Reeling Truck

ALHAMBRA, July 5. (Exclusive)—Two firemen standing on the rear step of a chemical engine going to a grass fire were thrown to the street when the engine struck a depression at Garfield and Newmark avenues, Monterey Park, today. William Bishop, 40 years of age, was taken to the Alhambra Hospital in a serious condition, suffering from a fractured skull. Ray Wright, 20, was badly bruised.

A woman believed to be Mrs. R. S. Shalley, about 60 years of age, formerly employed in Los Angeles as a maid, was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Vivian Chelton, 1581½ North Avenue 24, Los Angeles, at Main and Marengo streets, police reported. Mrs. Shalley was taken to the Alhambra Hospital unconscious and died later tonight. She suffered internal injuries.

TWO OFFICERS ASK PAY FOR SAME JOB

SEAL BEACH, July 5.—When City Trustees here ousted City Marshal Julius A. Hammer a month ago they neglected to declare the office of city traffic officer, also held by Hammer, vacant. At a meeting of the Trustees it was revealed that Hammer realized the mistake. He has presented a demand for $150, the salary allowed the traffic officer each month.

S. F. Foster, who was appointed to succeed Hammer, also presented the city a bill for $150 for traffic service. City Trustees were agreed that they made a mistake, but have also been informed that Hammer and Foster can collect the money if they press the case. Both of the men cannot be paid from the city funds, however, and it is a question which one of the Trustees will be willing to donate $150. Mayor Dolley has offered to pay the money out of his own pocket. The matter has been referred to the police committee for investigation.

IN POLITICAL RACE

Tustin Man is Candidate for Supervisor

TUSTIN, July 5.—James Warner, local man, had today cast his hat into the ring in the race for the office of County Supervisor from the Fifth District. Warner, for the past sixteen years a resident of Tustin, is a prominent rancher, and well known throughout the district. For the past nine years he has built roads in all sections of the Fifth District and in other parts of the county, as a county employee.

He claims the unique distinction of having built more roads than any other one man in Orange county and will base much of his campaign on his record during the nine years of county service. He will have opposition from S. F. Stanley and Howard Wheeler, prominent Tustin ranchers, and George Jeffrey of Irvine, incumbent.

BOND ISSUE TO PAY SEWER EXTENSION

LA HABRA, July 5.—An election will be held in the La Habra sanitary district on the 20th inst. for the purpose of voting on a $50,000 bond issue for the completion of the La Habra sewer system and paying La Habra's share in the cost of extending the outfall sewer into the ocean in accordance with orders issued by the State Board of Health.

The election was ordered at a meeting of the directors of the sanitary district this week. It is primarily necessary at this time on account of the proposed extension of the outfall into the ocean which was ordered by the State Board of Health as a result of complaints from property owners in the vicinity of the outlet that the waters of the ocean were being contaminated. All the cities and sanitary districts using the outfall will share in this expense.

The force of men fighting in the Kings River country has been reduced to 300, and unless unexpected bad weather occurs it is considered conquered after burning over a total of 30,000 acres.

DRAMA OF CHRIST IS RE-ENACTED

Pilgrimage Play Opens For New Season in Hollywood Hills Tomorrow Night

The final rehearsals of the "Pilgrimage Play," which opens its seventh annual season tomorrow night reveal, it is said, a very splendidly balanced production of the drama that has been called America's Passion Play.

With its lofty theme it becomes the greatest drama of all time. It is a literal transcription of the biblical record of the earthly career of Jesus Christ. Reverently it is presented through twelve episodes, a prologue of prophecy and an epilogue of promise.

The "Pilgrimage Play" has been set amid the natural rugged scenery of the Hollywood hills and is given nightly, Sundays excepted, throughout the summer at the Pilgrimage Theater, situated one block north of the junction of Cahuenga and Highland avenues, in Hollywood.

William Reversham will play the role of the Christus, with the Samaiman A Cappella Choir of forty mixed voices offering a musical accompaniment that is said to add a new note to the presentation.

Theater Shows Young Star in Part of Crook

Can love reform a young girl whose desire for excitement has made her a leader of a band of confidence men?

Such is the problem that forms the theme of "The Little Irish Girl," starring Dolores Costello, which comes to the Figueroa Theater Friday.

From the delicately sensitive girl in "The Sea Beast" to a hard-boiled young woman of the world is a long jump, but it is said Miss Costello makes it with ease. Johnny Harron plays opposite her.

The prologue will introduce thirty youngsters whom Jack Laughlin calls the "California Babies." Some of them will impersonate the motion-picture stars, and it is said that they do it well.

REVUE RUN EXTENDED

New Attraction at Majestic After Will Morrissey Show

The engagement of Bill Morrissey's Music Hall Revue at the Majestic will be extended with a final performance to be staged with the Bohemian Midnight Matinee Saturday evening, the 17th inst., according to Michael Corper.

As a result of unauthentic reports, many Angelenos were disappointed to learn that the Morrissey show was to have closed yesterday. Mr. Corper declared that he had no intention of closing the production as per rumor, but was making preparations to terminate its run on the 10th inst. However, he announced yesterday, the engagement of the revue will be extended to the 17th inst, with a new attraction opening the following Sunday.

REST AT LAST FOR MAY

For First Time in Several Years She Gets Vacation

Fate has at last dealt kindly with May McAvoy. For the first time since she terminated her agreement with the Paramount organization she has been enabled to enjoy a vacation of over one day.

In the several years that have elapsed, Miss McAvoy has signed with one producer immediately after finishing a previous assignment.

For the past two weeks she has cast aside all thoughts of labor in favor of a life of ease on the sands in front of her beach home. She keenly anticipated another week of this pleasure, until she received a request from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials to return for additional scenes in "The Fire Brigade," cofeaturing May and Charles Ray.

PARAMOUNT GETS BUSY ON THREE PICTURES

NEW YORK, July 5. (Exclusive)—With the Fourth of July holiday over Paramount expects to get busy next week on three productions, all three of them having their first shots made on Monday, the 12th inst. The three stories are "The Ace of Cads" to feature Adolphe Menjou, an original story by Michael Arlen to be directed by Luther Reed; "The Quarterback" with Richard Dix, directed by Fred Newmeyer and W. C. Fields's latest comedy "So's Your Old Man" under the direction of Gregory LaCava.

"The Great Gatsby" is the only picture now being made at the Long Island studio and it will be completed according to schedule on the 16th inst.

INTERMISSION!
by HERBERT MOULTON

Ruth Chatterton, who is now headlining at the Orpheum in a one-act play, will play the role of Iris in Michael Arlen's "The Green Hat," which is scheduled to open at the El Capitan Theater in Hollywood the latter part of this month or early August, according to Edward D. Smith, manager of the theater.

Miss Chatterton was sought out by Mr. Smith during his visit to New York last week and while her plans for the immediate future had been set along different lines she immediately got busy with a view to canceling several outstanding contracts and on her arrival in Los Angeles to fulfill an engagement at the Orpheum informed the El Capitan management that she would be able to create the part of Iris here when "The Green Hat" is given its first Pacific Coast presentation.

Ruth Chatterton has appeared here in many productions, usually as the leading woman with Henry Miller in plays he presented here annually, for many seasons. Miss Chatterton's most noteworthy achievements were attained in "Daddy Long Legs," "Come Out of The Kitchen," "The Rainbow" and "La Tendresse," in all of which she appeared here.

It is said that Miss Chatterton was slated to play the part in the original American production, but in the final analysis plans were formulated otherwise. The remainder of the cast of "The Green Hat" is being selected by Mr. Smith and it is expected that rehearsals will start within a few days.

Show's His Old Man

It's getting to be quite the fad to portray one's pater on the screen lately.

RUDOLPH VALENTINO

Doug Fairbanks did it quite effectively in "Don Q," as you will remember, and now comes the not - to - be - outdone Rudolph Valentino with a similar dual flash in "The Son of the Sheik," which we will see at a public "preview" Thursday at the Million Dollar.

But portraying the role of both son and father in a single scene is not an easy task, especially when the player has formerly depicted the father when he was at the same age as the son in a previous picture.

Rudy played the title role in his famous "The Sheik," of course, and now in the sequel he plays the father. In some of the most dramatic sequences of the picture the father, bewhiskered and showing a few lines of middle-age, but still a fiery warrior, meets his own very youthful son in a clash of wills.

It was one time, at least, when Rudy could really tell himself what he thought of that Valentino guy.

Concentrated Pulchritude

The motion-picture studios aren't going to hold a corner on all the beauty in Southern California.

Fanchon and Marco, at any rate, plan to see that some of it is assembled at Loew's State Theater, where the patrons may gaze upon it, as is were, in the flesh.

These clever producers of West Coast Theater stage presentations are going to organize a chorus of beauties, all of them to be recruited from our own fair Southland, that will make such connoisseurs of pulchritude as Flo Ziegfeld and Ned Weyburn rub their eyes.

Last year they took a company of California damsels to New York with them. Before the Fanchon & Marco show finished its Broadway run, according to the reports, every girl in the company had been engaged by either Ziegfeld for his "Follies" or by the Winter Garden.

"We did not bring one girl or one principal back with us," declared Marco yesterday. "That one experience proves that the world's greatest beauties are here in Southern California. And Fanchon and I intend to organize for Loew's State Theater the greatest beauty chorus ever seen anywhere in the world—a chorus of superlative beauties.

"We shall take our time selecting the members of this chorus. Probably they will be chosen one by one. There is much material to choose from. Beauties come here from all over the world, attracted by the movies. If they do not at once make good in pictures, they want something else to do.

"We shall hold a series of contests. From each contest we intend to make selections. The contests probably will be held once a month on the stage of the theater. By the end of a few months we shall have a beauty chorus that will surpass in loveliness any chorus ever seen in New Yoerk."

"Raining" Dollars and Cents

The New York offices of the Sam H. Harris Attractions, the organization that controls the road showing of "Rain," is highly elated over the play's success at the Biltmore here.

According to figures received from the East, the first week of "Rain" in Los Angeles grossed $30,000, which they claim is the largest intake the Biltmore has ever had for a non-musical play.

San Francisco, too, they add, contributed liberally to the play, establishing new records at the Columbia Theater there.

Jeanne Eagels is now in her third week at the Biltmore, and following the run of the play will return to San Francisco for a fortnight. After that the company will go to Denver and other western cities, arriving in New York early in September.

Realism—and Apache Love

Just because Director Edmund Goulding insisted on something closely approximating realism, Joan Crawford and Douglas Gilmore nearly landed in the hospital.

This happened during the filming of "Paris," the photoplay offering which comes to Loew's Friday. The episode might be termed a lover's quarrel, but it almost turned out to be a massacre.

It started when Gilmore showed displeasure over Joan's flirtation by attempting to choke her.

She responded by attempting to slip a dagger between his second and third rib.

Whereupon he politely dumped her on the floor and picked her up by the hair.

She registered real Apache love by scratching and kicking.

"It was not as realistic as a real Apache love spat," says Goulding, "because I didn't let him cut her throat."

Gray Bests Taxi Company While in Palm Beach

In Florida they charge twenty cents a mile for drive-it-yourself cars. It is the cheapest form of transportation. You can get the cars in any city and turn them in at your destination, just as is done around California. But in Florida the cars are all exactly alike.

Lawrence Gray, who is Bebe Daniels's leading man in "The Palm Beach Girl," now being shown at the Metropolitan Theater, hired a car in Miami while the company was there filming exteriors for the picture. He drove it seventy miles to Palm Beach, entered a hotel, came out and got into what he thought was the same car.

When he turned it in a half hour later they told him the bill was three dollars, which would have been approximately fifteen miles. He didn't argue about it, but he is still wondering what the other fellow said when he turned in the car that had been driven seventy miles.

Cinderella is Seen Once Again at Loew's State

A piano scarf transformed by the fingers of Colleen Moore into a ballroom cape is the medium through which the star, portraying a modern Cinderella, is enabled to win a beauty contest in her latest vehicle, "Ella Cinders," now showing at Loew's State.

Colleen, it is said, has never made a picture that has afforded such enormous enjoyment to her following of fans, and Lloyd Hughes, as the foe man, whose winning way captures her heart, is again proving himself an ideal leading man for the star.

The picture is based on the newspaper comic strip of the same name.

FINDS INTEREST IN MUSIC OF AMERICA

ESTHER DALE WINS PLAUDITS OF CONTINENT DURING CONCERT TOUR

The return from Europe this week of Esther Dale, the American soprano, marks another mile-post in the American invasion of the European musical field. During four months in Europe, Miss Dale found a friendly and enthusiastic welcome alike in England, France, Belgium and Germany. She reports that "a new attitude of cordial acceptance toward American music and musicians is replacing the former atmosphere of guarded tolerance." Everywhere, she says, American women are leaders in the musical invasion of Europe.

Her European concerts this year have brought new honors to American music. Three London performances were so successful that repetitions were arranged, and she has been invited to return next year as the season's soloist for the London Symphony, in both its London and provincial appearances. Her voice was in great demand among the buyers of "records" in England, where the phonograph is still a power in the musical world. Germany hailed her as a "lieder singer." France welcomed her "dramatic quality," and England acclaimed the same traits of intellect and sympathy which have made her so popular in New England.

Miss Dale now hastens westward for a series of summer concerts in Illinois, Nebraska and on the Pacific Coast, where she will again be the soloist of the Hollywood Bowl in an orchestral concert directed by Willem von Hoogstraten.

PROGRAM PRESENTED BY CARTHAY CHURCH

Amanda Chapel, the Union Church in Carthay Center, presented last week a dramatic and musical program, followed by a social community meeting for the new people of the district.

"The Spirit of '76," written and directed by Rev. William C. Isett, which depicted the difficulty of rehabilitation of a wounded soldier of the late war, was the one-act play on the program.

CONKLIN WILL TAKE JAUNT

Chester Conklin is going to the "Land of the Midnight Sun" for his first vacation in five years. The Paramount comedian plans to leave within the next week for Alaska, where he will spend several weeks previous to playing his first role as featured player under the Famous Players-Lasky banner. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Conklin.

FOX CONTRACTS MATIESEN

Otto Matiesen has just signed a Fox contract under the terms of which he will play a prominent role in "Whispering Wires," an Al Ray production. The Danish actor made his first American appearance for Fox several years ago. Matiesen will soon be seen in "The Silver Treasure" and "Yellow Fingers," productions of the same organization.

OUT LOOKING FOR LOCATIONS

Edward H. Griffith entered on his duties at the M-G-M studios this week, where he is to direct Charles Ray, by leaving at once for a trip in search of locations. A citizens' training camp and several exteriors are necessary. The Ray picture is to be a story of high-powered salesmanship. Griffith recently completed "Attaboy," starring Monty Banks, for Pathe.

OGLE BACK IN PICTURES

After an absence of a year and a half from pictures Charles Ogle has deserted Long Beach temporarily to play under Director Sam Wood in the Red Grange production, "The Half Back." Ogle is stopping at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel and says his time in Long Beach is constantly occupied with chess, meetings of the Pixby Bridge Club, and his own particular horseshoe league.

"Fine Manners," Gloria Swanson's latest effort for Paramount, has been completed at the Long Island studio under the direction of Richard Boonson. The story is an original. Eugene O'Brien, Walter Goss and Helen Dunbar had the principal roles in support of the star.
